High School Teachers, Board Not Near Accord

by WANDALYN RICE

With just one month left before the start of school, negotiators for the High School Dist. 211 school board and teachers report they have not reached agreement on a single substantive item in the 1972-73 teachers' contract.

In a statement issued Friday, officers of the Dist. 211 Education Association, bargaining agent for the teachers, expressed "guarded optimism" about the negotiations, but said they would continue to pressure the board for a settlement.

Ron Avery, chairman of the negotiating team, said, "one of the major issues is that the board wants to avoid putting any working conditions into contract language."

Education Association officials said, however, in the prepared statement that the board seemed more flexible at the last bargaining session Wednesday and expressed optimism for that reason. The next session is scheduled for Aug. 3.

AVERY SAID THE teachers are asking for specific guarantees on class size, teacher-administration policy committees and teacher evaluation procedures spelled out in the contract. The board, he said, "seems to be willing to agree on some things, but they want to put it in their policy manual and not in the contract."

Robert Seger, chief spokesman for the board bargaining team, agreed that the board's unwillingness to spell some things out in the contract has been the major stumbling block in recenh bargaining sessions.

He said the board does not want to spell out things like evaluation procedures in the contract because "it opens up so many things for a grievance. If we put something in the contract we won't be able to move from it for a year, even if we find out something is wrong with it. We're looking for flexibility on a lot of issues. We don't want an iron-clad situation."

The biggest problem, he said, is that the teacher representatives "seem to have a feeling of distrust. They seem to be saying that nothing will work unless it is in the contract."

BARGAINING between the two teams has been going on since February, although it broke down briefly in March before the board agreed to discuss teachers' proposals regarding class size, policy making and other areas not included in previous contracts.

In the past, the teachers in Dist. 211 have had a contract that dealt only with salary and fringe benefits.

Avery said neither side has started talking about salaries for the coming year. "We feel these other issues (class size, etc) are as important to us as money," he said.

Teachers workshops are scheduled for Aug. 23 and 24 in Dist. 211 and Aug. 25 is scheduled for freshman orientation.

Aug. 25 will be the first official day of the school year.

Avery said members of the education association are concerned about the possibility of beginning the year without an agreement. He said the association does not yet have authorization from its members to call a strike in that event.

Seger said the board has wanted a settlement before the beginning of school all along, particularly since it is now deep in discussion of the 1972-73 budget. He added, "I'm not as optimistic as I was before largely because I haven't seen any movement on the part of the teachers."

Hospital Is Only Part Of Growth Plan

by STEVE BROWN

Last week's announcement by Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center of plans to build a 200-bed hospital in Schaumburg represents only one segment of a major expansion program, according to hospital officials. Full details of the hospital's plans were released Friday.

The institution's lon-term development plans call for construction of a duplicate of the $12.5 million Schaumburg facility to be located in Park Firest South and a large expansion of the Rush Medical College. Officials said the Park Forest South hospital will be very similar to the facility planned for Schaumburg.

The Phase III program will require the expenditure of nearly $60 million in new facilities and manpower.

The expansion of the medical college will make room for a new nursing school and other allied health education facilities.

PRESBYTERIAN-ST. LUKE'S officials said the Park Forest South hospital which is located in the far south Chicago suburbs, will be built adjacent to the new Governor's State Univesity there.

Both the facilities in Schaumburg and Park Forest South will initially have about 25 physicians on their staffs.

The Schaumburg hospital will be known as the north campus of the institution's network. Besides the main facility located in Chicago, the medical center has also signed operating agreements with five other local hospitals.

Some educational programs and training operations will probably be conducted at both the Schaumburg and Park Forest South hospitals after operation is begun, the officials said.

Boy, 16, Drowns In Basin

A 16-year-old Schaumburg boy drowned Saturday night while swimming in the flooded ditch that is to become the Wilke-Kirchoff roads storm water retention basin in Arlington Heights.

The body of Jeffery Thal, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Thal, 1402 Tonset, Schaumburg, was recovered from the water at 9:34 a.m. yesterday by divers from the Wheeling Fire Department.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, at 9:45 a.m. A Cook County Coroner's investigation will be held.

A night-long search for Thal was conducted by area fire and police departments, first with patrol boats and then with divers after daybreak. Arlington Heights police first learned that Thal was missing at 12:45 a.m. yesterday.

THE BOY apparently had gone in swimming with several friends late Saturday night, according to police.

They were swimming in the pond and decided to leave, agreeing to meet somewhere when they got out of the water.

Thal reportedly told his friends that he would walk back to shore through shallow areas of the pond and meet his friends. When he didn't show up, his friends called the police.

Eight divers from Wheeling, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights joined the search for the boy during the morning. They were assisted by patrol boats and back-up men from Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows.

Divers Robert Trausch and Chuck Conway found the boy's body in what was described as a deep area of the pond, 250 feet south of the north shore and 125 feet east of the west shore, nearly three hours after they had joined the search.

According to a source in the Arlington Heights Fire Department, this was the first drowning at that site.

The property belongs to the Village of Arlington Heights. Through a cooperative venture between the village and the Metropolitan Sanitary District it will be turned into a 14-acre storm water retention basin.

When completed, it likely will be maintained as a recreation area by the Arlington Heights Park District. It will be designed to have a dry bottom except after heavy rains.

Membership In ZPG Group Drops Off Sharply

by MARY HUTCHINGS

Even if every family in Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates limited itself to two children, it would still take 70 years to approach zero population growth.

With the peak of the environmental movement in 1970, the Northwest Suburban chapter of Zero Population Growth (ZPG) was founded.

A year and a half later, the press has drawn attention to the "birth dearth" and consequently membership has dropped off significantly.

WITH ONLY EIGHT "hard core" members left, it is hard for the group to do everything it feels it should. The group was designed to publicize the problem of population growth as the root of all other environmental evils, including air and water pollution and rape of our natural resources.

In Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates, the impact of the group is hard to measure. In an informal survey at Weathersfield Commons, Schaumburg, slightly more than half of the housewives interviewed last week had never heard of the local chapter.

While birth rates nationally have dropped, the trend may be only temporary, says president Mrs. Joan Brosseit. The economy, the war, and the fact that people are staying in school longer may be contributing factors, she says.

There are still plenty of reasons for concern, she points out, noting the label on shrimp cans explaining this season's lack of supply, the quota system on parks and the rapid disappearance of natural resources.

The group supports educational campaigns on all environmental concerns, free information on contraceptives and abortion reform.

HOUSEWIVES IN Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates seem to support these endeavors without being active in any special group.

Twelve of 16 women interviewed thought birth control information and devices should be available to anyone who wants them and nine felt abortion should be legalized.

Most women felt family size was a matter of personal taste and of finances. "I have one child and plan to stop," said a young Schaumburg mother. "I can't afford any more. I'm paying taxes now to cover those that have 'who knows how many kids.' I was here before all this (Schaumburg's growth) started and my taxes have doubled."

A blonde mother of two agreed suburbanites have too many children, but is unwilling to join any organization, for fear that it would be considered a slap in the face by her neighbors and friends, many of whom have families of four and five.

ZPG aims to dispel the myth that people should have as many children as they can afford. Middle and upperclass families account for the greatest proportion of population growth, Mrs. Brosseit explains, saying, "It's no longer valid just to have as many children as you want or think you can afford."

Jim Peterson, secretary of the local chapter, is a Hoffman Estates resident who describes this area as "conservative as far as things like this go." While he senses support for much of the ZPG platform, he also senses an unwillingness to get involved.

Mrs. Brosseit cites the Catholic influence in this area as hindering progress somewhat here, particularly in support of abortion reform or free birth control information.

ONE CATHOLIC mother of three said, "I'd never let my daughter have an abortion. If she made a mistake, let her pay for it."

The same Schaumburg housewife believed only married women should be given birth control information.

Her sentiments were echoed by a Hoffman Estates non-Catholic who believes what is needed is "more moral training. You shouldn't give birth control information to teens too young to know what they're doing."

Ironically, it was a mother of five who said the most emphatically, "everyone has too many children, including me."

But suburbanites will probably continue to have what ZPG members would call more than their share of children because they believe, as one Hoffman Estates mother, that "four is the perfect three gives you a middle child who usually has problems."

ZPG meets the fourth Tuesday of the month, next on July 25, at 8 p.m. at Lauterberg and Oehler Funeral Home, Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights.

Activities planned include a flea market to raise funds for literature and a fall program of films and speakers for the public.

The group's dues of $15 a year help to support one-fourth of the environmental lobbyists in Washington. The group also publishes a newsletter for its members.

Canada Authorities Seek Missing Resident

Authorities in British Columbia, Canada, have been searching for more than a week for a vacationing Hoffman Estates resident, who disappeared after an accident there.

Reports indicate that Thomas Faust, 236 Grand Canyon Pkwy., Hoffman Estates, apparently slipped into a river while taking pictures into British Columbia.

A search for the man has been under way since July 13, but Faust has not been found.

No other information about the accident or the search is available at present.

How Much Is A Board Worth?

by STEVE NOVICK

A scuffle brewing in Hoffman Estates, and one liable to be thrown into the ring at tonight's village board meeting, is the question of increased salaries for the mayor and village trustees.

At the heart of the issue is a difference between what Mayor Frederick Downey feels the positions should pay and the feelings of the six trustees.

Downey said the mayor should get between $6,000 and $8,400 per year and trustees should be paid $3,000 to $3,600.

The trustees, voicing their feelings in an ordinance vetoed by Downey, say the mayor should be paid $2,400 annually and trustees should receive $1,200.

Downey says he spends between 20 to 30 hours a week at the job and that trustees spend 50 to 60 hours a month in tasks for the village.

ON THE PHILOSOPHY that elected village officials should be willing to work for the community for less than they deserve, I'll use the following criteria and offer a compromise.

Take the conservative side of Downey's figures and say he gives 20 hours a week to his job as mayor and that the trustees give an average of 50 hours a month to their responsibilities.

Let's also assume that the minimum wage law in this country is $2.20 per hour and that an elected official deserves twice that amount, at least. What do we come up with?

Rounding off the figures as they multiply out, the mayor could be paid $4,500 a year, including his salary as liquor commissioner, and the trustees $2,650 a year.

The choice of salaries as Downey, the board, and I have suggested are somewhat arbitrary, so let's look at what the community is getting for its money.

FIRST THING to be pointed out is that none of these salaries are applicable to any of the village board members during their current term of office.

Second, the Hoffman Estates electorate is not in the habit of electing fly-by-nights to the village board. Most elected officials in recent years have been proven community servants who appear to have the town's best interest at heart — not their own pocketbooks.

The current elected officials have given the community a balanced budget each successive year they've held office without an increase in taxes that go for municipal operations.

Their care with the community's dollars should be the greatest incentive for a willingness to pay the figure offered.

The question, from here, boils down to whether qualified people are going to continue to be elected for these public offices; not whether the salary assigned to the positions is worthwhile to the taxpayer.

FROM THE SLATES evidenced in the past two village board elections it's a safe bet Hoffman Estates will be able to come up with worthwhile mayors and trustees in the future.

If bad actors are ever elected to office in the village, the price the taxpayers will have to pay won't be reflected in shell-outs to greedy or careless politicians.

The price would be paid in sell-outs by the bad actors.

It's up to the electorate to put good people in office, and not to worry about the extra $6,000 or $8,000 a year spent annually on people who have put in their hands $1 million a year of public funds.

Patti D. Sander will be one of the students featured in the book. Only graduating seniors in the upper three per cent of the nation in scholarship, character and extra-curricular activities are listed.

Motorless Boating On Lakes OKd

It will be "anchors aweigh" at the Hoffman Estates Park District starting today. Approval for use of non-powered boats on three of the district's lakes was received last week.

According to the regulations approved by the park board, boating will be allowed from 6 a.m. until dusk on lakes in Highland, Highpoint and Pinger parks. Only rowboats, canoes and small sailboats, not longer than 16 feet, will be allowed on the lakes. Park officials will not allow the use of rubber boats, innertubes or rafts on the lakes.

Skippers of the boats must be at least 14-years-old according to park district rules. Life jakets must be worn by boaters at all times.

Park commissioner George Seaver, who developed most of the information pertaining to the boating regulations said he feels opening the lakes will provide more recreation in the community.

All boats used on the park district lakes must be registered with the district. Registration fees will be $1 for resident's boats and $2 for non-resident's boats.

Registration permits will be available Monday at the park district office, 650 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates.

Village To Weigh Allowing Algonquin-Quentin PUD

The Schaumburg Village Board will give first-reading consideration Tuesday to a variation in the village's zoning ordinance that would allow the construction of a controversial planned unit development near Algonquin and Quentin roads.

The long standing controversy began when the Metropolitan Sanitary District took over part of the original 35 acre site for a retention project earlier this year. Most recently, Des Plaines developer Eric W. Kuntze has been involved with business associate Hy Levison in a dispute over who is the actual owner of the land.

Last week Levison's attorney David Chaimowitz said he has asked the courts to decide the ownership question in August and he asked the Schaumburg village board to put off acceptance of the zoning board's report, approving the project, until after the court test.

AFTER SOME DEBATE, the board accepted the zoning board report, which gives Village Atty. Jack Siegel authority to draw up the ordinance for the variation.

Final acceptance of the ordinance will not come until after Chaimowitz has presented his case in court on Aug. 7. In asking the board not to act on the report, the attorney suggested that he might try to get a court order restraining the village from acting.

After the board failed to heed the suggestion and granted approval to the report, Chaimowitz threatened to sue the village if his client, Levison suffered any damages from their action.

Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher reminded him that this would not be the first time that the village had been sued and that the village had never lost a case.

Wheel Tax Ruling Is Postponed

A ruling on the constitutionality of Cook County's tax on motor vehicles in unincorporated areas has been postponed until Aug. 28.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Edward Sarnow postponed a decision Friday, after listening to arguments from those defending as well as protesting the constitutionality of the tax.

Sarnow said he would consider a motion by State's Atty. Paul Biebel to dismiss a lawsuit challenging the tax. The suit was filed in April in behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Company of unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

Biebel argued that the tax was legal under the home rule provision of the new Illinois Constitution. The home rule provision, he said, gives counties the power to levy additional taxes for special services. He then pointed out that funds from the wheel tax two weeks ago were earmarked for the Cook County Sheriff's Department by Cook County Pres. George W. Dunne.

THE SHERIFF'S department operates on a $6.5 million budget, 90 per cent of which goes to protect 191,000 persons in unincorporated areas of Cook County, Biebel said. He said anticipated annual revenue from the tax, $1.4 million, is less than 25 per cent of the $5.9 million needed to provide police protection to unincorporated areas.

Scott, 10, Finds Money Is Really Easy To Make

by DOUG RAY

It was the easiest $4.50 that 10-year-old Scott Johnson of Palatine ever made.

At 10 a.m. Friday, after standing in line for an hour, Scott handed $45.50 to the teller at The Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights and received a $50 bill in exchange. Right behind him in line were his sister Lynn, 9, and James, 5½, and their mother, Mrs. Robert Johnson, who all made profits by trading crisp bills for mutilated ones.

The mutilated money sale was part of the Arlington Market Sidewalk Days Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. During the two days, the bank offered $500 every hour in torn and worn currency for a newer variety, at a profit to the consumer.

A line of some 30 persons awaited the first hour of trading, when $20 bills were bartered for $18.49; $10 bills for $9.01; $5 bills for $4.49 and $1 bills for 89 cents as well as the $50 exchanges. One hundred dollars worth in each denomination was offered every hour.

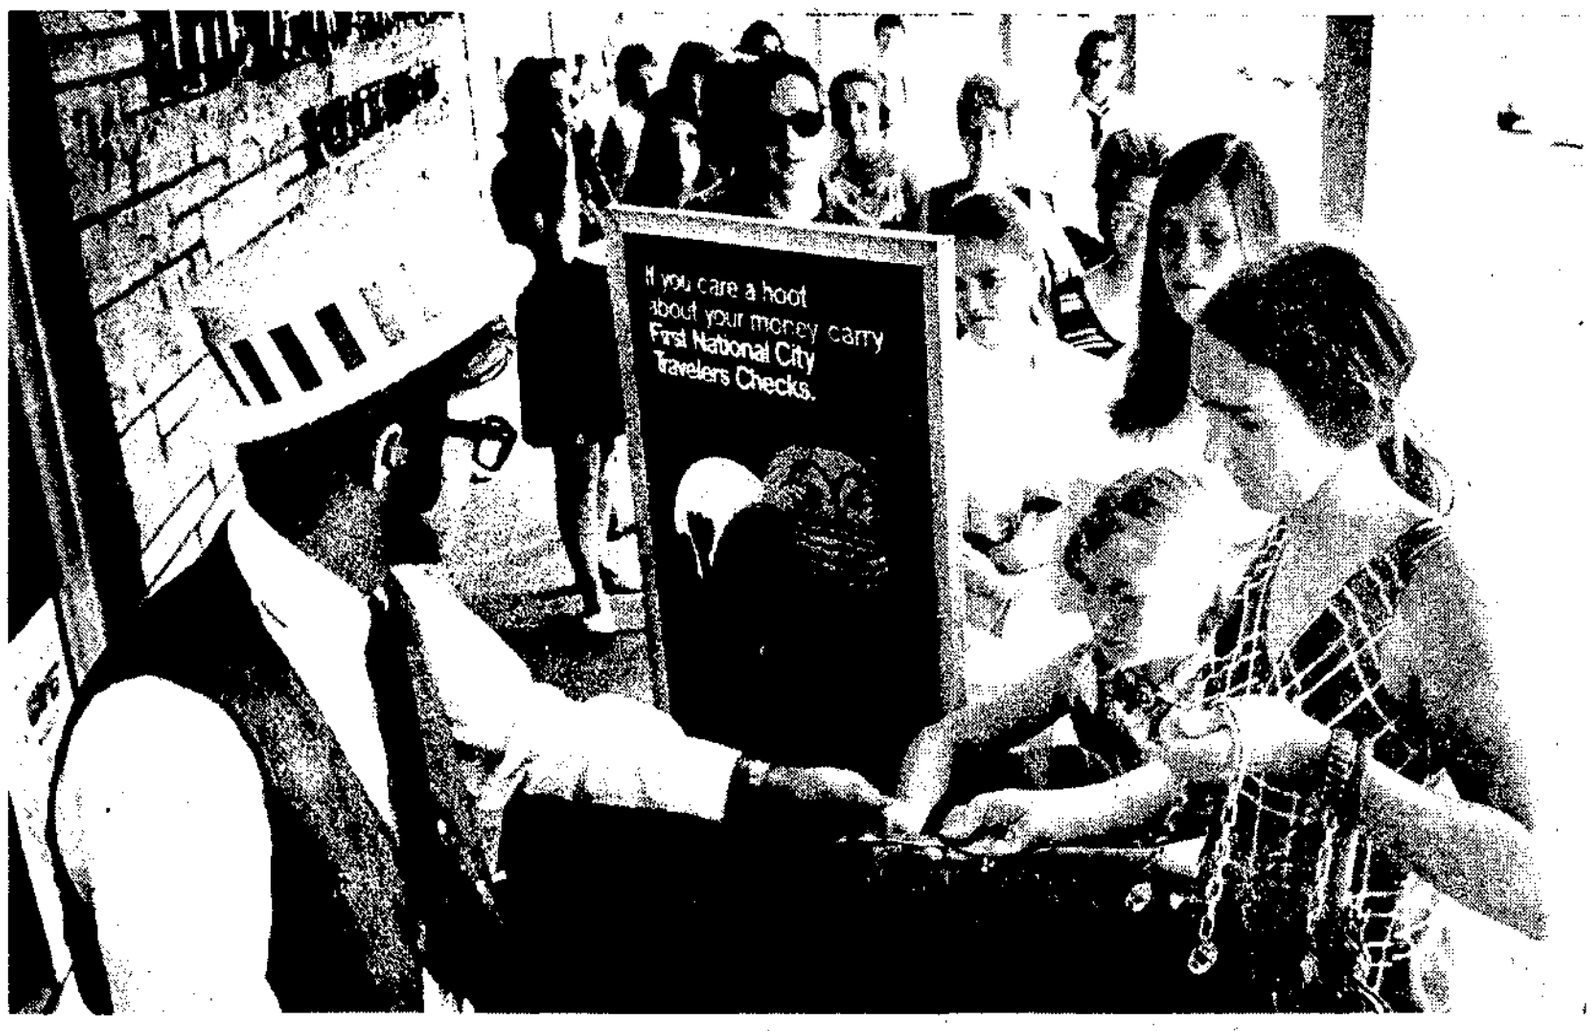
As soon as Scott Johnson got the $50 bill he sped to the end of the lines awaiting another exchange as did the rest of the Johnson family. They said they expected to make about $75 trading the currency at the bank Friday.

It took little more than half an hour of swapping to eliminate the first $500 offered. The cashier then closed until the second hour and the routine continued.

Scott wasn't certain what he could do with the profit which was added to the original money from lawn mowings, birthdays and helping out around the house.

"Maybe just save it for another sale," he answered.

And that may be a good idea as an elderly man observing the sale commented: "There's nothing to it . . . if you've got money, you can make money."



MRS. ROBERT JOHNSON of Palatine gets her share of profits at the mutilated money sale at The Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights last Friday. The Johnsons expected to make $75 by making several trips to the cashier's window during the four-hour sale, which also was held Saturday.

Conant High Girl In 'Who's Who'

A student from James B. Conant High School in Hoffman Estates will be listed in the 1972 edition of "Who's Who in High School Honor Societies."

Patti D. Sander will be one of the students featured in the book. Only graduating seniors in the upper three per cent of the nation in scholarship, character and extra-curricular activities are listed.

Motorless Boating On Lakes OKd

It will be "anchors aweigh" at the Hoffman Estates Park District starting today. Approval for use of non-powered boats on three of the district's lakes was received last week.

According to the regulations approved by the park board, boating will be allowed from 6 a.m. until dusk on lakes in Highland, Highpoint and Pinger parks. Only rowboats, canoes and small sailboats, not longer than 16 feet, will be allowed on the lakes. Park officials will not allow the use of rubber boats, innertubes or rafts on the lakes.

Skippers of the boats must be at least 14-years-old according to park district rules. Life jakets must be worn by boaters at all times.

Park commissioner George. Seaver, who developed most of the information pertaining to the boating regulations said he feels opening the lakes will provide more recreation in the community.

All boats used on the park district lakes must be registered with the district. Registration fees will be $1 for resident's boats and $2 for non-resident's boats.

Registration permits will be available Monday at the park district office, 650 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates.

Village To Weigh Allowing Algonquin-Quentin PUD

The Schaumburg Village Board will give first-reading consideration Tuesday to a variation in the village's zoning ordinance that would allow the construction of a controversial planned unit development near Algonquin and Quentin roads.

The long standing controversy began when the Metropolitan Sanitary District took over part of the original 35 acre site for a retention project earlier this year. Most recently, Des Plaines developer Eric W. Kuntze has been involved with business associate Hy Levison in a dispute over who is the actual owner of the land.

Last week Levison's attorney David Chaimowitz said he has asked the courts to decide the ownership question in August and he asked the Schaumburg village board to put off acceptance of the zoning board's report, approving the project, until after the court test.

AFTER SOME DEBATE, the board accepted the zoning board report, which gives Village Atty. Jack Siegel authority to draw up the ordinance for the variation.

Final acceptance of the ordinance will not come until after Chaimowitz has presented his case in court on Aug. 7. In asking the board not to act on the report, the attorney suggested that he might try to get a court order restraining the village from acting.

After the board failed to heed the suggestion and granted approval to the report, Chaimowitz threatened to sue the village if his client, Levison suffered any damages from their action.

Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher reminded him that this would not be the first time that the village had been sued and that the village had never lost a case.

Wheel Tax Ruling Is Postponed

A ruling on the constitutionality of Cook County's tax on motor vehicles in unincorporated areas has been postponed until Aug. 28.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Edward Sarnow postponed a decision Friday, after listening to arguments from those defending as well as protesting the constitutionality of the tax.

Sarnow said he would consider a motion by State's Atty. Paul Biebel to dismiss a lawsuit challenging the tax. The suit was filed in April in behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Company of unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

Biebel argued that the tax was legal under the home rule provision of the new Illinois Constitution. The home rule provision, he said, gives counties the power to levy additional taxes for special services. He then pointed out that funds from the wheel tax two weeks ago were earmarked for the Cook County Sheriff's Department by Cook County Pres. George W. Dunne.

THE SHERIFF'S department operates on a $6.5 million budget, 90 per cent of which goes to protect 191,000 persons in unincorporated areas of Cook County, Biebel said. He said anticipated annual revenue from the tax, $1.4 million, is less than 25 per cent of the $5.9 million needed to provide police protection to unincorporated areas.

Scott, 10, Finds Money Is Really Easy To Make

by DOUG RAY

It was the easiest $4.50 that 10-year-old Scott Johnson of Palatine ever made.

At 10 a.m. Friday, after standing in line for an hour, Scott handed $45.50 to the teller at The Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights and received a $50 bill in exchange. Right behind him in line were his sister Lynn, 9, and James, 5½, and their mother, Mrs. Robert Johnson, who all made profits by trading crisp bills for mutilated ones.

The mutilated money sale was part of the Arlington Market Sidewalk Days Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. During the two days, the bank offered $500 every hour in torn and worn currency for a newer variety, at a profit to the consumer.

A line of some 30 persons awaited the first hour of trading, when $20 bills were bartered for $18.49; $10 bills for $9.01; $5 bills for $4.49 and $1 bills for 89 cents as well as the $50 exchanges. One hundred dollars worth in each denomination was offered every hour.

As soon as Scott Johnson got the $50 bill he sped to the end of the lines awaiting another exchange as did the rest of the Johnson family. They said they expected to make about $75 trading the currency at the bank Friday.

It took little more than half an hour of swapping to eliminate the first $500 offered. The cashier then closed until the second hour and the routine continued.

Scott wasn't certain what he could do with the profit which was added to the original money from lawn mowings, birthdays and helping out around the house.

"Maybe just save it for another sale," he answered.

And that may be a good idea as an elderly man observing the sale commented: "There's nothing to it . . . if you've got money, you can make money."

MRS. ROBERT JOHNSON of Palatine gets her share of profits at the mutilated money sale at The Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights last Friday. The Johnsons expected to make $75 by making several trips to the cashier's window during the four-hour sale, which also was held Saturday.

DAMP Year Behind Similar Group

by DOUG RAY

The DAMP Water Commission, formed to bring water from Lake Michigan to the Northwest suburbs by 1975, is more than a year behind a similar water commission in the western suburbs, a state official reported Friday

Jon Guillou, director of the state division of water resource management, said the Des Plaines-Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect-Palatine (DAMP) commission is not ready to move on the approval given by the state Friday for directing water from the lake to the Northwest suburbs.

William Cellini, head of the Illinois Department of transportation, Friday approved the request from DAMP to allocate 34.8 cubic feet per second of the lake's water through a pipeline to the area in 1975.

Guillou, however, said the Tree Towns Water Commission serving Elmhurst, Villa Park and Lombard, "is ready to go immediately." The western suburban commission must sell revenue bonds and provide contract from communities who wish to receive the Lake Michigan water.

"THERE IS A little bit of a question if the (DAMP) communities will sign right away," Guillou added, possibly holding up the new water system.

The state allocated the Tree Towns Commission 56 cubic feet per second of water by 1975 and a jump to 70.8 by 1980. The DAMP group will receive 42.5 cubic feet of water per second by 1980. The figures are subject to change depending upon demand, state officials said.

The Lake Michigan allocation to the Tree Towns Commission is more because that area is larger than DAMP, Guillou said.

There has been speculation of a joint effort by the two water commissions to save money in the multi-million pipeline project. According to a professional study, the joint venture would cost near $80 million.

According to preliminary plans, any local municipality may sign a water contract with DAMP for water consumption and in turn charge residents for the water.

JOHN WOODS, Arlington Heights Village president, said the water rates in that village may double because of the additional costs of the new system. But he said the cost to local residents depends upon several factors including whether the two commissions are combined and the number of municipalities linked to the system.

The allocations are set for 1975 because the pipeline system could not be constructed before that date, state officials said. The water allocations from the state extend to the year 2015.

The DAMP commission was formed in 1957, after the water table began to lower in area wells, presently the lone source of drinking water of the northwest suburbs.

'Grandma,' Neighbors Live With Flooding

by LYNN ASINOF

Mrs Anna Krueger, 71, lives by herself in a house that is more often than not surrounded by water. Everytime it rains, a smelly brown stream gushes into her backyard, around her house and into the street.

Although "Grandma" Krueger gets the water first, other residents on Jackson Drive, southeast of the Cambridge subdivision, also are flooded every time it rains. The water, which has been as high as waist deep, covers lawns, washes away gardens and driveways and fills basements.

The water comes from an open drainage ditch that runs behind Jackson Drive and opens directly onto "Grandma" Krueger's property. The ditch was built by Chesterfield Builders, developers of the Tahoe development, to alleviate flooding caused by construction in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling.

The ditch was dug as part of an out-of-court settlement between Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, the developers and private citizens in a suit that dates back nearly six years.

IN THE ORIGINAL suit, Richard J. Brown Associates, developers of Cambridge, and six individual property owners asked the court to force William Frazer of Jackson Drive to remove a dam that was interfering with the drainage of the Cambridge development. Frazer claimed that he built the dam to protect his property from flooding caused by the drainage of water from the subdivision.

Frazer said Brown had tried to drain the development by connecting a 36-inch pipe to a 100-year-old, eight-inch field tile that runs through Frazer's property.

After a lengthy court battle, an out-of-court settlement was reached, calling for construction of several retention basins and a drainage ditch. Three retention basins and the drainage ditch were built, but they have not alleviated the flooding problem for the residents on Jackson Drive. In fact, residents say things have gotten worse.

The suit was reopened by Jackson Drive property owner Harold Haar in the fall of 1970. Haar contended that the ditch built by Chesterfield did not meet the terms of the settlement. The case is still in court, with the next hearing scheduled for Aug. 11.

MEANWHILE, Jackson Drive residents have been living with soggy lawns and basements — and the foul odor of stagnant water.

"About seven of us really catch the brunt of it," said Charles Hinze, 2919 Jackson Dr. "And it happens every time it rains — even a piddly rain."

The flooded residents say they are being "used" by the developers. "They're going to build and pull out and leave us with this mess," Mrs. Harr said. "They'll have their millions in their pockets, and all we'll have is a lot of soggy land."

"What are we supposed to do?" said another resident. "Give up our homes and let them make a drainage ditch out of it? They're drowning us out."

The heart of the legal dispute revolves around who is responsible for the flooding and whether the developers have changed the natural drainage of the land. The developers and the Jackson Drive residents agree that the area used to flood even before the subdivision was built. The residents say, however, that the water used to drain off quickly. Now it stays for days.

THE DEVELOPERS have claimed that the natural drainage of the land leads to the Jackson Drive area. Residents say the developers altered the natural drainage when they tore out old field tile, developed the area and dug the drainage ditch.

Aside from the flooding, the drainage ditch poses another threat to area residents Two children were recently pulled out of the water-filled ditch, which Haar said was approximately 12 feet at its deepest point.

There are more than 30 children living on Jackson Drive, not to mention the hundreds in surrounding developments. And as one resident put it, "Where there's water, there are children."

Jackson Drive residents say they no longer care who is responsible for the flooding. They just want it stopped.

"I want to know who we can find to stop this water," said "Grandma" Krueger. "I just want to know who."

With exasperation, Hinze added, "If we don't get something done we're going to start selling lakefront lots. We'll call it Jackson-on-the-Lake."

Just Politics

by Bob Lahey

Common Cause, which describes itself as a national citizens' organization to lobby for and against legislation on a nonpartisan basis, has issued a summary of the voting records of representatives and congressmen on what it considers 18 key issues in the 92nd Congress.

Among congressmen directly affecting the Northwest Suburb, votes favorable to Common Cause positions ranged from 17 by Rep. Abner Mikva, D-2nd, candidate for reelection in the new 10th District, to three by Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, candidate for reelection in the new 12th District.

Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, D-11th, candidate for the U. S. Senate, voted in line with Common Cause on 13 of the 18 issues, while casting no vote and announcing no position on three issues.

Rep. Harold Collier, R-10th, voted with Common Cause on seven issues, with no announced position on one item; Rep. Robert McClory, R-12th, agreed with Common Cause on six issues and was unrecorded on two.

BOTH REPUBLICAN Sen. Charles H. Percy and Democratic Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, cast their votes in favor of Common Cause positions on all issues, with the exception of a vote to override a presidential veto of a child care program, on which Percy did not vote.

Their votes will be detailed in a subsequent column.

Common Cause, though billed as nonpartisan, is considered by many Republicans to be strongly oriented to liberal Democratic philosophies.

Here's how suburban congressmen acted on the organizations stands:

NEDZI-WHALEN amendment to end supplies of defense equipment for Vietnam war as of Dec. 31, 1971. Defeated, 255-158. FOR (Common Cause position): Mikva, Pucinski. AGAINST: Collier, Crane, McClory.

MANSFIELD AMENDMENT calling for withdrawal of U.S. troops within nine months, providing American prisoners were released. Defeated, 219-175. FOR (Common Cause position): Mikva, Pucinski. AGAINST: Collier, Crane, McClory.

MOTION TO ADOPT Mansfield amendment as part of another bill. Motion tabled, 215-193. FOR TABLING: Collier, Crane, McClory. AGAINST TABLING (Common Cause position): Mikva, Pucinski.

BOLAND AMENDMENT, calling for July 1, 1972, cut-off date for funds for the war, if prisoners were released. Defeated 238-163. FOR (Common Cause position): Mikva, Pucinski. AGAINST: Collier, Crane, McClory.

APPROPRIATION FOR SST development, totaling $1.3 billion. Defeated, 216-203. FOR: McClory. AGAINST: (Common Cause position): Collier, Crane, Mikva, Pucinski.

SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATION to another bill providing funds for SST. Passed, 201-197. FOR: McClory. AGAINST: (Common Cause position): Collier, Crane, Mikva, Pucinski.

WATER POLLUTION amendment, declaring that discharge of water pollutants must end by 1981. Defeated 249-140. FOR (Common Cause position): Mikva, Pucinski. AGAINST: Collier, Crane, McClory.

AMENDMENT REQUIRING environmental impact reports on water projects. Defeated, 267-126. FOR (Common Cause position): McClory, Mikva, Pucinski. AGAINST: Collier, Crane.

AMENDMENT GIVING federal environment agency veto power over state-issued discharge permits. Defeated, 267-126. FOR (Common Cause position): Mikva, Pucinski. AGAINST: Collier, Crane, McClory.

REMOVAL OF FAMILY ASSISTANCE PLAN from welfare reform bill. Defeated 234-187. FOR: Crane, Mikva. AGAINST (Common Cause position): Collier, McClory, Pucinski.

FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE law, requiring reports on campaign gifts and spending. Passed, 373-23. FOR (Common Cause position): Collier, McClory, Mikva. AGAINST. Crane. UNANNOUNCED Pucinski.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Oswald: "South ruffed the diamond opening and remarked, 'I guess I should have responded six diamonds to your Blackwood four no-trump to show an ace and a good void. That would have got us to seven.' Then South proceeded to go down at six."

Jim: "Let me see if I can work out the play. South ruffed the diamond; played out two of dummy's trumps; paused for a moment when East showed out; then cashed dummy's last trump and ran dummy's clubs. West just refused to ruff at any time and eventually dummy would be down to diamonds. South would wind up taking five clubs; five trumps and one spade, but that would be one short."

Oswald: "The funny thing about the hand was that South never saw the simple, winning line of play."

Jim: "Probably he suffered from 'Scotch syndrome.' Players with that illness just can't waste a high card."

Oswald: "You are entirely correct. South played the hand just as you surmised. He completely overlooked the play of overtaking dummy's good jack of trumps with his own ace. This play would set up West's 10 as the master trump, but that would be West's only trick. South would run off high spades and high clubs until such time as West chose to take his good trump. Then South would ruff in with his last low trump and claim the bid."

'King' Of Cuyahoga Falls

Can you imagine Lil' Abner in the pulpit? Or a Lawrence Welk raised in Arkansas, as the emcee of a Holy Grand Ole Opry?

Well, 355 TV outlets — more than Johnny Carson or Oral Roberts — are currently filling the vast wasteland of idiot boxes with regular telecasts of the Rev. Rex Humbard.

Rev. Humbard is pastor of "The Cathedral of Tomorrow," a large and modern edifice with an average Sunday attendance of 6,000, in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, near Akron. Of this vast assemblage, only six people (including Rex and wife Maude Aimee) control the finances — which, to say the very least, are impressive.

Among other things purchased by the Cathedral have been: a four-engine jet plane, a TV station, an advertising agency, a restaurant, a girdle factory, an electronics firm, a TV videotaping studio that makes commercials, two Akron shopping centers, the tallest building in Ohio, and Michigan's Mackinac Island. ("St Paul made tents," retorts Rev. Humbard, in an analogy that is roughly like comparing J. Paul Getty with the grease monkey at the local garage)

Rev. Humbard also is somehow able to solicit from his TV fans what Christianity Today Magazine reported as $80,000 per week, to help pay for an estimated $100,000 per week in TV bills.

"You can be a TV sponsor!" is the pitch made by the Rev. Wayne Jones one of Humbard's 11 assistant pastors who are equipped with smiles that look as if they were painted on.

AND SO, with this exciting prospectus reinforced with assurances that the telecasting of "Edifice Rex" is the most effective means of spreading the Gospel, his credulous devotees continue shelling out.

The great hordes of unsaved Americans (if they ever watch TV outside prime time, or if they wait even an instant before switching channels) are offered a preliminary of musical, pseudo-sanctified corn followed by the exhilirating presence of King Midas himself, a handsome, stocky fellow who might be taken as a middle linebacker for the Razorbacks of his native Arkansas.

In short order, the TV audience realizes that Humbard really is a Fundamentalist — despite his contentions that "doctrine divides people," an "above-it-all" stance all too familiar. But his Cathedral's published list of beliefs (doctrines) includes the Scriptures as "verbally inspired" as well as "Adam's sin is imputed to the whole race of men" and "everlasting punishment of the unsaved."

His sermons (fearfully folksy, generally disorganized, frequently ungrammatical and laced with very tired jokes) amply illustrate one of his frequent lamentations: that he does not have a formal education. But these lamentations are invariably followed with his vehement assurances that education is not the solution to all of the world's problems.

As for providing even a hinted solution to the most vexing of the world's problems, the widely telecast clergyman stands resolute as a positive tower of Vaseline and one of the 20th century's leading prophets in sneakers.

WHEN ASKED about the Vietnam War: "I'm not a general." (End of comment.) Has he read of the controversial social involvement of the Old Testament Prophets? "I don't know about anybody but Rex Humbard . . . We have colored children in our Sunday School, so we're taking care of the race problem."

If he had been a pastor just prior to the Civil War, would he have kept silent about the political issue of slavery?

"I'd leave that subject to you," he replied to this writer during an interview.

Perhaps Rev. Humbard is wise to avoid any commentary on social issues — particularly since the exceptionally early release on parole of Jimmy Hoffa.

For the occasion might arise that the activities of the Teamsters Union could again merit pulpit social concern. And $7 million worth of Rev. Humbard's commercial empire has been financed by Hoffa's union — which in 1958 saved Edifice Rex from possible bankruptcy.

Just Politics

by Bob Lahey

Common Cause, which describes itself as a national citizens' organization to lobby for and against legislation on a nonpartisan basis, has issued a summary of the voting records of representatives and congressmen on what it considers 18 key issues in the 92nd Congress.

Among congressmen directly affecting the Northwest Suburb, votes favorable to Common Cause positions ranged from 17 by Rep. Abner Mikva, D-2nd, candidate for reelection in the new 10th District, to three by Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, candidate for reelection in the new 12th District.

Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, D-11th, candidate for the U. S. Senate, voted in line with Common Cause on 13 of the 18 issues, while casting no vote and announcing no position on three issues.

Rep. Harold Collier, R-10th, voted with Common Cause on seven issues, with no announced position on one item; Rep. Robert McClory, R-12th, agreed with Common Cause on six issues and was unrecorded on two.

BOTH REPUBLICAN Sen. Charles H. Percy and Democratic Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, cast their votes in favor of Common Cause positions on all issues, with the exception of a vote to override a presidential veto of a child care program, on which Percy did not vote.

Their votes will be detailed in a subsequent column.

Common Cause, though billed as nonpartisan, is considered by many Republicans to be strongly oriented to liberal Democratic philosophies.

Here's how suburban congressmen acted on the organizations stands:

NEDZI-WHALEN amendment to end supplies of defense equipment for Vietnam war as of Dec. 31, 1971. Defeated, 255-158. FOR (Common Cause position): Mikva, Pucinski. AGAINST: Collier, Crane, McClory.

MANSFIELD AMENDMENT calling for withdrawal of U.S. troops within nine months, providing American prisoners were released. Defeated, 219-175. FOR (Common Cause position): Mikva, Pucinski. AGAINST: Collier, Crane, McClory.

MOTION TO ADOPT Mansfield amendment as part of another bill. Motion tabled, 215-193. FOR TABLING: Collier, Crane, McClory. AGAINST TABLING (Common Cause position): Mikva, Pucinski.

BOLAND AMENDMENT, calling for July 1, 1972, cut-off date for funds for the war, if prisoners were released. Defeated 238-163. FOR (Common Cause position): Mikva, Pucinski. AGAINST: Collier, Crane, McClory.

APPROPRIATION FOR SST development, totaling $1.3 billion. Defeated, 216-203. FOR: McClory. AGAINST: (Common Cause position): Collier, Crane, Mikva, Pucinski.

SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATION to another bill providing funds for SST. Passed, 201-197. FOR: McClory. AGAINST: (Common Cause position): Collier, Crane, Mikva, Pucinski.

WATER POLLUTION amendment, declaring that discharge of water pollutants must end by 1981. Defeated 249-140. FOR (Common Cause position): Mikva, Pucinski. AGAINST: Collier, Crane, McClory.

AMENDMENT REQUIRING environmental impact reports on water projects. Defeated, 267-126. FOR (Common Cause position): McClory, Mikva, Pucinski. AGAINST: Collier, Crane.

AMENDMENT GIVING federal environment agency veto power over state-issued discharge permits. Defeated, 267-126. FOR (Common Cause position): Mikva, Pucinski. AGAINST: Collier, Crane, McClory.

REMOVAL OF FAMILY ASSISTANCE PLAN from welfare reform bill. Defeated 234-187. FOR: Crane, Mikva. AGAINST (Common Cause position): Collier, McClory, Pucinski.

ERLENBORN AMENDMENT to deny the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission authority to issue cease-and-desist orders to employers practicing job discrimination. Passed, 202-197. FOR: Collier, Crane. AGAINST (Common Cause position): McClory, Mikva, Pucinski.

WIGGINS AMENDMENT, diluting effect of the Equal Rights Amendment for women. Defeated, 265-87. AGAINST (Common Cause position): Collier, Crane, McClory, Mikva, Pucinski.

CONSUMER PROTECTION amendment, to enable Consumer Protection Agency to participate in federal proceedings for consumer interests. Defeated 218-160. FOR (Common Cause position): Collier, Mikva, Pucinski. AGAINST: Crane, McClory.

CHILD CARE provision setting up Legal Services Corporation in federal anti-poverty agency and authorizing comprehensive child development program. Passed 211-187. FOR (Common Cause position): Mikva. AGAINST: Collier, Crane, McClory. UNANNOUNCED: Pucinski.

SCHOOL BUSING vote, in which House instructed conference committee members not to compromise with Senate on strict anti-busing language passed by House. Passed 272-140. FOR: Crane, Pucinski. AGAINST (Common Cause position): McClory, Mikva. UNANNOUNCED: Collier. (Votes remained the same on a second attempt to compromise the language, with Collier voting against the compromise.)

CAMPAIGN SPENDING amendment to remove requirement that financial disclosure reports be filed in home states as well as in Washington. Passed 229-155. FOR: Crane. AGAINST (Common Cause position): Collier, Mikva. UNANNOUNCED: McClory, Pucinski.

FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE law, requiring reports on campaign gifts and spending. Passed, 373-23. FOR (Common Cause position): Collier, McClory, Mikva. AGAINST: Crane. UNANNOUNCED: Pucinski.

Encircled by 37 opponents, chess master Jude Acers downed 35 in 4 hours.

Deep in concentration, chess enthusiasts played Jude Acers at Woodfield.

Chess Master Defeats 35

by MARY HUTCHINGS

Thirty five area chess enthusiasts fell prey last week to the swift and perilous attack of senior master Jude Acers, who played 37 games simultaneously at an exhibition at Woodfield.

The two victors were Greg Wedig of Carpentersville and Shadid Kham, 16, Wilmette.

Acers, who holds the world's record for simultaneous play, is on a 200-city tour of the nation. He often gives free lectures and demonstrations in prisons and schools and hospitals, and once played 114 simultaneous games.

Professionally, he has lost only one of the 100 games he has played in the past 20 months against the nation's top ranked players. Now ranked 23rd, he was the youngest chess master ever in the South at the age of 17.

At 29, he predicts he will reach his peak at age 36, when he will be "the best chess player in the country, if not the world," he says.

AT WOODFIELD, Acers darted around the inside of a circle of challengers, all men, ranging in age from seven to fifth-plus.

An Elmwood Park boy, 7, made his first trip to Woodfield to play Acers, and stayed in the game more than three hours to win the praise of the champion, "he's remarkable."

Acers is dedicated to promoting the game, and often tells his opponents what mistakes they are making so that they can learn while holding off his attack longer.

Winners in last week's match received free chess sets of their choosing from Sears, Roebuck and Co., Woodfield.

Acers, a graduate of Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, studies chess incessantly from a suitcase filled with books on the game. He predicts that Bobby Fischer will quit the current $250,000 international chess match in Iceland before the 15th game of the scheduled 24.

HE KNOWS Fischer personally, and says he understands what he is facing. Acers believes that Fischer hasn't trained enough for the match and won't be able to take the pressure from Spassky.

Acers plans to return to Woodfield to meet more challengers for two or three days in late fall or early spring.

TV Ratings Show A Boom

Move Over Football, Here Comes Chess

Special to The Herald

NEW YORK — Q x B has become as much an audience windfall for public television as was the famed Sesame Street program which captivated children. The Bobby Fischer-Boris Spassky championship chess matches in Reykjavik, Iceland, have the public TV stations in blissful wonder over the ratings.

Few of the station managers had the slightest idea there were so many ardent chess fans. The other afternoon when there was a particularly tricky situation on the board, Channel 13 in New York had to plead with viewers to get off the phones. The switchboard was jammed with calls offering advice.

Everywhere, it seems, the reports (even from Moscow) agree that chess fans are willing to forgive the quixotic Fischer his antics if only he will sit down and play. They deplore his lateness and his stubbornness over details, but shrug them off as fitting a chess great. The records are replete with similar explosions. Winning and ego are one and the same and Fischer himself has said that "crushing the other guy's ego is the supreme moment of any game of chess."

Curiously, for all of his peccadilloes in the current series, Fischer's whole life has been directed toward this single goal: Winning the world championship. Another aspect seems indicated, however. He may well have revolutionized chess to the point where it begins to play its top professionals well.

THE $250,000 purse in Reykjavik (62½ per cent to the winner) is more than 10 times any previous chess prize. Fischer earned something like $20,000 in 1970. He is a bachelor and lives in hotel rooms as a transient. "I've never needed much money," he has said. "I've made a living at chess, but not a good living." If he wins the world championship, there is some possibility his income might jump to the $50,000 range.

It did not go unnoticed that Fischer's astonishing series of victories over the past two years was accompanied by a boom in chess sales in stores. Manufacturers reported a big increase in business, department stores put more and more expensive sets on sale, and chess tournaments began drawing bigger crowds than ever.

Fischer, now 29, had refused to play in tournaments for a year and a half. He returned in March 1970 and amassed the most remarkable record in the long history of the game — 20 consecutive victories over the world's greatest players. Newsweek magazine called it a mark "unapproached in the 1,500-year history of this depthless and hypnotic game."

Spassky is 35 and is supported by the Russian government in a style merited by his being a world champion. He and his wife and small son have a Moscow apartment and the added status of a foreign car.

CHESS, AS everyone knows, is a game of the intellect — a war game, the goal of which is the capture of the king. The moves are intricate, often cloaked, and the players use the pieces as generals do armies.

For all of the intricacies involved, it is a game at which the young have always excelled. Spassky began playing in tournaments at 10, Fischer a year later. Fischer won the first of his eight U.S. championships when he was 14. The game requires the kind of concentration that demands the utmost in physical stamina and both of the current contenders keep in top condition all the time — playing tennis, swimming, bowling.

"You've got to concentrate in a tournament for five hours at a time," Fischer has said. "And when there's an adjournment, you've got to stay up half the night analyzing strategy. The tension is brutal. One mental lapse and you're through. That's why a lot of players are over the hill at 40. Too old for the strain."

There has been a good deal of speculation that this was behind so much of Fischer's boorish behavior — a psychological drive to put extreme pressure on Spassky. Up to this point, of course, it seems not to have worked. The Russians regard the national honor being at stake, chess being the national obsession. And Presidential aide Henry Kissinger's call to Fischer might indicate the government of the United States feels we have something at stake, too.

Thirty five area chess enthusiasts fell prey last week to the swift and perilous attack of senior master Jude Acers, who played 37 games simultaneously at an exhibition at Woodfield.

The two victors were Greg Wedig of Carpentersville and Shadid Kham, 16, Wilmette.

Acers, who holds the world's record for simultaneous play, is on a 200-city tour of the nation. He often gives free lectures and demonstrations in prisons and schools and hospitals, and once played 114 simultaneous games.

Professionally, he has lost only one of the 100 games he has played in the past 20 months against the nation's top ranked players. Now ranked 23rd, he was the youngest chess master ever in the South at the age of 17.

At 29, he predicts he will reach his peak at age 36, when he will be "the best chess player in the country, if not the world," he says.

AT WOODFIELD, Acers darted around the inside of a circle of challengers, all men, ranging in age from seven to fifth-plus.

An Elmwood Park boy, 7, made his first trip to Woodfield to play Acers, and stayed in the game more than three hours to win the praise of the champion, "he's remarkable."

Acers is dedicated to promoting the game, and often tells his opponents what mistakes they are making so that they can learn while holding off his attack longer.

Winners in last week's match received free chess sets of their choosing from Sears, Roebuck and Co., Woodfield.

Acers, a graduate of Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, studies chess incessantly from a suitcase filled with books on the game. He predicts that Bobby Fischer will quit the current $250,000 international chess match in Iceland before the 15th game of the scheduled 24.

HE KNOWS Fischer personally, and says he understands what he is facing. Acers believes that Fischer hasn't trained enough for the match and won't be able to take the pressure from Spassky.

Acers plans to return to Woodfield to meet more challengers for two or three days in late fall or early spring.

TV Ratings Show A Boom

Move Over Football, Here Comes Chess

Special to The Herald

NEW YORK — Q x B has become as much an audience windfall for public television as was the famed Sesame Street program which captivated children. The Bobby Fischer-Boris Spassky championship chess matches in Reykjavik, Iceland, have the public TV stations in blissful wonder over the ratings.

Few of the station managers had the slightest idea there were so many ardent chess fans. The other afternoon when there was a particularly tricky situation on the board, Channel 13 in New York had to plead with viewers to get off the phones. The switchboard was jammed with calls offering advice.

Everywhere, it seems, the reports (even from Moscow) agree that chess fans are willing to forgive the quixotic Fischer his antics if only he will sit down and play. They deplore his lateness and his stubbornness over details, but shrug them off as fitting a chess great. The records are replete with similar explosions. Winning and ego are one and the same and Fischer himself has said that "crushing the other guy's ego is the supreme moment of any game of chess."

Curiously, for all of his peccadilloes in the current series, Fischer's whole life has been directed toward this single goal: Winning the world championship. Another aspect seems indicated, however. He may well have revolutionized chess to the point where it begins to play its top professionals well.

THE $250,000 purse in Reykjavik (62½ per cent to the winner) is more than 10 times any previous chess prize. Fischer earned something like $20,000 in 1970. He is a bachelor and lives in hotel rooms as a transient. "I've never needed much money," he has said. "I've made a living at chess, but not a good living." If he wins the world championship, there is some possibility his income might jump to the $50,000 range.

It did not go unnoticed that Fischer's astonishing series of victories over the past two years was accompanied by a boom in chess sales in stores. Manufacturers reported a big increase in business, department stores put more and more expensive sets on sale, and chess tournaments began drawing bigger crowds than ever.

Fischer, now 29, had refused to play in tournaments for a year and a half. He returned in March 1970 and amassed the most remarkable record in the long history of the game — 20 consecutive victories over the world's greatest players. Newsweek magazine called it a mark "unapproached in the 1,500-year history of this depthless and hypnotic game."

Spassky is 35 and is supported by the Russian government in a style merited by his being a world champion. He and his wife and small son have a Moscow apartment and the added status of a foreign car.

CHESS, AS everyone knows, is a game of the intellect — a war game, the goal of which is the capture of the king. The moves are intricate, often cloaked, and the players use the pieces as generals do armies.

For all of the intricacies involved, it is a game at which the young have always excelled. Spassky began playing in tournaments at 10, Fischer a year later. Fischer won the first of his eight U.S. championships when he was 14. The game requires the kind of concentration that demands the utmost in physical stamina and both of the current contenders keep in top condition all the time — playing tennis, swimming, bowling.

"You've got to concentrate in a tournament for five hours at a time," Fischer has said. "And when there's an adjournment, you've got to stay up half the night analyzing strategy. The tension is brutal. One mental lapse and you're through. That's why a lot of players are over the hill at 40. Too old for the strain."

There has been a good deal of speculation that this was behind so much of Fischer's boorish behavior — a psychological drive to put extreme pressure on Spassky. Up to this point, of course, it seems not to have worked. The Russians regard the national honor being at stake, chess being the national obsession. And Presidential aide Henry Kissinger's call to Fischer might indicate the government of the United States feels we have something at stake, too.

SATURDAY SCORCHER. As these fans lining the third base side of the field suffer through the heat, Logan Sqaure Legion coach Larry Nomellini flashes a signal from the coaching box. The All-Star coach relayed the right ones as the combined six-team elite romped past Park Ridge, 11-3, Saturday at Arlington's Recreation Park. Temperatures hit nearly 100. (Photos by Jim Frost)

ALL-STAR STARTING pitcher George Pattee curves a Park Ridge hitter Saturday in the Ninth District Legion show at Arlington Heights. Pattee didn't allow an earned run during the three innings he pitched. The Stars broke it open late to win 11-3.

7-Run 7th Sets Up Win

All-Stars Romp Past Ridge

BY PAUL LOGAN

There was almost all a fan could ask of an all-star game:

- Slugging (a triple and a double).
- Speed (three stolen bases).
- Drama (several plays at the plate).
- Scoring (14 runs in all).
- Pitching (four fast-moving perfect innings).
- Hitting (10 different stars shared hits).

Still, the word "almost" has to be inserted when discussing the second annual showcasing of American Legion baseball talent by the Ninth District at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights Saturday. Why? Simple. The game between the All-Stars and the league leading Park Ridge team lacked spectator staying power.

Saturday's scorching temperature (near 100 degrees) and not playing on Sunday afternoon helped hold the disappointing crowd to about 200 (500 had been hoped for). But even this gathering couldn't stay united for long following the Stars' seventh.

Only leading 3-2 heading into the frame, the Bob Grybash-managed Stars erupted for seven runs. This sudden rout sent most of the fans scurrying for air conditioned spots. They didn't miss much after that. Both teams pushed across single tallies to make the final nine-inning score 11-3.

Those who had turned out for the show had probably hoped for the excitement of the 1971 matchup. On that much cooler day (a Sunday), a much larger crowd turned out to see an exceptional Logan Square team battle back in the eighth for a 6-4 victory.

Park Ridge has a fine team, but not the caliber of the former Lions. Post 247 kept it close against the first group of Stars, but the "second stringers" finally wore the leaders down. Also, facing one ace after another had to hurt Ridge hitting. Meanwhile, Coach Jerry Romes was using five different hurlers and a free substitution rule to no avail.

The romp appeared to be coming early as the Stars roughed up pitcher Greg Ciezadlo for three runs in the first. Arlington's Bert Newman led off with a single. Then he showed the crowd why he won the pre-game base running contest by going from first to third on a hit-and-run single by Palatine's Dave Hauswirth. (Newman had beaten Hauswirth in the foot race, 14.5 to 14.9.)

Logan Square's Stan Bobowski knocked in Newman with a single and moved to second on an outfield error. Hauswirth scored on a passed ball and Bobowski also made it to home when the catcher's underhand toss eluded the pitcher at the plate.

Ciezadlo settled down after that. He tossed two scoreless innings and chunky Scott Jones blanked the Stars three more.

During that time, Ridge rallied. A fielder's choice by Ciezadlo and a single by Russ Anderson off starter George Pattee of Palatine left runners at first and third in the third. When Anderson's steal of second forced a wild throw by the catcher, Ciezadlo.

Post 247 crept within one in the fifth after Logan Square's Ken Martin had blanked the first-place team in the fourth. With teammate Terry Smith on the mound, the Stars committed two more errors which helped set up the second score. Charlie Fahrner reached on a fielder's choice and moved to second on an infield miscue. Rick Lloyd's single to center was bobbled and allowed Fahrner to score unchallenged.

Following a walk to load the bases, Smith settled down and struck out the next man to end the threat. Mark Leonhard took over the mound duties in the sixth and the husky Arlington thrower blanked Ridge. Then came the fateful seventh.

In what had to be a nightmare for Romes and a delaight for Palatine's Grybash, nine Stars reached base safely. This was how the cakewalk went:

Des Plaines Bob Chen singled off of Jerry Lycholat. Arlington's Pat Broderick reached on an error. Martin then drove in Chen with a single.

A walk to Norwood Park's Rich Wisniewski loaded the bases and Leonhard helped clear off two sacks with a line drive single. Lycholat left in favor of Dave Patterson, pitcher No. 4, but the switch didn't help.

A passed ball moved both runners up and Palatine's Keith Steelman loaded the sacks again with a walk. An attempted force play at the plate went for an error and allowed Palatine's Gary Pemberton to reload the bases.

Arlington's Dave Zare quickly unloaded them with a hefty double to left-center. This made it 10-2. The big blow both dashed Ridge's hopes for a comeback and drove away most of the sweaty spectators.

Ridge tried in vain to rally in the bottom of the inning. Anderson and Steve Sarcia, the only two players to have two hits each, helped set up their team's final run. Anderson, who came into the contest hitting .459, reached on a fielder's choice and moved to third on Sarcia's single.

Fred Parker then drove in the third run with a hit. Leonhard managed to strike out the next hitter to end the inning with the bases full again.

A Wisniewski triple off Fred Parker and a single by Steelman got back a meaningless run in the eighth. Des Plaines' Larry Monroe blanked Ridge the last two innings.

In the bottom if the ninth, one Ridge player was heard to say, "Come on . . . we need seven . . . let's go!" That sort of summed up the long, hot, lopsided game — they were eight runs behind at the time!

SCORE BY INNINGS

All-Stars ..	300	000	710	11-10-5

A DOUBLE PASSED BALL. Palatine's Dave Hauswirth scampers home after Park Ridge's catcher let a ball get by him in the first inning Saturday. His toss just behind Hauswirth eluded pitcher Greg Ciezadlo and allowed Logan Square's Stan Bobowski to also score. The All-Stars pulled away in the seventh and won 11-3.

Palatine Nips Lions 4-3; Top Four One Game Apart

by TOM CARKEEK

The Ninth District Legion baseball race has been one of the closest in memory througout the season, and it tightened even more Saturday afternoon when Palatine Post 690 downed Logan Square 4-3.

The outcome left Palatine at 9-5 and Logan Square at 10-5. The top five teams in the Ninth District were separated by only two-and-one-half games and the top four teams are split by just one game by Saturday evening.

Park Ridge continued to pace the pack through Saturday's games with a 10-4 slate. Logan moved into second at 10-5, Arlington Heights and Palatine deadlocked in third place at Arlington Heights and Palatine deadlocked in third place at 9-5 and Des Plaines was fifth with an 8-7 ledger.

Norwood Park, which started very slowly but has come on in the last couple weeks was two games back of Des Plaines at 6-9 and league doormat Schiller Park, upon whom everyone else fattens up, was floundering in last with an 0-17 record.

With a full slate of games Sunday, literally anything was possible in this impossible-to-predict chase for league honors.

The most crucial inning of the Palatine-Logan Square game proved to be the sixth. With Post 690 ahead 4-1 going into the top of the sixth, Logan began to show signs of making a comeback. After Palatine starter Ken Roggenbuck struck out Joe Bombicino to start the inning, Stan Bobowski got his third hit of the afternoon when he sent a single to center. Craig Zander drew a walk to put men at first and second.

Roggenbuck then got Ed Collins on strikes, but Jim Bucaro lashed a pitch to deep right-center and legged it for a double as Bobowski and Zander came home, making it 4-3, Palatine with two out and a man in scoring position.

At this point, Roggenbuck, who appeared to tire in the oppressive afternoon sun, was lifted in favor of All-Star George Pattee. Pattee walked the first man he faced, Tom Chapman, to put the lead run on base, but got out of the inning when substitute second baseman John Slack made a nice stop of Jim Miller's grounder and turned it into a force out at second to shut off the Lions.

Post 690 took the early lead in the first when Dave Hauswirth singled and stole second. When Hauswirth attempted to pilfer third, Chapman heaved the ball into left field, allowing Hauswirth to tally.

Palatine added to its margin in the third when Gary Pemberton singled with two out off Logan Square starter Terry Smith and scored when Keith Steelman ripped the first of his two hits, a solid double to center.

Logan came back in the top of the fourth, getting its first run of the gamd when Stan Bobowski, a heavy hitter who touched Roggenbuck for three hits, hit a home run over the right field fence to make it 2-1.

Palatine retaliated with two more in the bottom of the inning. Smith lost some control during the fourth. Pattee reached on an error by Bucaro and then Smith passed Bruce Eberle and Roggenbuck to load the bases with the top of the order coming up.

John Ericson hit into a fielder's choice at second which scored Pattee and then Hauswirth hit a soft spinning line drive which came to rest in short left field and scored Eberle with what turned out to be the winning run. Smith got out of the inning on another fielder's choice.

Jim Miller came in and finished up for Logan Square but the damage had already been done and with it the Ninth District standings jammed up at the top.

Summer Tourney Starts Swinging

After six weeks of action in the Northwest Summer League program, area clubs are now preparing for the post-season tournament — a single-elimination affair that begins tonight.

Over 60 teams will be divided into four sections where head-to-head competition at 6 p.m. tonight, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will determine a winner from each division.

The section winners will vie for a berth in the finals Friday night while the championship clash will be played Monday at Lewis College under the lights at 8 p.m.

First-round pairings in Section I competition will pit Niles East at Wheeling, Prospect at Highland Park, Elk Grove at Evanston, Notre Dame at Fremd, New Trier East at Hersey and Addison Trail at Maine East.

Feature encounters in Section II include Niles West at Forest View, Rolling Meadows at Hinsdale Central and Arlington at Benet.

Tonight's complete schedule with starting time at 6 p.m. is as follows:

SATURDAY SCORCHER. As these fans lining the third base side of the field suffer through the heat, Logan Sqaure Legion coach Larry Nomellini flashes a signal from the coaching box. The All-Star coach relayed the right ones as the combined six-team elite romped past Park Ridge, 11-3, Saturday at Arlington's Recreation Park. Temperatures hit nearly 100. (Photos by Jim Frost)

ALL-STAR STARTING pitcher George Pattee curves a Park Ridge hitter Saturday in the Ninth District Legion show at Arlington Heights. Pattee didn't allow an earned run during the three innings he pitched. The Stars broke it open late to win 11-3.

7-Run 7th Sets Up Win

All-Stars Romp Past Ridge

BY PAUL LOGAN

There was almost all a fan could ask of an all-star game:

- Slugging (a triple and a double).
- Speed (three stolen bases).
- Drama (several plays at the plate).
- Scoring (14 runs in all).
- Pitching (four fast-moving perfect innings).
- Hitting (10 different stars shared hits).

Still, the word "almost" has to be inserted when discussing the second annual showcasing of American Legion baseball talent by the Ninth District at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights Saturday. Why? Simple. The game between the All-Stars and the league leading Park Ridge team lacked spectator staying power.

Saturday's scorching temperature (near 100 degrees) and not playing on Sunday afternoon helped hold the disappointing crowd to about 200 (500 had been hoped for). But even this gathering couldn't stay united for long following the Stars' seventh.

Only leading 3-2 heading into the frame, the Bob Grybash-managed Stars erupted for seven runs. This sudden rout sent most of the fans scurrying for air conditioned spots. They didn't miss much after that. Both teams pushed across single tallies to make the final nine-inning score 11-3.

Those who had turned out for the show had probably hoped for the excitement of the 1971 matchup. On that much cooler day (a Sunday), a much larger crowd turned out to see an exceptional Logan Square team battle back in the eighth for a 6-4 victory.

Park Ridge has a fine team, but not the caliber of the former Lions. Post 247 kept it close against the first group of Stars, but the "second stringers" finally wore the leaders down. Also, facing one ace after another had to hurt Ridge hitting. Meanwhile, Coach Jerry Romes was using five different hurlers and a free substitution rule to no avail.

The romp appeared to be coming early as the Stars roughed up pitcher Greg Ciezadlo for three runs in the first. Arlington's Bert Newman led off with a single. Then he showed the crowd why he won the pre-game base running contest by going from first to third on a hit-and-run single by Palatine's Dave Hauswirth. (Newman had beaten Hauswirth in the foot race, 14.5 to 14.9.)

Logan Square's Stan Bobowski knocked in Newman with a single and moved to second on an outfield error. Hauswirth scored on a passed ball and Bobowski also made it to home when the catcher's underhand toss eluded the pitcher at the plate.

Ciezadlo settled down after that. He tossed two scoreless innings and chunky Scott Jones blanked the Stars three more.

During that time, Ridge rallied. A fielder's choice by Ciezadlo and a single by Russ Anderson off starter George Pattee of Palatine left runners at first and third in the third. When Anderson's steal of second forced a wild throw by the catcher, Ciezadlo.

Post 247 crept within one in the fifth after Logan Square's Ken Martin had blanked the first-place team in the fourth. With teammate Terry Smith on the mound, the Stars committed two more errors which helped set up the second score. Charlie Fahrner reached on a fielder's choice and moved to second on an infield miscue. Rick Lloyd's single to center was bobbled and allowed Fahrner to score unchallenged.

Following a walk to load the bases, Smith settled down and struck out the next man to end the threat. Mark Leonhard took over the mound duties in the sixth and the husky Arlington thrower blanked Ridge. Then came the fateful seventh.

In what had to be a nightmare for Romes and a delaight for Palatine's Grybash, nine Stars reached base safely. This was how the cakewalk went:

Des Plaines Bob Chen singled off of Jerry Lycholat. Arlington's Pat Broderick reached on an error. Martin then drove in Chen with a single.

A walk to Norwood Park's Rich Wisniewski loaded the bases and Leonhard helped clear off two sacks with a line drive single. Lycholat left in favor of Dave Patterson, pitcher No. 4, but the switch didn't help.

A passed ball moved both runners up and Palatine's Keith Steelman loaded the sacks again with a walk. An attempted force play at the plate went for an error and allowed Palatine's Gary Pemberton to reload the bases.

Arlington's Dave Zare quickly unloaded them with a hefty double to left-center. This made it 10-2. The big blow both dashed Ridge's hopes for a comeback and drove away most of the sweaty spectators.

Ridge tried in vain to rally in the bottom of the inning. Anderson and Steve Sarcia, the only two players to have two hits each, helped set up their team's final run. Anderson, who came into the contest hitting .459, reached on a fielder's choice and moved to third on Sarcia's single.

Fred Parker then drove in the third run with a hit. Leonhard managed to strike out the next hitter to end the inning with the bases full again.

A Wisniewski triple off Fred Parker and a single by Steelman got back a meaningless run in the eighth. Des Plaines' Larry Monroe blanked Ridge the last two innings.

In the bottom if the ninth, one Ridge player was heard to say, "Come on . . . we need seven . . . let's go!" That sort of summed up the long, hot, lopsided game — they were eight runs behind at the time!

A DOUBLE PASSED BALL. Palatine's Dave Hauswirth scampers home after Park Ridge's catcher let a ball get by him in the first inning Saturday. His toss just behind Hauswirth eluded pitcher Greg Ciezadlo and allowed Logan Square's Stan Bobowski to also score. The All-Stars pulled away in the seventh and won 11-3.

Palatine Nips Lions 4-3; Top Four One Game Apart

by TOM CARKEEK

The Ninth District Legion baseball race has been one of the closest in memory througout the season, and it tightened even more Saturday afternoon when Palatine Post 690 downed Logan Square 4-3.

The outcome left Palatine at 9-5 and Logan Square at 10-5. The top five teams in the Ninth District were separated by only two-and-one-half games and the top four teams are split by just one game by Saturday evening.

Park Ridge continued to pace the pack through Saturday's games with a 10-4 slate. Logan moved into second at 10-5, Arlington Heights and Palatine deadlocked in third place at Arlington Heights and Palatine deadlocked in third place at 9-5 and Des Plaines was fifth with an 8-7 ledger.

Norwood Park, which started very slowly but has come on in the last couple weeks was two games back of Des Plaines at 6-9 and league doormat Schiller Park, upon whom everyone else fattens up, was floundering in last with an 0-17 record.

With a full slate of games Sunday, literally anything was possible in this impossible-to-predict chase for league honors.

The most crucial inning of the Palatine-Logan Square game proved to be the sixth. With Post 690 ahead 4-1 going into the top of the sixth, Logan began to show signs of making a comeback. After Palatine starter Ken Roggenbuck struck out Joe Bombicino to start the inning, Stan Bobowski got his third hit of the afternoon when he sent a single to center. Craig Zander drew a walk to put men at first and second.

Roggenbuck then got Ed Collins on strikes, but Jim Bucaro lashed a pitch to deep right-center and legged it for a double as Bobowski and Zander came home, making it 4-3, Palatine with two out and a man in scoring position.

At this point, Roggenbuck, who appeared to tire in the oppressive afternoon sun, was lifted in favor of All-Star George Pattee. Pattee walked the first man he faced, Tom Chapman, to put the lead run on base, but got out of the inning when substitute second baseman John Slack made a nice stop of Jim Miller's grounder and turned it into a force out at second to shut off the Lions.

Post 690 took the early lead in the first when Dave Hauswirth singled and stole second. When Hauswirth attempted to pilfer third, Chapman heaved the ball into left field, allowing Hauswirth to tally.

Palatine added to its margin in the third when Gary Pemberton singled with two out off Logan Square starter Terry Smith and scored when Keith Steelman ripped the first of his two hits, a solid double to center.

Logan came back in the top of the fourth, getting its first run of the gamd when Stan Bobowski, a heavy hitter who touched Roggenbuck for three hits, hit a home run over the right field fence to make it 2-1.

Palatine retaliated with two more in the bottom of the inning. Smith lost some control during the fourth. Pattee reached on an error by Bucaro and then Smith passed Bruce Eberle and Roggenbuck to load the bases with the top of the order coming up.

John Ericson hit into a fielder's choice at second which scored Pattee and then Hauswirth hit a soft spinning line drive which came to rest in short left field and scored Eberle with what turned out to be the winning run. Smith got out of the inning on another fielder's choice.

Jim Miller came in and finished up for Logan Square but the damage had already been done and with it the Ninth District standings jammed up at the top.

Lions Tip Des Plaines In Eight Innings, 3-2

by JIM COOK

It was a typical Ninth District Legion thriller

Logan Square and Des Plaines upheld the fast-growing belief that this season is perhaps the most balanced, most wide open and most exciting than any of its predecessors

Phenomenal pitching, clutch hitting, dazzling fielding, extra-innings — all the ingredients that have characterized the schedule — all year— were present in abundance as Logan Square nipped Des Plaines 3-2, in eight nervous innings

Lion southpaw Ken Martin and Des Plaines righthand ace Larry Monroe seemingly took charge of the contest with remote-control like precision

In fact, Monroe and his mates were but one out away from disposing of the Lions, 2-1 but the "never say die' tradition that has marked the 1972 circuit appeared in the form of an error and tied ball game after regulation time

Logan Square, given a new lease on life capitalized on the opportunity in the top of the eighth on Tom Chapman's line single up the middle and Martin's shoing double just inside the rightfield foul line

Prior to the overtime excitement, the contest was spiced by pitching and defense After going down in order to Monroe in the first, the Lions parlayed Stan Bobowski's single, a fielder's choice by Craig Zander, a wild pitch infield out and Jim Bucaro's field base hit to right for the game s initial tally

Des Plaines finally solved Martin the second time through the batting order as Rich Luzinski coaxed a pass to leadoff the fourth and was promptly powered home by Randy Jespersen s booming triple to straightaway center One out later, Steve Scholten boosted his team into a 2-1 advantage with a sacrifice fly to center

Logan Square seemed doomed to defeat upon entering the seventh But with one down, Zander raised Lion hopes by drawing Monroe's second pass

On an attempted pickoff moments later, though, Monroe threw the ball away at first and permitted Zander run-scoring position at second A wild pitch enabled Zander to claim third, but Monroe, under immense pressure, got Ed Collins On strikes and appeared to be out of the fire when Bucaro hammered a one-hopper to third

The ball was underthrown at first, though, and Zander crossed with the tying marker It was all Logan Square needed to bail the decision out of the eighth

Pitching-wise the clash was a masterpiece. Monroe, undeservedly tagged with the loss, yielded just five hits and two walks while fanning eight and setting down 12 straight at one stretch

Martin, meanwhile was equally superb The little lefty seemed to get stronger in the late innings as he passed four, and was touched for four safeties Ken recorded 11 strikeouts and knocked down the final eight hitters he faced including the final five on strikes!

But performances like these are becoming the rule in Ninth District action

'K' Boys Pace Wildcat Victory

The "K" boys helped provide the leadership for Wheeling against visiting Elk Grove Thursday

Usually high scoring against Northwest Summer League foes, the Wildcats could come up with just six hits off Jim Laing, but two of them were lashed by George Kaage

Kaage followed John Theriault's leadoff double in the first with one of his own to put the hosts in the lead for good

The fourth saw the score double with Kaage leading the way again He singled and stole second before Paul Groot doubled him home

The Grenadiers notched their only run off the other part of the "K" combination — winning pitcher Bill Kozel — in dramatic fashion Frank Frankini homered in the fifth

Theriault got that back in the bottom of the inning He walked moved up on a passed ball and scored on Bob Peter's hit

Lions Tip Des Plaines In Eight Innings, 3-2

by JIM COOK

It was a typical Ninth District Legion thriller.

Logan Square and Des Plaines upheld the fast-growing belief that this season is perhaps the most balanced, most wide open and most exciting than any of its predecessors.

Phenomenal pitching, clutch hitting, dazzling fielding, extra-innings — all the ingredients that have characterized the schedule — all year— were present in abundance as Logan Square nipped Des Plaines, 3-2, in eight nervous innings.

Lion southpaw Ken Martin and Des Plaines righthand ace Larry Monroe seemingly took charge of the contest with remote-control like precision.

In fact, Monroe and his mates were but one out away from disposing of the Lions, 2-1, but the "never say die" tradition that has marked the 1972 circuit appeared in the form of an error and tied ball game after regulation time.

Logan Square, given a new lease on life, capitalized on the opportunity in the top of the eighth on Tom Chapman's line single up the middle and Martin's slicing double just inside the rightfield foul line.

Prior to the overtime excitement, the contest was spiced by pitching and defense. After going down in order to Monroe in the first, the Lions parlayed Stan Bobowski's single, a fielder's choice by Craig Zander, a wild pitch, infield out and Jim Bucaro's field base hit to right for the game's initial tally.

Des Plaines finally solved Martin the second time through the batting order as Rich Luzinski coaxed a pass to leadoff the fourth and was promptly powered home by Randy Jespersen's booming triple to straightaway center. One out later, Steve Scholten boosted his team into a 2-1 advantage with a sacrifice fly to center.

Logan Square seemed doomed to defeat upon entering the seventh. But with one down, Zander raised Lion hopes by drawing Monroe's second pass.

On an attempted pickoff moments later, though, Monroe threw the ball away at first and permitted Zander run-scoring position at second. A wild pitch enabled Zander to claim third, but Monroe, under immense pressure, got Ed Collins On strikes and appeared to be out of the fire when Bucaro hammered a one-hopper to third.

The ball was underthrown at first, though, and Zander crossed with the tying marker. It was all Logan Square needed to bail the decision out of the eighth.

Pitching-wise, the clash was a masterpiece. Monroe, undeservedly tagged with the loss, yielded just five hits and two walks while fanning eight and setting down 12 straight at one stretch.

Martin, meanwhile, was equally superb. The little lefty seemed to get stronger in the late innings as he passed four, and was touched for four safeties. Ken recorded 11 strikeouts and knocked down the final eight hitters he faced including the final five on strikes!

But performances like these are becoming the rule in Ninth District action.

Matt Bale was the winning pitcher, defeating Bruce Anderson and the Yankees.

'K' Boys Pace Wildcat Victory

The "K" boys helped provide the leadership for Wheeling against visiting Elk Grove Thursday.

Usually high scoring against Northwest Summer League foes, the Wildcats could come up with just six hits off Jim Laing, but two of them were lashed by George Kaage.

Kaage followed John Theriault's leadoff double in the first with one of his own to put the hosts in the lead for good.

The fourth saw the score double with Kaage leading the way again. He singled and stole second before Paul Groot doubled him home.

The Grenadiers notched their only run off the other part of the "K" combination — winning pitcher Bill Kozel — in dramatic fashion. Frank Frankini homered in the fifth.

Theriault got that back in the bottom of the inning. He walked, moved up on a passed ball and scored on Bob Peter's hit.

Addison Downs Falcons Again

Forest View's Summer League team would probably be happy if it never sees Addison Trail again. The Falcons weren't able to do much against the fine Blazer squad this year, being shut out 4-0 Wednesday after an earlier 15-2 beating.

Jeff Kurz pitched a six-hitter for the Falcons in the latest contest but was not supported as his mates managed only two hits — by Bob Richter and Mike Dyon.

The Blazers were ahead from the first inning on and padded their lead with two in the third and one in the sixth. Forest View helped them with two errors.

Elk Grove was limited to just thee hits and absorbed a heart-breaking 2-1 setback at the hands of Fenton Friday in Northwest Summer League play.

The loss came on the eve of the postseason tournament which opens tonight and concludes in one week with the championship series at Lewis College.

Grenadier Bob Streich pitched creditably in a losing cause that found Elk Grove tally its lone marker of the contest in the fifth when Jeff Stewart crossed on John Srybel's sacrifice fly.

Fremd Wins 4-3 On Smith's Double

Fred Smith doubled to left-center in the bottom of the first extra inning to score the winning run and lift Fremd to a 4-3 victory over Dundee in High School Summer Baseball Thursday.

Smith's double drove in Keven Phalen, who had singled and stolen second. It preserved the win for Jeff Hanisch, who toiled all eight innings and recorded six strikeouts.

Dundee drew first blood by tallying two in the first and one in the second to take a 3-0 lead before Fremd got on the board.

The Vikings posted three runs in the second to tie the game and eventually require extra innings. Two singles and a walk loaded the bases and then Smith, Mark Otteman and Tom Knecht scored on two successive infield errors and a double steal. Fremd scored three runs on just one hit in the second.

Olympic Feats Of 1896

ATHENS, 1896 — James Bernard Connolly's request for leave of absence to travel to the first of the Modern Olympic Games was turned down flatly by the Dean of Studies at Harvard University.

Connolly, however, was a headstrong young man and had his heart set on competing at Athens. He took the only course open to him. He walked out of Harvard and ended his university career.

At Athens he clinched a gold medal in the triple jump with a final effort of 44 feet 11¾ inches. He mounted the victory rostrum to be crowned with the traditional laurel wreath. The American flag was hoisted and massed bands played "The Stars and Stripes Forever." Thus James Bernard Connolly became the first Olympic champion of the Modern era . . .

Both the Olympic 100 meters and 1,200 meters swimming championships, won by Alfred Hajos (Hungary), were held in the open sea at Phaleron. In addition to the cold — the temperature of the water was 13 degrees Centigrade — the competitors had to combat waves as high as 12 feet at times.

Several competitors had, in fact, to be rescued from drowning. According to Hajos, the biggest fear during the 1,200 meters event was that he might get cramps and he is on record as saying: "My will to live completely overcame my desire to win."

Bucaro's Homer Nips Heights, 1-0

Jim Hopkins ought to have a good shot at being the Ninth District's hard luck player of the year after what has happened to him in his last two starts

The Arlington ace has given up only two earned runs and a total of seven hits in his last 15 innings, yet he has suffered two straight losses

The second of these setbacks came Friday when his Arlington Heights Legion team suffered a 1-0 loss in eight innings at the hands of Logan Square Jim Bucaro, Logan Square shortstop, laid into one of Hopkins' serves as the leadoff batter in the bottom of the eighth and hammered it over the left-field fence for the only run of the game

Until the eighth there had been only four hits from the two teams combined Logan Square had base runners in the first, third and seventh and actually mounted a small threat in the first

Swift leadoff man Ken Martin singled to left to open the inning, moved up to second when Hopkins let loose with a wild pitch and advanced to third when catcher Pat Broderick was charged with a passed ball But Martin died at third as Hopkins got Steve Bobowski and Joe Bombicino on strikes and Stan Bobowski on an easy grounder

Arlington put its first two men in the second inning on base, but Logan pitcher Mike Cook struck out the side to get out of the jam

Cook looked a little tight in the early innings His pitches consistently came in high and he had a little control trouble, walking two of the first five men he faced But Cook settled down and thereafter allowed only two more base runners, one of whom was out stealing and another who was picked off in the top of the eighth

Cook permitted only two hits, but had the game ended in the regulation seven innings would have had a one-hitter He struck out eight and walked three Hopkins, pitching well enough to win almost any other time, gave up four hits fanned five and walked only one

Bucaro's game-winner travelled a good 360 feet on the fly The little shortstop had provided a bit of foreshadowing in the fifth inning when he tagged a 3-2 pitch deep to left-center but was out when center fielder Mark Leonhard made a long run to catch it in front of the 368-foot marker

Those who remembered the first meeting between Wheeling and Arlington would recall that the Wildcats took the Cardinals in a thriller, 11-10

The second Northwest Summer League meeting was expected to be just an offensive, but it fell short — 20 runs to be exact

Arlington playing more of a giveaway game than the visiting 'Cats, dropped a tough 1-0 contest Friday

Wheeling came up with the biggy in the first inning after just two swings Leadoff man John Theriault singled and scored on a follow up double by Bob Peter Gordon Nelson made this lead hold-up in throwing a six-hitter, striking out one and walking three

Gregg Hauptly only allowed five hits, struck out three more batters and also walked just one, but his teammates either failed to come up with the clutch hit or were picked off just before it came

Wayne Heise did it all for Arlington, but he couldn't knock himself in He started the third with a double, one of three hits he had in as many tries He was sacrificed to third by Dennis O'Connell and was left stranded by the next two batters

On five other occasions in the seven-inning game the hosts had base runners, but each time a pickoff (there were two of them at second) or a failure to hit killed the inning Wheeling also out-errored Arlington 4-1, but that still didn't help the Cards

The victory gave Coach Ron DeBolt's 'Cats a momentum building 12-game winning streak to take into tonight's scheduled tourney opener

CONTROLLING THE SWING-PLANE

THE DEGREE OF UPRIGHTNESS OR FLATNESS TO A SWING PLANE IS LARGELY CONTROLLED BY THE LEFT ARM AS IT CARRIES THE CLUB INTO THE BACKSWING.

FOR THE UPRIGHT SWING, WHICH I PREFER, THE LEFT ARM MUST MOVE OUT AND AWAY FROM THE BODY AS THE HIPS TURN AND THE CLUB GOES BACK.

WHEN THE LEFT ARM HUGS OR FOLLOWS THE BODY CLOSELY, THE RESULT IS A FLAT TYPE OF SWING.

Bucaro's Homer Nips Heights, 1-0

Jim Hopkins ought to have a good shot at being the Ninth District's hard luck player of the year after what has happened to him in his last two starts.

The Arlington ace has given up only two earned runs and a total of seven hits in his last 15 innings, yet he has suffered two straight losses.

The second of these setbacks came Friday when his Arlington Heights Legion team suffered a 1-0 loss in eight innings at the hands of Logan Square. Jim Bucaro, Logan Square shortstop, laid into one of Hopkins' serves as the leadoff batter in the bottom of the eighth and hammered it over the left-field fence for the only run of the game.

Until the eighth, there had been only four hits from the two teams combined. Logan Square had base runners in the first, third and seventh and actually mounted a small threat in the first.

Swift leadoff man Ken Martin singled to left to open the inning, moved up to second when Hopkins let loose with a wild pitch and advanced to third when catcher Pat Broderick was charged with a passed ball. But Martin died at third as Hopkins got Steve Bobowski and Joe Bombicino on strikes and Stan Bobowski on an easy grounder.

Arlington put its first two men in the second inning on base, but Logan pitcher Mike Cook struck out the side to get out of the jam.

Cook looked a little tight in the early innings. His pitches consistently came in high and he had a little control trouble, walking two of the first five men he faced. But Cook settled down and thereafter allowed only two more base runners, one of whom was out stealing and another who was picked off in the top of the eighth.

Cook permitted only two hits, but had the game ended in the regulation seven innings would have had a one-hitter. He struck out eight and walked three. Hopkins, pitching well enough to win almost any other time, gave up four hits, fanned five and walked only one.

Bucaro's game-winner travelled a good 360 feet on the fly. The little shortstop had provided a bit of foreshadowing in the fifth inning when he tagged a 3-2 pitch deep to left-center but was out when center fielder Mark Leonhard made a long run to catch it in front of the 368-foot marker.

CONTROLLING THE SWING PLANE

FOR THE UPRIGHT SWING, WHICH I PREFER, THE LEFT ARM MUST MOVE OUT AND AWAY FROM THE BODY AS THE HIPS TURN AND THE CLUB GOES BACK.

WHEN THE LEFT ARM HUGS OR FOLLOWS THE BODY CLOSELY, THE RESULT IS A FLAT TYPE OF SWING.

Boundary Talks Can Be Calm

Boundaries, busing and budgets — the three best issues for rousing taxpayers' emotions and producing havoc at school board meetings.

But perhaps the most provocative of the three is boundaries. Construction of the Dist. 211 Hoffman Estates High School and the Dist. 214 Buffalo Grove High School, both scheduled to open in the fall of 1973, has brought up the boundary issue again.

Tonight, the Dist. 214 School Board will begin preliminary boundary discussions. We urge the boards in both districts to approach the discussions with planning and fairness and to ride the storm with patience.

There is nothing like moving a student from one school to another to set some parents' teeth on edge. The child's social life will be destroyed, his emotional stability will be upset and his security will be shattered, parents complain.

One thing the parents don't mention is a deep-seated fear the new school will not be as good as the old. The new school poses not only as a threat to their child's academic standing, but also to their own personal status.

The cries of objection usually stem from the fringes of the new school's boundaries. The residents living close to the school are more likely to feel possessive and paternal towards the new school. But the residents living just over the line from the old school often don't share these ties. They want to stay where they are.

On the other side of the boundary are the students who will be left at the old school but want to move to the new. In some cases this involves community identity — the new school bears their town's name. Or it might simply be their friends are being moved and they want to go too.

What the parents forget when they appear before the board is that the lines have to be drawn somewhere and if exceptions are made for them, someone else will suffer. We urge parents to look at the total problem facing the school board and realize priorities have to be set for the good of the greatest number.

In addition, the parents should give their children more credit for adaptability. Youth has an amazing ability to bounce back and accept new situations.

Yet, we recognize the enrollment changes can be a source of frustration. For this reason, we also urge the school boards to be more sensitive to the parents' complaints and to hear them with an open mind.

A public hearing should be announced and public opinion should be absorbed. But then the board should exercise its authority and set boundaries with no further hassle.

The board should guard against emotionalism when making boundary decisions. The lines should be drawn for the good of the greatest number and not to appease isolated groups. With this approach, order should win over havoc.

New World For Greed

Greed and the profit motive opened up a new territory last year: the moon.

It seems that three U. S. astronauts — David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin — snuck along with them to the moon last year a batch of "first day covers," which are envelopes with first-day-of-issue U. S. postage stamps on them.

Upon returning to the earth, the trio sold a batch of the envelopes to European and American collectors. A statement from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said the profit would go into a "trust fund" for the astronaut's children.

Now, there's no reason why the underpaid astronauts couldn't take 144 envelopes along in their "personal preference kits" as mementos — but NASA rules don't permit the sale of such items for a profit.

In fact, the three astronauts were scolded recently for what has been termed their "poor judgment" in the Great Interplanetary Stamp Caper. "They will be reprimanded and their action given due consideration in their selection for future duty assignments," NASA stated Tuesday.

We have another idea for concluding the stamp episode. All of the envelopes should be retrieved, shredded like scandalous official memos and sent back to the moon to be buried in the soft lunar soil.

Such a burial might have a message for future space developers who might want to subdivide the public property of the moonscape for personal greed, gain and profit — at the public's expense.

Classics' Upswing

The classics are staging a comeback in at least one university.

According to the Stanford Observer, undergraduate enrollent in the school's classics department has more than doubled in the past four years.

"The students who take Latin courses are mostly interested in the Western literary experience," says Professor William Berg. "The Greek courses have always had a relatively heavy enrollment that included campus radicals with an interest in Plato."

That's what radical means — "proceeding from the roots." And Plato, it will be recalled, was no believer in democracy.

Enough To Give Anyone The Shakes

Tom Wellman's Column

Hitting That Anonymous Mail

The greatest danger in responding to unsigned letters is that the responder might lapse into the frame of mind of the letterwriter.

In other words, there's usually little point in screaming back at a screamer. But attempting to understand and rebut what the writer is trying to say, and what he means, can have a bit of value.

Every month we receive several unsigned letters with no return address. We gained a couple such letters this month on the issue of capital punishment. Normally, we discard unsigned letters (we will however, withhold names when letters are signed).

We provoked the attack by commending the U.S. Supreme Court on July 6 for rejecting capital punishment. The letter, from which we're printing excerpts, deserves the comment which follows each paragraph:

"It's because of jerks like you that criminals roam the streets like predators, preying on the unsuspecting public."

Frankly, I had little awareness that the Herald's editorial page was producing criminals at the rate which our writer suggests. This seems to be a new function of the press which neither Horace Greeley nor William Randolph Hearst could have imagined.

"Statistics have shown that hardened criminals, once released, will commit another serious crime in about 90 per cent of the cases."

Tom Wellman

Not only is that a comment on the hardened criminal's readership to our editorial pages, it reflects on the ability of our prisons to rehabilitate convicted criminals. And the writer failed to include statistics to back up his stand.

"You mean to tell me you condone this type of thing (referring to the recent assault on a young child) and this person should not be eliminated from society."

Obviously we don't condone an assault on anyone. A person can also be "eliminated" from society via a prison term — and with the hope he can eventually return to society as a normal member.

"Or the plane hijackings where hundreds of people may be killed by some idiot who can't conform to society's rules. You mean to try and tell me that these people should not be put to death."

Stiff enforcement of anti-hijacking laws, gate inspections and the use of guards on flights will help cut the rate. Stiff prison sentences, following fair trials, will probably help, too.

In other words, avoid the necessity of considering the death penalty — or the kind of vigilante justice which is hidden between our writer's lines — by preventing a golden opportunity for crime.

"It's people like you that should be strung up by your fingers and tortured until some sense is put into that thick skull of yours . . . We need stronger law enforcement, not rules that conform to the criminal's liking."

We've editorially supported the full and fair enforcement of almost all laws on the books. And it's important to note that our writer could become a "criminal" quite by accident (mistaken identity, for example) and thus subject to some of the same laws he now opposes.

"One justice on the United States Supreme Court said, 'We are returning to the law of the jungle.' I have my gun, you had better get yours."

Which is precisely why the crime rate is high today, because, "I have my gun, you had better get yours." We all have guns, and thus, guns are easily available — and easily used.

We say we buy them for protection, but there's no "truth test" for the gun dealer to determine the proposed use of such an easily concealed weapon as a handgun.

Indeed, there are two forms of capital punishment: official and private. Neither has yet proved to be effective in solving any of man's problems.

Scouts Boosted Glass Drive

I raise my glass to you, Erik!

Well, another glass recycling Saturday had come and gone; and as usual the regular contributors faithfully brought more than their share of glass.

By 2:30 that day we were going to put the glass recycling truck away, in which, was a very disappointing amount of glass. . . the lowest amount for the year!

We wondered why so little glass. Perhaps many people were on vacation. Maybe because of the new village hall location fewer people happened upon the old location. Maybe we didn't advertise enough. Could it be that most Hoffmanites still don't realize the immediate importance of recycling our natural resources and the necessity of preserving our dwindling landfill site?

We were feeling somewhat depressed until we heard of the good news from Winston Knolls!

At 2:30 we were told to pick up some glass on Winston Drive.

What was going on north of the Tollway?

Upon arriving at the new elementary school site, we found three huge piles of glass, one green, one brown, and one clear! And overseeing the glass was Erik Meverden and a half-dozen tired but proud looking Scouts.

The effort was one of Erik's Eagle Scout projects in which he chose to "promote ecology at the same time."

Helping Erik with his Eagle Project were John, Paul and Dad Meverden, Jeff and Greg Weichart, Chris Hallen and Randy Kowalczyk.

And so Erik and his friends from Boy Scout Troop 955 pulled the weekend drive out of the cellar, by collecting and contributing almost one quarter of the total tonnage collected in Hoffman Estates!

The FENCE POST
Letters to the Editor

Mount Prospect Fence Law Blasted

I wish to express my views on the fence ordinance of Mount Prospect. I also represent the views of many Mount Prospect residents who agree with me. One of the top officials of Mount Prospect's government also agrees with me, but I cannot mention his name. In its present form, I would say the ordinance is discriminatory. It is necessary to post a deposit of $125 in order to get a hearing. Even if you lose your case, it costs you money. The persons who comprise the Board of Appeals give their time without any compensation for their time. Where does the deposit go? These deposits total many dollars.

We were denied a fence because we asked for a height of five feet. Mr. George Jacobsmeyer told us at our hearing the granting of such a fence would set a precedent in Mount Prospect. For his information, there is such a fence, a redwood with practically no air space and five feet tall only a few blocks from our residence. Who is Mr. Jacobsmeyer fooling?

There are many 42-inch wire fences in Mount Prospect in very high class areas, and they do not add to the prestige of a village like Mount Prospect. The trustees who passed this ordinance must be of the type of 50 years ago. Why not elect modern trustees who will let us build high class and expensive fences so we can improve our property values, and beautify our village.

The residents of Mount Prospect should voice their objections to this ordinance by contacting our mayor and village manager.

Albert J. Motsch

'Human Care' Coverage Lauded

On behalf of Northwest Suburban Homemaker Service District Board, its Community Relations Committee, and the staff, I want to express our deep appreciation for the excellent feature story by Billie Bachhuber which appeared in the June 22 Suburban Living Section. Your cooperation in reaching the vast readership of the Paddock Publications with news of our important human care services and with the warm portrayal of the professional homemaker, is of inestimable value. We have received numerous responses to the story, most requesting homemaker service or further information for a possible future need, but quite a few inquiring about careers in homemaking with our agency.

We will certainly keep in mind your kind suggestion that in another six months or so we should contact you again to explore possibilities for another story. It is a continuing challenge to make homemaker service more widely known and under stood by the families of the northwest suburbs. The Paddock papers are the best medium I can imagine for meeting this challenge.

Please convey our gratitude also to Mrs. Bachhuber for her sensitive, comprehensive piece of writing.

Cycle Track Needed

Regarding the articles in the Herald about the Arlington Park District and their youth problems. If the older kids have nothing to do it's because the district spends all of its time and money catering to the super jock. They have never once offered equal opportunity to the group commonly known as "greasers." Conform or get out is the motto. Now that's discrimination.

Building a super sports complex for the community is not my idea of servicing "all."

Ignoring the fact that half the kids in Arlington want a place to race motorized bikes is foolish (and not all of these kids are greasers.) Instead of sitting back, the Park District could be a progressive pacesetter by setting aside a tract of land for supervised cycle racing.

Would it really harm the snob image Arlington Heights has so successfully built up over the years?

The effort was one of Erik's Eagle Scout projects in which he chose to "promote ecology at the same time."

Helping Erik with his Eagle Project were John, Paul and Dad Meverden, Jeff and Greg Weichart, Chris Hallen and Randy Kowalczyk.

And so Erik and his friends from Boy Scout Troop 955 pulled the weekend drive out of the cellar, by collecting and contributing almost one quarter of the total tonnage collected in Hoffman Estates!

Mount Prospect Fence Law Blasted

I wish to express my views on the fence ordinance of Mount Prospect. I also represent the views of many Mount Prospect residents who agree with me. One of the top officials of Mount Prospect's government also agrees with me, but I cannot mention his name. In its present form, I would say the ordinance is discriminatory. It is necessary to post a deposit of $125 in order to get a hearing. Even if you lose your case, it costs you money. The persons who comprise the Board of Appeals give their time without any compensation for their time. Where does the deposit go? These deposits total many dollars.

We were denied a fence because we asked for a height of five feet. Mr. George Jacobsmeyer told us at our hearing the granting of such a fence would set a precedent in Mount Prospect. For his information, there is such a fence, a redwood with practically no air space and five feet tall only a few blocks from our residence. Who is Mr. Jacobsmeyer fooling?

There are many 42-inch wire fences in Mount Prospect in very high class areas, and they do not add to the prestige of a village like Mount Prospect. The trustees who passed this ordinance must be of the type of 50 years ago. Why not elect modern trustees who will let us build high class and expensive fences so we can improve our property values, and beautify our village.

The residents of Mount Prospect should voice their objections to this ordinance by contacting our mayor and village manager.

'Human Care' Coverage Lauded

On behalf of Northwest Suburban Homemaker Service District Board, its Community Relations Committee, and the staff, I want to express our deep appreciation for the excellent feature story by Billie Bachhuber which appeared in the June 22 Suburban Living Section. Your cooperation in reaching the vast readership of the Paddock Publications with news of our important human care services and with the warm portrayal of the professional homemaker, is of inestimable value. We have received numerous responses to the story, most requesting homemaker service or further information for a possible future need, but quite a few inquiring about careers in homemaking with our agency.

We will certainly keep in mind your kind suggestion that in another six months or so we should contact you again to explore possibilities for another story. It is a continuing challenge to make homemaker service more widely known and under stood by the families of the northwest suburbs. The Paddock papers are the best medium I can imagine for meeting this challenge.

Please convey our gratitude also to Mrs. Bachhuber for her sensitive, comprehensive piece of writing.

Cycle Track Needed

Regarding the articles in the Herald about the Arlington Park District and their youth problems. If the older kids have nothing to do it's because the district spends all of its time and money catering to the super jock. They have never once offered equal opportunity to the group commonly known as "greasers." Conform or get out is the motto. Now that's discrimination.

Building a super sports complex for the community is not my idea of servicing "all."

Ignoring the fact that half the kids in Arlington want a place to race motorized bikes is foolish (and not all of these kids are greasers.) Instead of sitting back, the Park District could be a progressive pacesetter by setting aside a tract of land for supervised cycle racing.

Would it really harm the snob image Arlington Heights has so successfully built up over the years?

New World For Greed

Greed and the profit motive opened up a new territory last year: the moon.

It seems that three U. S. astronauts — David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin — snuck along with them to the moon last year a batch of "first day covers," which are envelopes with first-day-of-issue U. S. postage stamps on them.

Upon returning to the earth, the trio sold a batch of the envelopes to European and American collectors. A statement from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said the profit would go into a "trust fund" for the astronaut's children.

Now, there's no reason why the underpaid astronauts couldn't take 144 envelopes along in their "personal preference kits" as momentos — but NASA rules don't permit the sale of such items for a profit.

In fact, the three astronauts were scolded recently for what has been termed their "poor judgment" in the Great Interplanetary Stamp Caper. "They will be reprimanded and their action given due consideration in their selection for future duty assignments," NASA stated Tuesday.

We have another idea for concluding the stamp episode. All of the envelopes should be retrieved, shredded like scandalous official memos and sent back to the moon to be buried in the soft lunar soil.

Such a burial might have a message for future space developers who might want to subdivide the public property of the moonscape for personal greed, gain and profit — at the public's expense.

Classics' Upswing

The classics are staging a comeback in at least one university.

According to the Stanford Observer, undergraduate enrollent in the school's classics department has more than doubled in the past four years.

"The students who take Latin courses are mostly interested in the Western literary experience," says Professor William Berg. "The Greek courses have always had a relatively heavy enrollment that included campus radicals with an interest in Plato."

That's what radical means — "proceeding from the roots." And Plato, it will be recalled, was no believer in democracy.

Business Today

by DEAN C. MILLER
UPI Business Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — To most people a farm is a plot of land devoted to growing food.

To Jon Lindbergh, 39, son of Charles Lindbergh, the famed aviator, it can be and is a body of water where protein in the form of salmon is grown like some people grow wheat or corn. The Seattle operation is the only salt water salmon "farm" in the United States. Marine Protein Corp., New York, has a freshwater salmon farm in Millheim, Pa. and is building another such silo plant at Mammouth Springs, Ark.

Lindbergh, vice president and director of Domsea Farms, Inc., a subsidiary of Union Carbide, has specialized in aquaculture for years and his interest sharpened as oceans become more and more polluted, endangering the world's supply of protein, necessary to life.

ASIDE FROM humanitarian motives, Lindbergh sees a $10 million to $40 million market in the pan-sized coho and chinook salmon he farms in Puget Sound, just west of Seattle.

Since the project began early in 1970 with technical and financial assistance from the National Ocean and Atmospheric Administration, Domsea has harvested 250,000 pan-sized salmon. Because of pollution, the going price of Atlantic salmon has soared to $6 per pound. Domsea gets about $1.25 per pound and the wholesaler about $1.75.

The pan-sized salmon, about a pound or less, have been test marketed in restaurants in Seattle, San Francisco, Washington, D.C. and Newton, Mass., and Domsea described customer reaction as "good."

Many countries have checked out the Domsea operation. Among them are Canada, Chile, Japan, Norway and the Soviet Union.

It takes Lindbergh and his staff about 13 months, from egg to skillet, to deliver such a salmon on the commercial market.

EARLY TRANSFER of the fish from fresh water ponds into floating net pens in a salt water environment has been part of the production breakthrough. It avoids many problems and the high cost of lengthy cultivation in fresh water ponds and results in accelerated growth.

Domsea salmon are grown on prepared food designed to increase weight quickly. It also eliminates most pesticides and metals found in natural feeding waters.

If the salmon experiment proves successful, Domsea says it will investigate the farming of trout, tuna, mussels, scallops, lobsters, shrimp and pompano.

Sheraton Opens Buenos Aires Hotel

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) The ITT conglomerate's Sheraton hotel chain has opened this capital's largest hotel, the 800-room Buenos Aires Sheraton, without fanfare or even a ribbon-cutting.

ITT's tarnished public relations image as result of Chile's claims of alleged intervention in its internal affairs had nothing to do with the low key opening, manager Frank Vidal said.

He said a full-blown inauguration will be held later.

Another hotel executive said hydraulic-driven glass doors for the main ballroom were stuck in customs, and they were to play a major role in the formal opening.

The July 1 opening without so much as a newspaper advertisement nonetheless, was considered unusual. Hotel men recalled that Sheraton executives went all out for the 1970 inauguration of the San Cristobal Sheraton in Santiago, Chile, shortly after Marxist Salvador Allende won the presidency there.

LATER, PURLOINED ITT memos found their way into the public domain through Washington columnist Jack Anderson, purporting that ITT had attempted to interest other corporations and the U.S. government in an effort to topple Allende.

The revelations were front-page fare throughout Latin America.

During last April's trade union elections here, a leftist "blue slate" of candidates included in its platform demands that the Argentine government:

—Ban ITT from the nation forever.

—Confiscate Standard Electric, an ITT telephone equipment manufacturing subsidiary —Confiscate the then-uncompleted Sheraton hotel and hand it over to the state airline, Aerolineas Argentinas, for management.

THE ACTION WAS proposed to forestall possible ITT "internal intervention in Argentina."

The "blue slate" lost the elections.

Aside from being Buenos Aires' largest, the new $25 million hotel appeared worthy of a highly touted opening. It boasts a convention hall, a 230-seat concert auditorium, two tennis courts, a large pool, coffee shop and restaurant. Eadh of the 800 rooms has a television set and direct dial telephone. A conveyer belt whisks luggage into the lobby.

Boise Cascade Considers Tax Charge Against Income

Boise Cascade Corp. announced it is considering a special charge, all or most of which would be extraordinary, approximating $200 million against income. The tax effect of this charge has not yet been fully evaluated.

R. V. Hansberger, chairman and chief executive officer, said that if the charge is taken, it would arise principally from two major decisions now under consideration. The first would involve an acceleration of the company's withdrawal from the recreation communities business, including the immediate discontinuance of retail land sales at Boise Cascade's recreation communities projects in California.

Due primarily to the adverse environment created by lawsuits, sales have failed to reach acceptable levels during recent months and are not projected to improve.

The second decision would involve adding to the company's reserve for Latin American investment because of the increasingly unsettled aspects of certain of these investments. The major portion of the charge would involve recreation communities.

Hansberger said if the company decides to discontinue retail sales of recreation communities property, it will continue other activities at its existing recreation communities projects and will fulfill its obligations to property-owners at those projects.

He anticipated the decisions concerning the special charge would be made about the end of this month. The company's other principal businesses are sound and profitable, according to Hansberger.

Boise Cascade includes area facilities in Bartlett and Elk Grove Village.

U.S. Seeks To Get Employes' Back Pay

The U.S. Department of Labor recently sought a court order to stop alleged violations of the Equal Pay Act by the Continental Insurance Companies. In a complaint filed in the U.S. District Court in Chicago, the department also asked for an unspecified amount of back pay for women employes of the company, based at 360 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago.

The Equal Pay Act required that employes of a company doing the same work in the same place receive equal rates of pay, regardless of sex.

The filing of the complaint followed an investigation by the Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division, 2222 W. 95th St., Chicago. It was conducted under the auspices of area director Daniel P. New.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bache & Co. says the stock market will see a slow deterioration paced by intermittant rallies over the next several weeks. Once the Dow Jones industrial average hits 890, the market may turn around and head for the long-awaited 1,000 mark, it adds. However, Bache advises buying on any dips below 820 "with emphasis on glamour issues."

Investor apathy has kept the stock market down, according to Reynolds Securities. In order to break the doldrums, Reynolds says the market needs a sudden bullish surprise, such as an announced truce in Southeast Asia, a large rise in stock volume, or a show of strength by the Dow Jones industrials. Reynolds concludes, "This is a most unpleasant interlude in what will develop into a happy ending."

The recent British decision to let the pound "float" should ultimately aid the U.S. stock market, Abraham & Co. says. Foreign countries are imposing exchange-control barriers against dollars offered for sale, and this should turn quantities of dollars back into the stock market for investment. This factor will lead toward a stronger stock market and good "buying opportunities," the firm concludes.

If Junior finishes near the foot of his graduating class, don't despair. He may have a great future ahead of him selling stocks and bonds If his I.Q. is high, he may make a bum broker and his future may lie not in selling securities but stealing them.

That would seem to be the paradoxical and somewhat unsettling conclusion to be drawn by putting together two pieces of news that came in from different directions.

The first announced the discovery of what appears to be an inverse relationship between intelligence and success as a broker or "registered rep." Putting it more bluntly, if you didn't distinguish yourself scholastically, what your professors regarded as lack of acumen could prove to be a financial asset on Wall Street.

Studies have shown it's reported, that people who make high marks on the tests that stock and bond salesmen are required to pass don't necessarily turn out to be successful salesmen of stocks and bonds. Says Charles K. Rudman, president of the Klein Institute for Aptitude Evaluation in New York City:

"TO PASS a test demonstrates an aptitude for remembering learned information. To make good as a registered representative requires completely different aptitudes. " Studies based on how well brokerage salesmen have actually done, he reports, "show that there is little or no correlation between the two sets of aptitudes."

But the poor fellow with the high I.Q., who lacks the aptitudes required of a successful salesman of securities, finds himself well-equipped to function in one of the newest, most sophisticated and most rewarding branches of thievery — stealing securities.

So says an executive of one of the country's largest securities firms, Daniel P. Mullane, security director of the Wall Street firm of Loeb, Rhoades & Co.

"There was a time when the professional burglar or thief would take only cash, jewelry or other valuables and ignore stock and bond certificates," he told a conference in Hershey, Pa., sponsored by the American Insurance Association.

"CONVERTING STOLEN stocks and bonds into cash requires an involved, intricate process," said Mullane, but today's young-generation criminals have "acquired the business knowledge to successfully use stolen certificates" — thereby demonstrating again the value of education, in a perverse way.

So don't keep your stock certificates and bonds in a box under the bed, trusting that the burglars will leave them behind, as in the past. Better keep them in a safe deposit box — because missing stock certificates are extremely bothersome and expensive to replace and stolen bearer bonds are probably a total loss.

As for that straight-A average of Junior's that you're so proud of — well, you'd better ask him what he has in mind as a career, if he's studying business administration and investments.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Recently I had pneumonia and an X-ray revealed I had emphysema. I was told to quit smoking (easier said than done) and now I find if I quit smoking there isn't any guarantee it will arrest the emphysema.

To tell the truth, I'm not even sure what emphysema is or what happens to your lungs. Is this a serious disease or is it overdramatized? Could you tell me exactly what it is and what happens if it continues to get worse and how a person would know. Does it progress rapidly?

Dear Reader—Yes, emphysema is a very serious disease. To understand emphysema, you need to consider the lungs. The main windpipe, or trachea, divides into a right and left bronchus. These two main airways continue to branch into smaller airways until they terminate in numerous little blind sacs called alveoli. Think of these as little bottles. The bottle neck is the main location where emphysema strikes.

In emphysema, this opening becomes constricted so that it is difficult for air to pass in or out of the lung. The nature of breathing is such that this obstruction tends to trap air in the air sacs, causing them to be overdistended.

This causes too much stale air to be kept in the small air sacs. Characteristically, the lungs of a person with emphysema are over-inflated, partially filled with stale air. Despite vigorous exhaling, an excess amount of old air remains in the lungs. The accumulation of old air without enough oxygen makes it difficult for the circulation to get enough oxygen from the lungs to supply the body.

The serverity of symptoms caused by emphysema literally depends upon how much old air is trapped in the lungs. As the condition progresses, the absence of sufficient oxygen leads to breathlessness and decreased ability to do physical exercise.

CIGARETTE smoking aggravates the obstruction at the bottle neck to the air sac. Some individuals are essentially allergic to cigarette smoke, which makes this condition even worse for them.

While there is no guarantee that stopping smoking will eliminate the problem for someone who already has difficulties, in many individuals it results in marked improvement and essentially causes the disease to stop progressing. Your doctor was absolutely right in telling you to quit smoking cigarettes.

How can you tell what's going on? Mostly by progressive breathlessness or increased evidence of shortness of breath with physical exertion.

It's impossible to say how rapidly such a disorder will progress in an individual without having all the medical information available. Even then it is difficult. The most important factor, though, is what you do about yourself. This specifically means staying completely away from cigarettes forever and following carefully the advice your doctor give you in reference to breathing exercises, weight control and possibly medicine.

Breadwinners Get Younger Every Day

If a seven-week-old boy is going out to work, he needs a social security number, right?

So, Stephen L. and Randi Victor took their son Stephen Todd to the new Arlington Heights social security office. He's the youngest applicant they've had so far.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor are planning to take Stephen to a Chicago agency which registers children for modeling on Monday. Whenever a large company such as Sears or Penney's plans a catalog, they call an agency for models.

Stephen was born June 1 at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

"He's pretty big," said Mrs. Victor. "He weighs about 10 pounds 5 ounces, and he has very blond hair and blue eyes."

Social Security offices sometimes have younger applicants than Stephen. One Chicago office had an expectant father come in for a number, but he couldn't get it without knowing the child's name.

Dunne Mobile Unit To Visit Randhurst

A mobile unit from County Board President George W. Dunne's Office of Inquiry and Information will visit the Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect for four days this week to answer questions and provide information about county governmental operations.

Workers in the unit will also be prepared to register voters for the November election.

The mobile unit will be on the mall at the shopping center from Tuesday through Friday.

Tuesday through Thursday the unit will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The hours for Friday will be from 3 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Have New Democrats Forgotten LBJ?

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Is the new Democratic leadership trying to pretend that Lyndon Johnson never existed? Jack Valenti seems to think so.

Writing in the Washington Post this week, Valenti, a former White House aide, noted there was hardly any mention of LBJ during the recent Democratic telethon and convention, at which other party stalwarts of the past were lionized.

As far as those two events were concerned, Johnson was "a nonperson, expunged from the Democratic party with the same kind of scouring effectiveness that Marxist revisionists use to rewrite Communist history," Valenti said.

He presumably had in mind the de-Stalinization program in Russia, which included changing the name of a Volga River city from Stalingrad to Volgograd.

Come to think of it, I hardly heard Johnson's name mentioned either. And he is not someone who is easy to ignore.

CURIOUS TO KNOW whether the LBJ convention blackout was a deliberate exclusion or merely an oversight, I called up a friend of mine who is active in the "new politics" movement.

"Are McGovern's strategists trying to prevent Lyndon Johnson's name from being associated with the Democratic campaign this year?" I asked.

"Lyndon whose name?"

"Johnson," I said. "J-o-h-n-s-o-n. You know, our 36th President."

"I thought Johnson was the 17th President," the McGovernite said.

"That was Andrew Johnson. I'm referring to the Johnson who ran for vice president on the Democratic ticket in 1960."

"Are you sure you don't mean Hiram Johnson, who ran for vice president on the Progressive party ticket in 1912?"

THINK HARD now," I said.

"This Johnson I'm talking about is a tall Texan who is considered a shrewd politician, a persuasive talker and a hard-driving taskmaster."

"You must be talking about John Connally," the young man said.

"I'll give you one more club," I said. "His wife is a gracious lady who has an ornithological name."

"You mean he married Billie Dove?"

Well, some ex-Presidents fade from memory almost as quickly as campaign promises evaporate in the post-election dawn. So I'm not convinced that the blotting out of LBJ was conspiratorial.

But if you hear that Johnson City, Tex., has been renamed Pedernalesgrad, look out.

LITTLE GIRLS GO LONG. For the evening or special parties, ankle dressing takes the form of a check print dress with strawberries liberally splashed across the skirt.

Fall's Young Ladies Look Sophisticated

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Poor Papa. He's beginning to have trouble balancing the clothing budget around his house. Not only is his wife eying all the new fashions, but his young daughters, too, are continually being diverted to the children's clothing sections of large department stores.

Today's look for little girls is largely patterned from present day fashions for Mom . . . only less material is involved and the decolletes are still out.

But the fussiness and ruffles that formerly characterized innocent small cherubs have been traded in for a double dose of sophistication and classic styling.

YET LITTLE GIRLS will retain their youthfulness since there is a definite return to the ladylike look fashions for all women, young and old.

Girls will continue to look like little girls in dresses that pay attention to the waistline, made up in clear bright colors and often utilizing the layered-look big sister has gone head over heels for.

Flannel jumpers for fall worn with nursery print shirts are being manufactured in abundance for school lasses.

Also, there are deceptive one-piece dresses that look like jumpers but are less likely to get mussed since shirt tails have been entirely eliminated.

But of all the dresses making their classroom debut this fall, the daintiest are pinafores in short and midcalf lengths in all sorts of smocked styles that can be worn alone or with matched pants.

Of course, the post-kindergarten but pre-teen set is still holding out pant suits and trousers. So are their mothers.

WIDE-LEGGED flairs are still in fashion, many cuffed and worn with sweaters and blouses and sometimes both, when the layered look is being achieved.

Vests are popular items and so are blazers. Corduroy ones are great for chilly mornings.

Stripes, polka dots and lots of plaids, some of them the traditional tartans, are showing up in all the various school day clothing items.

However, where children's fashions are concerned, the one factor considered above all others, even over styling, is everyday wear and tear.

MOST GARMENTS for little girls on today's market are completely washable, even many of the woolens just beginnng to be shown for fall and winter.

But take time to read the labels. All garments selling for over $3 and manufactured after July 3 are now required by law to have complete care insructions securely sewed in.

THE JEAN DRESS in an acrylic knit block print is shaped like a smock and may be worn alone or over a pair of pants. Dungarees are still favored for after school.

THE DRESS GOES back to school and shirtdress styling leads the class. The classic red and white stripe cotton comes with its own accessory, a wide patterned necktie in navy and white.

The Name Of The Game Is Guess My Gender

If the Democratic National Convention was a surprise to me, it wasn't because of my wondering who was going to outmaneuver whom. It wasn't that I was waiting to see if Ohio could tally their delegation on a roll call without passing on the first round. It wasn't my discovering that Abbie Hoffman was on the floor claiming to be covering the convention for Popular Mechanics.

The thing that kept me glued to the chair by the tube was my wondering each time a "chairperson" or "committee person" was introduced whether it would be a man or a woman.

Well, I must admit that this kept me attentive for the first couple of days. About the third day I discovered I was lapsing into thoughts related to this obvious victory of Women's Lib.

As the titles "chairman/woman" and "committeeman/woman" were being desexed into "chairperson" and "committee person." I began to think about the other areas of the language yet to be given that singular touch of liberated women.

SOON, I MUSED, we will be hearing about salespersons in department stores and we will daily check out the window to see if the mailperson has arrived. Women over coffee will complain about how hard it is to find a good cleaningperson. Kids will wait on the curb for the Good Humor person to come around. When we leave for vacations we will have to remember to notify the newspaper person and the milkperson. And when we hear that familiar "ding-dong," we will know it's our Avon person calling.

Now taken altogether, these terms may seem rather ridiculous, but if Women's Lib has its way, all of them may be part of everyday usage eventually. I wouldn't have put any money on "chairperson" when it was first used, but by mid-convention week, it was accepted by the newscasters and nothing has greater impact on our language style than television and radio.

I ADMIRE the efforts of Women's Lib to prove that competency in a job has nothing to do with sex. However, I really don't see how removing references to a person's sex in a title furthers that goal. The substitution of "person" for "man" or "woman" only serves to further impersonalize the language and our already faceless life style. At least "man" or "woman" tells something more about an individual than the dull, nothingness title of "person." "Person" has little more dignity than an identification number.

I fail to see where sex indicated in a title invites discrimination against women. But if Women's Lib insists on rearranging English, I would like to know what they plan to do about French, Spanish and many other languages where gender is necessary for meaning as well as indicating sex.

SALEM, ORE. (UPI)—As the holder of one of the top administrative positions ever held by a woman in the Pacific Northwest Bell Co. (PNB), you might expect pretty blonde Jeanette Neufeld to be a real gung-ho women's libber.

But she is not.

"I still like men to light my cigarette," she says, "and open the door for me . . . and all the other politeness bred into a gentleman. And I still believe I can pour a cup of coffee for my boss without being subservient about it."

Mrs. Neufeld, 32, is manager of PNB's Salem business office operations. She supervises 40 employes and makes important business decisions, as well as handling community relations.

IF SHE WERE a true women's libber, Mrs. Neufeld might be expected to try to break down the barriers which keep women from membership in such strictly male organizations as Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions. But she will not.

The company likes to encourage management personnel to be active in such organizations, for business reasons. Mrs. Neufeld hasn't been asked to join any of them.

"I'd just as soon not belong to an organization that didn't want me," she said. "I'd have to be asked. I'm just not that kind of fighter."

Mrs. Neufeld has come a long way since the day she went to Washington, D.C., looking for a job — any kind of job. She wound up working for the telephone company.

When she and husband Gary moved back to Oregon she decided she wanted to become a phone company service representative.

"I THOUGHT I was the luckiest girl in the whole world when I was hired as a service representative. I thought that was the greatest job," she recalls.

During her 11-year career with the company, Mrs. Neufeld has worked in a number of Oregon cities.

When Mrs. Neufeld took over the first job which had previously been held by a man, she recalls it took a while for the staff to get used to her.

"Women tend to be firmer than men," she explains. "Those were really bad times. The women used to put up bad little notes on the bulletin board."

In a later job she became manager of business customers in a part of Portland — again a job traditionally held by men.

Some customers were so reluctant to deal with a woman about their phone problems that four men refused to talk to her. One told her: "I'd rather talk to the janitor — if he is a man."

New Standard Effective Saturday

Flammability Law Not Fool-Proof

by MONICA WILCH

Department stores are gearing up to provide consumers with complete lines of flame-retardant children's sleepwear, in compliance with the new federal standards which become effective July 29 (Saturday).

But mothers should not be lulled into thinking that the new standards are foolproof insurance against fire hazards.

To begin with, the amendment to the 1967 Flammable Fabrics Act allows a one-year grace period for manufacturers to comply, meaning that plenty of flammable nighties and pajamas will still be for sale, but they must bear a label warning the buyer that the material is flammable.

Secondly, the regulation applies only to sizes 0 to 6X, so if your child is older than 6 years — or big for his age — any sleepwear you buy for him will probably be flammable. (Although the Commerce Department is currently preparing flammability standards for sizes 7 through 14.)

EVEN THE new standard, although it is considered stringent by manufacturers and is a considerable improvement over the one formerly applied, seems to have some weaknesses.

According to the specifications established by the Commerce Department, the burner used in testing fabrics must be fueled by at least 97 per cent methane gas.

But the flame on a gas stove is produced by a gas that is only 88 to 96 per cent methane, the remainder composed of heavier hydrocarbons which have a higher heating value, according to the Northern Illinois Gas Co. Consequently, a fabric that would pass the flammability test might not pass a real-life test when a child brushes against the hotter flame on the kitchen range.

Moreover, the test is set up in a draft-free chamber, while the environment in which accidents happen is usually supplied with plenty of oxygen, and a child on fire will often run, further fanning flames.

But manufacturers insist that the standard is too complex, rigid, unrealistic and unreliable, so the Commerce Department in April issued an amendment reducing the 100 per cent compliance requirement. Instead, the test will be administered on a sampling basis, which allows one failure out of 30 tests. Thus, some very dangerous garments could be permitted to enter the market, not even bearing flammability warning.

NEVERTHELESS, the standard and the flame-retardant sleepwear it has fostered are a step forward.

According to a spokesman in Sears and Roebuck Co. testing laboratory, "no fabrics that have been available up to this time will pass the test." He said that a new type of fabric, called modacrylics, have been developed to meet the new standard. The material contains a flame-retardant phosphorous substance — something that has been known and used for many years in the making of industrial clothing.

Two problems have interfered with adapting the process to retail clothing. The fabric is heavier than style-conscious consumers like, and it is more expensive than other materials.

But it serves a valuable purpose in that it "won't become a torch," the Sears spokesman said. The modacrylics will burn, but they self-extinguish — hopefully, before the child is engulfed in flames. Here, the standard requires that the fabric not flame longer than 10 seconds, and that the char area not exceed 10 inches.

SEARS NOW has available one modacrylic item — a blanket sleeper, and by Christmas will have treated (flame-resistant) cotton flannel boys' and girls' pajamas and nightgowns. The new sleepwear will cost up to 50 per cent more than the flammable types, Sears said.

Montgomery Ward includes in its fall catalogue several styles of flame-retardant pajamas and nightgowns up to size 7. These items are priced "at least 15 per cent higher than conventional garments," Wards vice president Richard L. Abbott said, but the company is "seeking less costly ways to retard flammability."

Abbott noted that 78 per cent of the fiber used for children's and girl's sleepwear, in 1970 was cotton, but added that the modacrylics are superior to flame-resistant treatment applied to cotton since these chemicals tend to wash out. (Such treatment must survive 50 washings, according to the new federal standard.)

The J. C. Penney Co. has seven pages of flame-retardant sleepwear in its fall catalogue, according to a spokesman, and the company has gone beyond the federal requirements in offering these fabrics in sizes up to 16 in girls' wear and 18 boys'.

Modacrylics should not be washed in non-phosphate detergents or in chlorine bleach. Otherwise, they are machine-washable.

LITTLE GIRLS GO LONG. For the evening or special parties, ankle dressing takes the form of a check print dress with strawberries liberally splashed across the skirt.

Fall's Young Ladies Look Sophisticated

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Poor Papa. He's beginning to have trouble balancing the clothing budget around his house. Not only is his wife eying all the new fashions, but his young daughters, too, are continually being diverted to the children's clothing sections of large department stores.

Today's look for little girls is largely patterned from present day fashions for Mom . . . only less material is involved and the decolletes are still out.

But the fussiness and ruffles that formerly characterized innocent small cherubs have been traded in for a double dose of sophistication and classic styling.

YET LITTLE GIRLS will retain their youthfulness since there is a definite return to the ladylike look fashions for all women, young and old.

Girls will continue to look like little girls in dresses that pay attention to the waistline, made up in clear bright colors and often utilizing the layered-look big sister has gone head over heels for.

Flannel jumpers for fall worn with nursery print shirts are being manufactured in abundance for school lasses.

Also, there are deceptive one-piece dresses that look like jumpers but are less likely to get mussed since shirt tails have been entirely eliminated.

But of all the dresses making their classroom debut this fall, the daintiest are pinafores in short and midcalf lengths in all sorts of smocked styles that can be worn alone or with matched pants.

Of course, the post-kindergarten but pre-teen set is still holding out pant suits and trousers. So are their mothers.

WIDE-LEGGED flairs are still in fashion, many cuffed and worn with sweaters and blouses and sometimes both, when the layered look is being achieved.

Vests are popular items and so are blazers. Corduroy ones are great for chilly mornings.

Stripes, polka dots and lots of plaids, some of them the traditional tartans, are showing up in all the various school day clothing items.

However, where children's fashions are concerned, the one factor considered above all others, even over styling, is everyday wear and tear.

MOST GARMENTS for little girls on today's market are completely washable, even many of the woolens just beginnng to be shown for fall and winter.

But take time to read the labels. All garments selling for over $3 and manufactured after July 3 are now required by law to have complete care insructions securely sewed in.

THE JEAN DRESS in an acrylic knit block print is shaped like a smock and may be worn alone or over a pair of pants. Dungarees are still favored for after school.

THE DRESS GOES back to school and shirtdress styling leads the class. The classic red and white stripe cotton comes with its own accessory, a wide patterned necktie in navy and white.

The Name Of The Game Is Guess My Gender

If the Democratic National Convention was a surprise to me, it wasn't because of my wondering who was going to outmaneuver whom. It wasn't that I was waiting to see if Ohio could tally their delegation on a roll call without passing on the first round. It wasn't my discovering that Abbie Hoffman was on the floor claiming to be covering the convention for Popular Mechanics.

The thing that kept me glued to the chair by the tube was my wondering each time a "chairperson" or "committee person" was introduced whether it would be a man or a woman.

Well, I must admit that this kept me attentive for the first couple of days. About the third day I discovered I was lapsing into thoughts related to this obvious victory of Women's Lib.

As the titles "chairman/woman" and "committeeman/woman" were being desexed into "chairperson" and "committee person," I began to think about the other areas of the language yet to be given that singular touch of liberated women.

SOON, I MUSED, we will be hearing about salespersons in department stores and we will daily check out the window to see if the mailperson has arrived. Women over coffee will complain about how hard it is to find a good cleaningperson. Kids will wait on the curb for the Good Humor person to come around. When we leave for vacations we will have to remember to notify the newspaper person and the milkperson. And when we hear that familiar "ding-dong," we will know it's our Avon person calling.

Now taken altogether, these terms may seem rather ridiculous, but if Women's Lib has its way, all of them may be part of everyday usage eventually. I wouldn't have put any money on "chairperson" when it was first used, but by mid-convention week, it was accepted by the newscasters and nothing has greater impact on our language style than television and radio.

I ADMIRE the efforts of Women's Lib to prove that competency in a job has nothing to do with sex. However, I really don't see how removing references to a person's sex in a title furthers that goal. The substitution of "person" for "man" or "woman" only serves to further impersonalize the language and our already faceless life style. At least "man" or "woman" tells something more about an individual than the dull, nothingness title of "person." "Person" has little more dignity than an identification number.

I fail to see where sex indicated in a title invites discrimination against women. But if Women's Lib insists on rearranging English, I would like to know what they plan to do about French, Spanish and many other languages where gender is necessary for meaning as well as indicating sex.

This is one of the areas where I believe Women's Lib is misspending its energies. And if the movement were as well organized as it claims to be, I would most certainly complain to the personagement.

Married Amid Family Move

The entire Alex McConachie family has been on the move this summer.

Daughter Ann Elizabeth was married June 24 to David Jachim of Westmont, Ill., and during all the pre-nuptial planning her parents were in the process of moving from their home in Inverness to an apartment on Golf Road, Des Plaines. Meanwhile, they were also building a new summer home at Manitowish Waters, Wis.

Ann, a graduate of Palatine High School and Knox College, Galesburg, has been teaching fifth grade in Galesburg this past year. She is now in Charleston, Ill., with her husband while he completes work on a master's degree in psychology.

David is also a graduate of Knox College. His parents are the George Jachims of Westmont.

THE COUPLE exchanged vows and rings in an 11 a.m. ceremony in St. Anne Church, Barrington. A breakfast followed at Inverness Golf Club for 150 guests.

Ann and David wrote their own ring ceremony, and a friend of the bride, Lonnie Fredenhagen, sang "The Wedding Song," accompanying herself on the guitar.

The bride entered the sanctuary wearing a white voile gown that had rows of smocking and lace over the entire bodice. The skirt flowed into a sweep train edged with a wide flounce.

Ann's long illusion veil was held in place by a circlet of fresh flowers. Her bouquet was a nosegay of tiny pink roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and heather from Scotland.

HER COLLEGE roommate, Mrs. Betsy Bowen of Galesburg, was matron of honor, wearing a lime green voile gown trimmed with white waffle pique. She carried tiny white carnations and baby's breath with a touch of tiny pink carnations. Dressed identically to Betsy was Karen Orndorff of Warren, Mich., as bridesmaid.

Heather Heston, 6, of Northbrook, the bride's cousin, came down the aisle as flower girl. She wore a lime green and white checked gingham dress covered with a white voile pinafore and carried a miniature bouquet of carnations.

Michael Webb of Hinsdale served as David's best man. Ushers were Arthur Ramirez of Iowa City and the couple's brothers, Bruce McConachie, Evanston, and Steve Jachim.

The Bob Hoffs Wed On Parents' Anniversary

There will be two wedding anniversaries to celebrate now for the Harry W. Goodales and the Robert Dennis Hoffs. Janet Lynn Goodale, daughter of the Goodales, was married on their 22nd wedding anniversary, June 17, to Bob Hoff in the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights.

Bob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene F. Hoff of 223 S. Yale, Arlington. He and Janet met on the campus of Northern Illinois University. She and her parents formerly lived in Park Ridge but they now reside in Cape Coral, Fla.

THE COUPLE chose their sister and brother as honor attendants. Sue Goodale was maid of honor; Doug Hoff, best man.

Bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Karen Hoff; Barbara Edwards, Cape Coral; and Jan Engelen, Park Ridge. The ushers included Daniel Ruff and Gregg Small of Arlington and Roger Thielen, Bensenville.

Five-year-old Laurie Ruff was flower girl for the noon ceremony. Afterwards a reception was held at Old Orchard Country Club. The couple then honeymooned in California and are living in Buffalo Grove.

Bob attended Arlington High School and since graduation from Northern Illinois is working for Cockrell Food Service.

Ride Off In Antique Car

An old-fashioned wedding, complete with a ride in an antique Ford, started off married life for Pattiann Cushing of Arlington Heights and Bruce Charles Tehan of Indianapolis.

The bride, daughter of the E. H. (Jack) Cushings, 633 S. Bristol Lane, wore a Victorian gown enhanced with ruffles of lace as she stood at the altar of the First Presbyterian Church, Arlington, for the June 24 nuptials.

After she and the groom exchanged vows and rings, they were driven from the church to an outdoor reception at the Cushing home in an antique Ford owned by a family friend, Dr. B. J. Moore. The bride's brother-in-law, Paul Corey of Lake Zurich was "chauffeur."

BRUCE IS the son of the Charles Tehans of Indianapolis. He and Pattiann met on the Hanover (Ind.) College campus. An Arlington High School graduate, she has finished three years at Hanover, and the bridegroom is a '71 graduate.

They will make their home in Indianapolis where Bruce works for Typo-service Corp. Pattiann expects to complete her degree at Butler University in the city.

The bride chose a blue and white setting for the ceremony. Her gown, designed with a high neckline, long sleeves and chapel train all edged with ruffled swiss lace, was made of ivory flocked voile. It was topped with a bouffant fingertip veil attached to a crown of fresh flowers. Pattiann carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath, also a handkerchief from the groom's grandmother.

Her attendants were attired in blue flocked cotton, styled like the bride's gown with ruffles and lace. They carried white baskets filled with mixed blooms and wore crowns of blue delphinium buds over their hair.

THREE SISTERS of the bride were in the wedding party. Mrs. Marcey Corey was matron of honor; Cathey Cushing was maid of honor; and Cheri Cushing, bridesmaid. The other two bridesmaids were Berta Fahey, an Alpha Delta Pi sorority sister from St. Louis, and Liz Galloway of Arlington Heights. Cathey was also soloist for the service.

John Pactor of Indianapolis was best man. Ushers included the groom's brother, Alan; Fred Dennerline III, Indianapolis; and two Phi Delta Theta fraternity brothers, John Lansinger and Tim Neumann.

The bride's 11-year-old brother John was acolyte.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Virginia Beach and Williamsburg before settling in Indianapolis.

Romance Started At Palatine High

A courtship that began when they were sophomores at Palatine High School culminated in marriage June 24 when Judith Lynn Brauer and John C. Thomas were wed at Immanuel Lutheran Church of Palatine.

The 11 a.m. double ring ceremony united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Allen Brauer, 422 Comfort Lane, Palatine, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin H. Thomas, 1442 Reynolds Drive, Palatine.

Judith's color scheme of lavender and pink was carried out in the bridal attendants' gowns. Her sister Tina, the maid of honor, wore lavender and the bridesmaids, Nancy Beagle of Palatine and Merle Bush of Woodstock, were in pink. Their dresses of dotted swiss had bishop sleeves, sweetheart necklines and white eyelet with lavender ribbon run through it trimming the bodice. They carried white baskets filled with lavender carnations, white daisies and baby's breath.

PENNY THOMAS, 7, and Wendy Thomas, 5, the groom's nieces from Arlington Heights, acted as flower girl and ring bearer respectively. Both were gowned in pink dotted swiss and carried white baskets of pink carnations and white daisies.

Judith's gown of satapeau had a bodice of eyelet batiste threaded through with pink ribbon, bishop sleeves and a high neck. The same eyelet formed a ruffle around the bottom of the skirt and edged the train of her veil. She carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis.

John was attended by his college roommate, Mark Bartz of Milwaukee. His brother, Robert, and brother-in-law, Jack Frost, both of Arlington Heights; and Robert Carr and Robert Pilz, both of Palatine, seated the guests.

A SPECIAL FEATURE of the wedding ceremony was trumpet music before the service began by the bride's brother, Keith Brauer, Dearborn, Mich. He also was guest trumpeter with the band that played for dancing during the wedding reception, held at the Camelot Restaurant in Des Plaines.

The couple honeymooned for a week at Minocqua, Wis., and now are living at Fort Atkinson. Both graduates of Palatine High, Judith completed the dental hygienist program at Harper College in June and John is attending Wisconsin State University at Whitewater.

Prospect Couple Live On Campus After Wedding

Living in Champaign until the groom graduates in August from the University of Illinois are newlyweds Jane Mary and Jack H. Behrens of Mount Prospect. Both are '68 graduates of Prospect High School.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Spooner, 502 S. Pine St. Jack's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Howard D. Behrens of 19 W. Hiawatha Trail.

The afternoon wedding took place June 10 in St. Raymond Catholic Church, with a reception for 120 guests following at the Brass Rail of Arlington Heights.

THE COUPLE'S sisters were Jane's attendants. Mrs. Anne Petsch, Riverton, Wyo., her own sister, was matron of honor; Jack's sisters Beverly and Nancy were bridesmaids.

Best man was James Leary, a Sigma Chi fraternity brother of the groom, while two other fraternity brothers, Stephen Heninger and Michael Miller, ushered along with the bride's brother John of Marlboro, Mass.

Until her marriage, the bride was a secretary for Trapani Construction in Mount Prospect.

Cancer Recovery Program Updated For Volunteers

The latest techniques in the management of breast cancer, the leading cause of cancer deaths in women, was the concern of a special meeting for more than 75 volunteers of the American Cancer Society's Reach to Recovery program held recently at the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel.

The Reach to Recovery program extends help to the woman who has undergone breast removal in cancer treatment, by training volunteers who have had similar surgery to visit women who have just had a mastectomy to offer them practical advice and psychological reassurance.

THE LOCAL Reach to Recovery program is offered to patients in Holy Family Hospital, Northwest Community Hospital, Lutheran General Hospital and Alexian Brothers Medical Center. Twelve Reach to Recovery visitors participate in the program under the direction of Dr. Melvin I. Gibbel of Arlington Heights and Mrs. David Waltman of Palatine.

For more informatin about the Reach to Recovery program, readers may contact the local office of the American Cancer Society, 11 N. Broadway, Des Plaines, phone 827-0088.

Members, guests and prospective members are invited for the fun.

The fellowship committee planning the party includes Mrs. T. M. Bulger, Mrs. Bruce Graham, both of Arlington Heights; Mrs. W. G. Bechtel, Mrs. J. D. Stanley, both of Park Ridge; Mrs. M. A. Davis, Mrs. James Muldowney and Mrs. E. M. Roschke, all of Des Plaines.

Those wishing further information are asked to contact the fellowship chairman, Mrs. J. A. Sieben, 827-5628.

Married Amid Family Move

The entire Alex McConachie family has been on the move this summer.

Daughter Ann Elizabeth was married June 24 to David Jachim of Westmont, Ill., and during all the pre-nuptial planning her parents were in the process of moving from their home in Inverness to an apartment on Golf Road, Des Plaines. Meanwhile, they were also building a new summer home at Manitowish Waters, Wis.

Ann, a graduate of Palatine High School and Knox College, Galesburg, has been teaching fifth grade in Galesburg this past year. She is now in Charleston, Ill., with her husband while he completes work on a master's degree in psychology.

David is also a graduate of Knox College. His parents are the George Jachims of Westmont.

THE COUPLE exchanged vows and rings in an 11 a.m. ceremony in St. Anne Church, Barrington. A breakfast followed at Inverness Golf Club for 150 guests.

Ann and David wrote their own ring ceremony, and a friend of the bride, Lonnie Fredenhagen, sang "The Wedding Song," accompanying herself on the guitar.

The bride entered the sanctuary wearing a white voile gown that had rows of smocking and lace over the entire bodice. The skirt flowed into a sweep train edged with a wide flounce.

Ann's long illusion veil was held in place by a circlet of fresh flowers. Her bouquet was a nosegay of tiny pink roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and heather from Scotland.

HER COLLEGE roommate, Mrs. Betsy Bowen of Galesburg, was matron of honor, wearing a lime green voile gown trimmed with white waffle pique. She carried tiny white carnations and baby's breath with a touch of tiny pink carnations. Dressed identically to Betsy was Karen Orndorff of Warren, Mich., as bridesmaid.

Heather Heston, 6, of Northbrook, the bride's cousin, came down the aisle as flower girl. She wore a lime green and white checked gingham dress covered with a white voile pinafore and carried a miniature bouquet of carnations.

Michael Webb of Hinsdale served as David's best man. Ushers were Arthur Ramirez of Iowa City and the couple's brothers, Bruce McConachie, Evanston, and Steve Jachim.

The Bob Hoffs Wed On Parents' Anniversary

There will be two wedding anniversaries to celebrate now for the Harry W. Goodales and the Robert Dennis Hoffs. Janet Lynn Goodale, daughter of the Goodales, was married on their 22nd wedding anniversary, June 17, to Bob Hoff in the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights.

Bob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene F. Hoff of 223 S. Yale, Arlington. He and Janet met on the campus of Northern Illinois University. She and her parents formerly lived in Park Ridge but they now reside in Cape Coral, Fla.

THE COUPLE chose their sister and brother as honor attendants. Sue Goodale was maid of honor; Doug Hoff, best man.

Bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Karen Hoff; Barbara Edwards, Cape Coral; and Jan Engelen, Park Ridge. The ushers included Daniel Ruff and Gregg Small of Arlington and Roger Thielen, Bensenville.

Five-year-old Laurie Ruff was flower girl for the noon ceremony. Afterwards a reception was held at Old Orchard Country Club. The couple then honeymooned in California and are living in Buffalo Grove.

Bob attended Arlington High School and since graduation from Northern Illinois is working for Cockrell Food Service.

Ride Off In Antique Car

An old-fashioned wedding, complete with a ride in an antique Ford, started off married life for Pattiann Cushing of Arlington Heights and Bruce Charles Tehan of Indianapolis.

The bride, daughter of the E. H. (Jack) Cushings, 633 S. Bristol Lane, wore a Victorian gown enhanced with ruffles of lace as she stood at the altar of the First Presbyterian Church, Arlington, for the June 24 nuptials.

After she and the groom exchanged vows and rings, they were driven from the church to an outdoor reception at the Cushing home in an antique Ford owned by a family friend, Dr. B. J. Moore. The bride's brother-in-law, Paul Corey of Lake Zurich was "chauffeur."

BRUCE IS the son of the Charles Tehans of Indianapolis. He and Pattiann met on the Hanover (Ind.) College campus. An Arlington High School graduate, she has finished three years at Hanover, and the bridegroom is a '71 graduate.

They will make their home in Indianapolis where Bruce works for Typo-service Corp. Pattiann expects to complete her degree at Butler University in the city.

The bride chose a blue and white setting for the ceremony. Her gown, designed with a high neckline, long sleeves and chapel train all edged with ruffled swiss lace, was made of ivory flocked voile. It was topped with a bouffant fingertip veil attached to a crown of fresh flowers. Pattiann carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath, also a handkerchief from the groom's grandmother.

Her attendants were attired in blue flocked cotton, styled like the bride's gown with ruffles and lace. They carried white baskets filled with mixed blooms and wore crowns of blue delphinium buds over their hair.

THREE SISTERS of the bride were in the wedding party. Mrs. Marcey Corey was matron of honor; Cathey Cushing was maid of honor; and Cheri Cushing, bridesmaid. The other two bridesmaids were Berta Fahey, an Alpha Delta Pi sorority sister from St. Louis, and Liz Galloway of Arlington Heights. Cathey was also soloist for the service.

John Pactor of Indianapolis was best man. Ushers included the groom's brother, Alan; Fred Dennerline III, Indianapolis; and two Phi Delta Theta fraternity brothers, John Lansinger and Tim Neumann.

The bride's 11-year-old brother John was acolyte.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Virginia Beach and Williamsburg before settling in Indianapolis.

Romance Started At Palatine High

A courtship that began when they were sophomores at Palatine High School culminated in marriage June 24 when Judith Lynn Brauer and John C. Thomas were wed at Immanuel Lutheran Church of Palatine.

The 11 a.m. double ring ceremony united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Allen Brauer, 422 Comfort Lane, Palatine, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin H. Thomas, 1442 Reynolds Drive, Palatine.

Judith's color scheme of lavender and pink was carried out in the bridal attendants' gowns. Her sister Tina, the maid of honor, wore lavender and the bridesmaids, Nancy Beagle of Palatine and Merle Bush of Woodstock, were in pink. Their dresses of dotted swiss had bishop sleeves, sweetheart necklines and white eyelet with lavender ribbon run through it trimming the bodice. They carried white baskets filled with lavender carnations, white daisies and baby's breath.

PENNY THOMAS, 7, and Wendy Thomas, 5, the groom's nieces from Arlington Heights, acted as flower girl and ring bearer respectively. Both were gowned in pink dotted swiss and carried white baskets of pink carnations and white daisies.

Judith's gown of satapeau had a bodice of eyelet batiste threaded through with pink ribbon, bishop sleeves and a high neck. The same eyelet formed a ruffle around the bottom of the skirt and edged the train of her veil. She carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis.

John was attended by his college roommate, Mark Bartz of Milwaukee. His brother, Robert, and brother-in-law, Jack Frost, both of Arlington Heights; and Robert Carr and Robert Pilz, both of Palatine, seated the guests.

A SPECIAL FEATURE of the wedding ceremony was trumpet music before the service began by the bride's brother, Keith Brauer, Dearborn, Mich. He also was guest trumpeter with the band that played for dancing during the wedding reception, held at the Camelot Restaurant in Des Plaines.

The couple honeymooned for a week at Minocqua, Wis., and now are living at Fort Atkinson. Both graduates of Palatine High, Judith completed the dental hygienist program at Harper College in June and John is attending Wisconsin State University at Whitewater.

Prospect Couple Live On Campus After Wedding

Living in Champaign until the groom graduates in August from the University of Illinois are newlyweds Jane Mary and Jack H. Behrens of Mount Prospect. Both are '68 graduates of Prospect High School.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Spooner, 502 S. Pine St. Jack's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Howard D. Behrens of 19 W. Hiawatha Trail.

The afternoon wedding took place June 10 in St. Raymond Catholic Church, with a reception for 120 guests following at the Brass Rail of Arlington Heights.

THE COUPLE'S sisters were Jane's attendants. Mrs. Anne Petsch, Riverton, Wyo., her own sister, was matron of honor; Jack's sisters Beverly and Nancy were bridesmaids.

Best man was James Leary, a Sigma Chi fraternity brother of the groom, while two other fraternity brothers, Stephen Heninger and Michael Miller, ushered along with the bride's brother John of Marlboro, Mass.

Until her marriage, the bride was a secretary for Trapani Construction in Mount Prospect.

Cancer Recovery Program Updated For Volunteers

The latest techniques in the management of breast cancer, the leading cause of cancer deaths in women, was the concern of a special meeting for more than 75 volunteers of the American Cancer Society's Reach to Recovery program held recently at the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel.

The Reach to Recovery program extends help to the woman who has undergone breast removal in cancer treatment, by training volunteers who have had similar surgery to visit women who have just had a mastectomy to offer them practical advice and psychological reassurance.

THE LOCAL Reach to Recovery program is offered to patients in Holy Family Hospital, Northwest Community Hospital, Lutheran General Hospital and Alexian Brothers Medical Center. Twelve Reach to Recovery visitors participate in the program under the direction of Dr. Melvin I. Gibbel of Arlington Heights and Mrs. David Waltman of Palatine.

For more informatin about the Reach to Recovery program, readers may contact the local office of the American Cancer Society, 11 N. Broadway, Des Plaines, phone 827-0088.

Uncle Assists In Wedding Of Kathleen Rae Gooch

When Kathleen Rae Gooch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Gooch of 126 Kenilworth, Mount Prospect, was married in St. Paul, Minn., June 24, her uncle assisted in the wedding service.

The Rev. Tom Phillips of Stillwater, Minn., helped to perform the double ring ceremony uniting Kathleen in marriage with Paul John Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Griffin, Gilby, N. D. It was performed at 8 p.m. in the Messiah Episcopal Church.

Kathleen's twin sister, Mrs. Nancy Fuller of Brooklyn Center, Minn., was her matron of honor. Bridesmaids included the groom's sister, Joan Griffin of Gilby, and Carla Cornelison and Sandra Endter, both of Burnsville, Minn.

Their gowns were a sleeveless Empire style in yellow and white checked chiffon that featured fine accordion pleats, a high neck and dust ruffle. They carried bouquets of yellow and white daisies, baby's breath and ivy.

THE BRIDE was attired in white silk organza. The long full sleeves of her dress had Venetian lace cuffs, and there was a panel of the same lace down the dress front. Venetian lace also trimmed the high neck and the chapel-length attached train. Her flowers were white and yellow Sweetheart roses, fuji mums and stephanotis combined with ivy.

The groom's brother, Pat Griffin of Gilby, was best man. Ushers included Don Oppegard, Park River, N.D.; Don Larson, Gilby; Tom McGrath, Velva, N. D.; and Roger Bjerkly, Grand Forks, N. D. Groomsmen were Gary Cornelison, Burnsville; Steve Geopferd, Minneapolis; and Tom Clark, St. Paul.

The wedding reception was held at the St. Paul College Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul John Griffin

Following a honeymoon at a Lutsen, Minn., resort, the newlyweds are living in Minneapolis where the bridegroom is a senior in the University of Minnesota School of Dentistry and the bride, a graduate of the U. of M., is an instructor in the university dental hygiene program. Paul also is a second lieutenant in the U.S.A.F. early commission program.

A Paddock Review

'That Lady' Mediocre Fare

by GENIE CAMPBELL

"Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?," the current Pheasant Run Playhouse offering, is amateurish theatrical fare.

The play is tasteless mediocrity characterized by a weak plot, inadequate stage direction and bumbling scene change which succeed ultimately in breaking the comedy's continuity.

Opening night last week was a farce, but an unintentional one.

Comedy is one of the most available commodities going, but good comedy is difficult to come by. "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" has a few good lines, a couple of funny scenes and a well cast leading lady. It's not enough, however, even when technical difficulties are disregarded, to ignite an audience.

BOB CRANE, star for six years in the television series "Hogan's Heroes," is the billed big name of the show. He doesn't do a bad job, but his performance is less than stimulating primarily because the role itself is rather staid. There's not much chance for him to break loose.

Crane plays David Williams, a college professor who is caught by his wife kissing a foreign exchange student. A very jealous woman, the wife, Kay, refuses to believe a very simple explanation and threatens to walk out on him.

But if Williams can prove that his action was all in the line of duty, Kay would be most understanding.

With the aid of his inventive bachelor friend, Michael Haney, played by Sidney Eden who decidedly has the more colorful role, Williams comes up with a beautiful story. He is an FBI agent, the student was a foreign spy and well . . . he was merely fulfilling his assignment.

THROUGH A "juxtaposition of unfortunate circumstances," as is frequently stated throughout the play, the little white lie turns into a huge international blunder.

The one high note of the evening is a rewarding performance by attractive Pam Hayes who plays David's wife, Kay.

Her reactions to learning that her husband is an FBI agent are highly amusing. Even more effective are her innocent conversations with agent Harry Powell, played by Ralph Foody, and her enthusiastic drive to help her husband and stand by him, no matter how dangerous the assignment. Miss Hayes succeeds in tying all the loose ends of the play together with a very convincing act of extreme gullibility.

USED TO WORKING with Crane, she has appeared with him in several different productions during the past two years.

The second act is by far the funnier. The setting is a Chinese restaurant where David and Michael are dining with two spacy but rather well-built sisters, supposedly to find out some top secret information. At least that is what Kay is told by the two imposters.

Kay arrives on the scene because David forgets his gun. A distraught Powell accompanies Mrs. Williams to confiscate the fake FBI identification card and end the masquerade. Alas, he is too late. The situation is too far out of hand.

A huge drawback to staging "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" at Pheasant Run is that the stage is just not large enough for or conducive to the many required scene changes. From the beginning it hampers the overall success of the play.

Bride Wears Keepsake Earrings

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lynk

When Bonnie Lee Oehlerking became the bride of Michael James Lynk, she wore the hand-crocheted white rose earrings her mother had worn as a bride 20 years before.

Bonnie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Oehlerking of 111 N. Maple St., Mount Prospect, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lynk Sr., 635 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights.

For the June 24 ceremony in St. Paul Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect, the bride wore a gown of white silk organza trimmed with Venise lace at the mandarin collar, on the long puffed sleeves, and on the full skirt which ended in a deep flounce. Her triple veil was attached to a headpiece of stephanotis, and she carried a bouquet of white daisies and yellow roses.

CONSTANCE LESSNER of Arlington Heights was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Luann Luehring of Arlington Heights, a cousin of both the bride and the groom; Alida Garber, Mount Prospect; and Joni Lynk, Arlington Heights, niece of the groom. Flower girl was 6-year-old Susan Brookshire of Mount Prospect, for whom the bride had been a babysitter.

The attendants wore voile gowns styled similarly to the bride's, each in a different color — yellow, blue, green, pink and coral. They wore white picture hats trimmed with matching ribbons and carried baskets of rainbow-colored daisies. Susan wore the coral, had a daisy halo over her hair and carried a basket of white rose petals.

The bride's brother Terrance was best man, and ushers were Todd Opela, Donald Thelander and Russell Miller, all of Arlington Heights. Ring bearer was Johnny Lynk, 6, of Bartlett, a nephew of the groom.

AFTER A reception at the VFW Hall in Des Plaines, the couple left for a one-week honeymoon in Detroit, Mich., and the Wisconsin Dells. They are now residing at 915 Countryside Drive, Palatine.

The bride was graduated from Prospect High School in 1971 and is employed at Mount Prospect State Bank. The groom graduated from Arlington High in 1970 and works at the White Hen Pantry in Arlington Heights.

Fashion by Genie

Fifteen girls who are students at area high schools have been named to Wieboldt's Fall '72 Youth Board. They are currently receiving special training in beauty, poise and modeling in anticipation of Wieboldt's August fall fashion show at which time they will all make their professional modeling debuts.

On the board are Jackie Hockin and Carol Christmas, both of Forest View High School; Donna Prokop of Rolling Meadows High School; Debbie Wilkins of Palatine High School and Joan Daniels of Maine West High School.

Also, Joni Brown and Jill Gardzalewski, both of Hersey High School; Mary Ann Gibbons of Prospect High School; Debbie Morris of Fremd High School; Diane Hales of Wheeling High School; and Gerri Geissler and Mary McNamara, both of Elk Grove High School.

THE FASHION show, which will highlight fall and winter styles to help teenagers plan their back-to-school wardrobes, is Aug. 10, 2:30 p.m., at Wieboldt's in Randhurst.

Dee Dee Fischetti, guest editor from Seventeen Magazine, will join Wieboldt's fashion coordinator, Sue Braden, in commentating the show. A popular band will back up the fashion parade with music.

Members of the board were selected on the criteria of beauty, personality, grace and intelligence. They will participate in many activities, including a special community project.

Montgomery Ward is updating its Wendy Ward program, which includes a teenage charm course, with the recent publication of the "Wendy Ward Charm Book."

Accented with photos and illustrations, the 192-page book covers such topics as serving the community, practicing good grooming and understanding a French menu.

Also included are tips about food and nutrition, posture, exercises, modeling, hair and skin care, fashion, conversation and dating.

HELEN JAMES, national director of the Wendy Ward program and author of the book, said it will be used in 125 Ward locations where the Wendy Ward charm course is offered. It will also be available to schools but will not be sold to the public.

Further information is available through the Montgomery Ward Store at Randhurst Shopping Center.

Begin Planning For Cotillion

Cotillion VII, the annual benefit for Holy Family Hospital Des Plaines, was officially begun when Mrs. William H. Sims, Des Plaines, hosted a tea for all committee heads. Mrs. Sim is general chairman of the benefit.

All areas serviced by Holy Family Hospital were represented at the tea.

Cotillion VII will be held this year at the Continental Plaza Hotel. Several young women from the area will make their bow to the clergy at the cotillion Friday, Dec 29.

Those wishing further information are asked to call 824-6010 or 827-3171 after 12 noon.

Shop, Storage Share Garage

A garage workshop and garden tool storage area can be combined, without ousting cars to the weather, if tools, shelves and closets are carefully placed around the walls.

Shelves of varying widths of western pine or fir can be hung directly on the walls. Strips of wood nailed across the studs allow storage of lumber or long-handled tools between the studs.

Workbenches and storage closets for small tools and garden supplies also can be spaced around the walls. Narrower units should be placed where car doors need room to open.

Wed In Rainbow Setting

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Donushi

Rainbow colors formed the setting in St. Peter Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, when Beth Ann Wachsmuth became the bride of Mark A. Donushi on June 17. Beth Ann's attendants were gowned in pastel shades and carried matching bouquets for the 5:30 ceremony and reception following in the Knights of Columbus Hall.

The bride's parents are the Leonard Wachsmuths of 2305 Williamsburg, Arlington and the groom is the son of the Anthony Donushis of 511 N. Windsor Drive, Palatine.

Mark, a veteran of army service in Vietnam, is assistant manager at Kinney Shoes in Lincolnwood. His bride, a graduate of Harper College's dental hygiene career program, works for Dr. D. A. Froehlke in Elk Grove.

MRS. ROBERT NALL Mundelein, was Beth Ann's matron of honor for the candlelight nuptials. Mark's sister, Deborah; Cynthia Wachsmuth, Wausau, Wis., the bride's cousin; Mrs. Carl Barnhill, Villa Park; and Tricia Robb, Effingham, were bridesmaids.

Jaci Feddick, 7, of Mount Prospect served as flower girl, escorted by the bride's 8-year-old brother Jay.

Brian Donushi was his brother's best man, while Terry Holshouser, Elk Grove; Ronald Liss, Elmhurst; Nels Bitz, Palatine; and the bride's brother Robert ushered.

After a honeymoon in the Bahamas, the couple are living in Quincy Park, Wheeling. The bride is a '68 graduate of Wheeling High School; the groom is a '68 graduate of Prospect High.

When Kathleen Rae Gooch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Gooch of 126 Kenilworth, Mount Prospect, was married in St. Paul, Minn., June 24, her uncle assisted in the wedding service.

The Rev. Tom Phillips of Stillwater, Minn., helped to perform the double ring ceremony uniting Kathleen in marriage with Paul John Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Griffin, Gilby, N. D. It was performed at 8 p.m. in the Messiah Episcopal Church.

Kathleen's twin sister, Mrs. Nancy Fuller of Brooklyn Center, Minn., was her matron of honor. Bridesmaids included the groom's sister, Joan Griffin of Gilby, and Carla Cornelison and Sandra Endter, both of Burnsville, Minn.

Their gowns were a sleeveless Empire style in yellow and white checked chiffon that featured fine accordion pleats, a high neck and dust ruffle. They carried bouquets of yellow and white daisies, baby's breath and ivy.

THE BRIDE was attired in white silk organza. The long full sleeves of her dress had Venetian lace cuffs, and there was a panel of the same lace down the dress front. Venetian lace also trimmed the high neck and the chapel-length attached train. Her flowers were white and yellow Sweetheart roses, fuji mums and stephanotis combined with ivy.

The groom's brother, Pat Griffin of Gilby, was best man. Ushers included Don Oppegard, Park River, N.D.; Don Larson, Gilby; Tom McGrath, Velva, N. D.; and Roger Bjerkly, Grand Forks, N. D. Groomsmen were Gary Cornelison, Burnsville; Steve Geopferd, Minneapolis; and Tom Clark, St. Paul.

The wedding reception was held at the St. Paul College Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul John Griffin

Following a honeymoon at a Lutsen, Minn., resort, the newlyweds are living in Minneapolis where the bridegroom is a senior in the University of Minnesota School of Dentistry and the bride, a graduate of the U. of M., is an instructor in the university dental hygiene program. Paul also is a second lieutenant in the U.S.A.F. early commission program.

A Paddock Review

'That Lady' Mediocre Fare

by GENIE CAMPBELL

"Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?," the current Pheasant Run Playhouse offering, is amateurish theatrical fare.

The play is tasteless mediocrity characterized by a weak plot, inadequate stage direction and bumbling scene change which succeed ultimately in breaking the comedy's continuity.

Opening night last week was a farce, but an unintentional one.

Comedy is one of the most available commodities going, but good comedy is difficult to come by. "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" has a few good lines, a couple of funny scenes and a well cast leading lady. It's not enough, however, even when technical difficulties are disregarded, to ignite an audience.

BOB CRANE, star for six years in the television series "Hogan's Heroes," is the billed big name of the show. He doesn't do a bad job, but his performance is less than stimulating primarily because the role itself is rather staid. There's not much chance for him to break loose.

Crane plays David Williams, a college professor who is caught by his wife kissing a foreign exchange student. A very jealous woman, the wife, Kay, refuses to believe a very simple explanation and threatens to walk out on him.

But if Williams can prove that his action was all in the line of duty, Kay would be most understanding.

With the aid of his inventive bachelor friend, Michael Haney, played by Sidney Eden who decidedly has the more colorful role, Williams comes up with a beautiful story. He is an FBI agent, the student was a foreign spy and well . . . he was merely fulfilling his assignment.

THROUGH A "juxtaposition of unfortunate circumstances," as is frequently stated throughout the play, the little white lie turns into a huge international blunder.

The one high note of the evening is a rewarding performance by attractive Pam Hayes who plays David's wife, Kay.

Her reactions to learning that her husband is an FBI agent are highly amusing. Even more effective are her innocent conversations with agent Harry Powell, played by Ralph Foody, and her enthusiastic drive to help her husband and stand by him, no matter how dangerous the assignment. Miss Hayes succeeds in tying all the loose ends of the play together with a very convincing act of extreme gullibility.

USED TO WORKING with Crane, she has appeared with him in several different productions during the past two years.

The second act is by far the funnier. The setting is a Chinese restaurant where David and Michael are dining with two spacy but rather well-built sisters, supposedly to find out some top secret information. At least that is what Kay is told by the two imposters.

Kay arrives on the scene because David forgets his gun. A distraught Powell accompanies Mrs. Williams to confiscate the fake FBI identification card and end the masquerade. Alas, he is too late. The situation is too far out of hand.

A huge drawback to staging "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" at Pheasant Run is that the stage is just not large enough for or conducive to the many required scene changes. From the beginning it hampers the overall success of the play.

Bride Wears Keepsake Earrings

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lynk

When Bonnie Lee Oehlerking became the bride of Michael James Lynk, she wore the hand-crocheted white rose earrings her mother had worn as a bride 20 years before.

Bonnie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Oehlerking of 111 N. Maple St., Mount Prospect, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lynk Sr., 635 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights.

For the June 24 ceremony in St. Paul Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect, the bride wore a gown of white silk organza trimmed with Venise lace at the mandarin collar, on the long puffed sleeves, and on the full skirt which ended in a deep flounce. Her triple veil was attached to a headpiece of stephanotis, and she carried a bouquet of white daisies and yellow roses.

CONSTANCE LESSNER of Arlington Heights was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Luann Luehring of Arlington Heights, a cousin of both the bride and the groom; Alida Garber, Mount Prospect; and Joni Lynk, Arlington Heights, niece of the groom. Flower girl was 8-year-old Susan Brookshire of Mount Prospect, for whom the bride had been a babysitter.

The attendants wore voile gowns styled similarly to the bride's, each in a different color — yellow, blue, green, pink and coral. They wore white picture hats trimmed with matching ribbons and carried baskets of rainbow-colored daisies. Susan wore the coral, had a daisy halo over her hair and carried a basket of white rose petals.

The bride's brother Terrance was best man, and ushers were Todd Opela, Donald Thelander and Russell Miller, all of Arlington Heights. Ring bearer was Johnny Lynk, 6, of Bartlett, a nephew of the groom.

AFTER A reception at the VFW Hall in Des Plaines, the couple left for a one-week honeymoon in Detroit, Mich., and the Wisconsin Dells. They are now residing at 915 Countryside Drive, Palatine.

The bride was graduated from Prospect High School in 1971 and is employed at Mount Prospect State Bank. The groom graduated from Arlington High in 1970 and works at the White Hen Pantry in Arlington Heights.

Wed In Rainbow Setting

Rainbow colors formed the setting in St. Peter Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, when Beth Ann Wachsmuth became the bride of Mark A. Donushi on June 17. Beth Ann's attendants were gowned in pastel shades and carried matching bouquets for the 5:30 ceremony and reception following in the Knights of Columbus Hall.

The bride's parents are the Leonard Wachsmuths of 2305 Williamsburg, Arlington and the groom is the son of the Anthony Donushis of 511 N. Windsor Drive, Palatine.

Mark, a veteran of army service in Vietnam, is assistant manager at Kinney Shoes in Lincolnwood. His bride, a graduate of Harper College's dental hygiene career program, works for Dr. D. A. Froehlke in Elk Grove.

MRS. ROBERT NALI, Mundelein, was Beth Ann's matron of honor for the candlelight nuptials. Mark's sister, Deborah; Cynthia Wachsmuth, Wausau, Wis., the bride's cousin; Mrs. Carl Barnhill, Villa Park; and Tricia Robb, Effingham, were bridesmaids.

Jaci Feddick, 7, of Mount Prospect served as flower girl, escorted by the bride's 8-year-old brother Jay.

Brian Donushi was his brother's best man, while Terry Holshouser, Elk Grove; Ronald Liss, Elmhurst; Nels Bitz, Palatine; and the bride's brother Robert ushered.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Donushi

After a honeymoon in the Bahamas, the couple are living in Quincy Park, Wheeling. The bride is a '68 graduate of Wheeling High School; the groom is a '68 graduate of Prospect High.

Begin Planning For Cotillion

Cotillion VII, the annual benefit for Holy Family Hospital Des Plaines, was officially begun when Mrs. William H. Sims, Des Plaines, hosted a tea for all committee heads. Mrs. Sim is general chairman of the benefit.

All areas serviced by Holy Family Hospital were represented at the tea.

Cotillion VII will be held this year at the Continental Plaza Hotel. Several young women from the area will make their bow to the clergy at the cotillion Friday, Dec 29.

Those wishing further information are asked to call 824-6010 or 827-3171 after 12 noon.

Fashion by Genie

Fifteen girls who are students at area high schools have been named to Wieboldt's Fall '72 Youth Board. They are currently receiving special training in beauty, poise and modeling in anticipation of Wieboldt's August fall fashion show at which time they will all make their professional modeling debuts.

On the board are Jackie Hockin and Carol Christmas, both of Forest View High School; Donna Prokop of Rolling Meadows High School; Debbie Wilkins of Palatine High School and Joan Daniels of Maine West High School.

Also, Joni Brown and Jill Gardzalewski, both of Hersey High School; Mary Ann Gibbons of Prospect High School; Debbie Morris of Fremd High School; Diane Hales of Wheeling High School; and Gerri Geissler and Mary McNamara, both of Elk Grove High School.

THE FASHION show, which will highlight fall and winter styles to help teenagers plan their back-to-school wardrobes, is Aug. 10, 2:30 p.m., at Wieboldt's in Randhurst.

Dee Dee Fischetti, guest editor from Seventeen Magazine, will join Wieboldt's fashion coordinator, Sue Braden, in commentating the show. A popular band will back up the fashion parade with music.

Members of the board were selected on the criteria of beauty, personality, grace and intelligence. They will participate in many activities, including a special community project.

Montgomery Ward is updating its Wendy Ward program, which includes a teenage charm course, with the recent publication of the "Wendy Ward Charm Book."

Accented with photos and illustrations, the 192-page book covers such topics as serving the community, practicing good grooming and understanding a French menu.

Also included are tips about food and nutrition, posture, exercises, modeling, hair and skin care, fashion, conversation and dating.

HELEN JAMES, national director of the Wendy Ward program and author of the book, said it will be used in 125 Ward locations where the Wendy Ward charm course is offered. It will also be available to schools but will not be sold to the public.

Further information is available through the Montgomery Ward Store at Randhurst Shopping Center.

Shop, Storage Share Garage

A garage workshop and garden tool storage area can be combined, without ousting cars to the weather, if tools, shelves and closets are carefully placed around the walls.

Shelves of varying widths of western pine or fir can be hung directly on the walls. Strips of wood nailed across the studs allow storage of lumber or long-handled tools between the studs.

Workbenches and storage closets for small tools and garden supplies also can be spaced around the walls. Narrower units should be placed where car doors need room to open.

Dear Dorothy My sister and her family suffered great losses in the "Agnes" storm and flood Because I applied the advice myself, I remembered what you wrote a couple of years ago about trees ruined in an ice storm being casualty damage and how tax losses could be claimed Surely this applies here Have you checked" —Mrs T W Cook

Yes, it does indeed apply Because of the enormity of this particular disaster, a rush amendment to the tax law was signed July 1 by President Nixon It permits the storm and flood victims to claim their losses on last year's tax returns If a loss exceeds the past year's taxes, it can be treated as a net operating loss and carried back to reduce taxes into the third preceding year All local tax offices have full information an can help greatly

One has to remember that it isn't just say-so that carries It's advisable to have photographs of the damage, to get estimates from an authorized appraiser and to collect any and all records that might be pertinent

The difference between the house's value before the disaster and the value after would be the amount claimed Each householder has to absorb the first $100 and deduct any insurance reimbursements Not being informed, countless people accept casualty damage as an "act of God" about which little can be done Taxes are often burdensome and dreadfully confusing But the laws do give a break to casualty losers and the IRS is quite good about helping Tell your sister to call right away

WHEREAS, the said Commission held said hearing and made a report as to said amendment to said Zoning Ordinance;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Palatine, Cook County, Illinois, that:

SECTION 1: The Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Palatine, as amended, is hereby further amended by deleting Section 10.03 in its entirety and substituting the following therefor:

"10.03 Yards — Use for Parking. Accessory offstreet parking spaces which are not enclosed may be located in any required yard except that in a residential district, parking in front yards or side yards abutting a street shall be only on that portion of the yard improved for driveway or offstreet parking purposes, pursuant to provisions of the Building Code and the Municipal Code.

SECTION 2: That all ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

SECTION 3: This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication as provided by law.

PASSED: This 17th day of July, 1972.
AYES:6; NAYS: 0; ABSENT: 0; PASS:0.
APPROVED by me this 17th day of July, 1972.
JOHN L. MOODIE
President of the Village of Palatine
ATTESTED AND FILED in the office of the Village Clerk this 17th day of July, 1972.

Public Notice of Highway Hearing

STATE OF ILLINOIS
DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION NORTHEAST REGION
ELGIN, ILLINOIS

In accordance with the requirements of Section 8-106(b) 2 of the Illinois Highway Code, notice is hereby given to any and all interested persons that a Road Closing Hearing will be held at 2:30 P.M., Monday, July 31, 1972 at the Palatine Town Hall, 37 North Plum Grove Road, Palatine, Illinois relative to the proposed legal closing of one of the designated Township roads in Palatine Township, Cook County, Illinois, herein described, which intersects with a highway that will be constructed and designated as Federal Aid Primary Route 432 (formerly 61) a designated freeway.

Action will be taken to close a portion of Nichols Rd., an east-west Township Road described as follows: that portion of Nichols Road located in the North one-half of Section One, Township 42 North, Range 10 East, of the Third Principal Meridian, Palatine Township, Cook County, Illinois, from the westerly boundary line of Federal Aid Primary Route 432, a designated freeway to the easterly boundary line of the said Route 432, a distance of approximately three hundred sixty lineal feet, measured along the centerline of Nichols Road.

A map showing the location of the proposed closure will be on display prior to, during and following the Hearing, for inspection by the public.

Personnel from the Department of Transportation will be present to discuss individual problems concerning the closure, prior to and after the Hearing.

Decision On Wheel Tax Is Postponed Until Aug. 28

A ruling on the constitutionality of Cook County's tax on motor vehicles in unincorporated areas has been postponed until Aug. 28.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Edward Sarnow postponed a decision Friday, after listening to arguments from those defending as well as protesting the constitutionality of the tax.

Sarnow said he would consider a motion by State's Atty. Paul Biebel to dismiss a lawsuit challenging the tax. The suit was filed in April in behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Company of unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

Biebel argued that the tax was legal under the home rule provision of the new Illinois Constitution. The home rule provision, he said, gives counties the power to levy additional taxes for special services. He then pointed out that funds from the wheel tax two weeks ago were earmarked for the Cook County Sheriff's Department by Cook County Pres. George W. Dunne.

THE SHERIFF'S department operates on a $6.5 million budget, 90 per cent of which goes to protect 191,000 persons in unincorporated areas of Cook County, Biebel said. He said anticipated annual revenue from the tax, $1.4 million, is less than 25 per cent of the $5.9 million needed to provide police protection to unincorporated areas.

"What is involved is police protection to unincorporated areas exclusively to the sheriff's police," Biebel said. "Through this tax people in unincorporated areas will begin, to a minor extent, to finance the police protection they enjoy."

Speaking to the other side of the argument, Don Kreger, said the sheriff's police has jurisdiction throughout the county and is not a special service for the unincorporated Cook County alone. Kreger is representing the PHIA and the bus company.

"The ordinance (vehicle tax) says proceeds of the tax will go into the general Cook County fund and be used for general county purposes," Kreger said. "If the county spends more money in one area, that is incidental."

KREGER SAID Dunne's move to put the wheel tax revenue in a separate account was "tantamount to admission that the funds should be filtered to the unincorporated area."

Biebel countered that the ordinance does not demand the revenue go into the general fund and that placing the money in a separate account for the sheriff's police is localizing the cost of police protection.

The tax, similar to charges for municipal vehicle stickers, imposes a yearly charge of $10 to $15 per car and various graduated rates for trucks owned by unincorporated areas and businesses.

High School Teachers Not Near Pact

by WANDALYN RICE

With just one month left before the start of school, negotiators for the High School Dist. 211 school board and teachers report they have not reached agreement on a single substantive item in the 1972-73 teachers' contract.

In a statement issued Friday, officers of the Dist. 211 Education Association, bargaining agent for the teachers, expressed "guarded optimism" about the negotiations, but said they would continue to pressure the board for a settlement.

Ron Avery, chairman of the negotiating team, said, "one of the major issues is that the board wants to avoid putting any working conditions into contract language."

Education Association officials said, however, in the prepared statement that the board seemed more flexible at the last bargaining session Wednesday and expressed optimism for that reason. The next session is scheduled for Aug. 3.

AVERY SAID THE teachers are asking for specific guarantees on class size, teacher-administration policy committees and teacher evaluation procedures spelled out in the contract. The board, he said, "seems to be willing to agree on some things, but they want to put it in their policy manual and not in the contract."

Robert Seger, chief spokesman for the board bargaining team, agreed that the board's unwillingness to spell some things out in the contract has been the major stumbling block in recenh bargaining sessions.

He said the board does not want to spell out things like evaluation procedures in the contract because "it opens up so many things for a grievance. If we put something in the contract we won't be able to move from it for a year, even if we find out something is wrong with it. We're looking for flexibility on a lot of issues. We don't want an iron-clad situation."

The biggest problem, he said, is that the teacher representatives "seem to have a feeling of distrust. They seem to be saying that nothing will work unless it is in the contract."

BARGAINING between the two teams has been going on since February, although it broke down briefly in March before the board agreed to discuss teachers' proposals regarding class size, policy making and other areas not included in previous contracts.

In the past, the teachers in Dist. 211 have had a contract that dealt only with salary and fringe benefits.

Avery said neither side has started talking about salaries for the coming year. "We feel these other issues (class size, etc) are as important to us as money," he said.

Teachers workshops are scheduled for Aug. 23 and 24 in Dist. 211 and Aug. 25 is scheduled for freshman orientation.

Aug. 25 will be the first official day of the school year.

Avery said members of the education association are concerned about the possibility of beginning the year without an agreement. He said the association does not yet have authorization from its members to call a strike in that event.

Seger said the board has wanted a settlement before the beginning of school all along, particularly since it is now deep in discussion of the 1972-73 budget. He added, "I'm not as optimistic as I was before largely because I haven't seen any movement on the part of the teachers."

Youth Employment Service —A Summer Success Story

Youth Employment Service (YES) continues to be a summer success, according to Lynn Helvie, YES director.

YES is a Community Service program designed to match up teen-agers seeking work with prospective employers.

Mrs. Helvie said about 100 job requests were filled in both June and July. Many of the requests required more than one person.

Approximately 275 young people have signed up for work. "All but about 50 have worked at least one job," said Mrs. Helvie. "Many have signed up in the past two weeks. The summer is getting long and they are looking for work to do."

Most of the jobs have been fairly routine, baby-sitting, passing out brochures, washing windows, cutting grass and other lawn work.

Some of the jobs have been unusual. Two boys received $17 each for polishing an airplane. Some teens have been pet-sitting while the owners were on vacation. Two boys were hired to paint a house.

PAY RANGES from 50 cents an hour for baby-sitting to the $5 an hour one boy received for doing lawn work.

Mrs. Helvie said many of the jobs of cutting grass and baby-sitting are one-time jobs, but the teens do such good work that they are called back regularly by the employer.

Any teen wanting work and any person seeking a young person for either temporary or steady work are asked to call YES at 956-0310 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

YOU JUMP, you stretch and hopefully you score a point in the women's volleyball program sponsored by the Elk Grove Park District.

Village Olympics Set Wednesday, Thursday

The annual Village Olympics will be held Wednesday and Thursday. Wednesday's events will be at Audubon Park, Elk Grove Boulevard, Ridge and Victoria. Thursday events will be at the Elk Grove High School track, Elk Grove Boulevard and Arlington Heights Road.

The olympics are open to all residents of Elk Grove Village and are sponsored by the Elk Grove Park District.

Information and registration cards may be obtained at any local park or playground.

Nerge Road Extension Is Possible

Traffic needs of Elk Grove Village, including the impact of possible future multiple-family developments, may call for an extension of Nerge Road to Devon Avenue, according to members of the Elk Grove Village Plan Commission.

Commissioner Tom Hamilton said Thursday a thoroughfare plan prepared for the village by Barton-Aschman Associates two years ago recommended that Devon Avenue be designated a primary road. Hamilton said there needed to be a way traffic could move smoothly from Nerge to Devon and this could not be accomplished by plans proposed by developers of a 267-acre site at the corner of Devon and Rte. 53.

Developers have considered installing stoplights at the corners of Devon and Rte. 53 and Rte. 53 and Nerge to handle future traffic needs.

Hamilton said this solution would be unsatisfactory to him, "The developers completely ignored the Barton-Aschman study and the need for traffic to flow to the west in drawing up their plans," he said.

The committee was in general agreement that a Biesterfield Road interchange at Interstate 90 was a necessity. A request for an interchange at that point has been denied, but village officials have asked the state highway department to reconsider its decision.

Commission members said expansion of Alexian Brothers Medical Center on Biesterfield Road and development of the Ned Brown Forest Preserve west of the village made it even more important to plan for increased traffic through and around the village.

In other discussion, the Plan Commission considering the need for a short bicycle route along Arlington Heights Road at Carol Lane north of Oakwood Dr. Bill Shannon, chairman, said the road was frequently used by pedestrians and bicyclists from the residential area.

The commission submitted the proposal to the village engineer for study.

Chief White Eagle To Present Show

Chief White Eagle, a full-blooded American Indian, will perform at the outdoor concert, 8 p.m., Wednesday, at Grant Wood Youth Center, Ridge and Elk Grove Boulevard.

Wednesday's performance will be an expanded version of the show that Chief White Eagle has presented at local parks this summer. In addition to White Eagle's normal presentation of Indian legends, sign language customs, a quick-draw specialist will also be featured.

Tumbling Classes

Salt Creek Rural Park District will offer classes in tumbling, beginning July 25.

The classes will be offered at all parks in the district. One class will be for preschool three, four and and five year olds. Another class will be for children in grades one through five.

The fee for the six-week course is $4.

More information can be obtained from the park district office at 259-6830.

Program Now In Fourth Summer

Summer School Opens 'New World'

Summer school usually doesn't rank as a favorite summer pastime among students.

That is unless they're among the 55 students in the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 summer migrant program at Plum Grove School in Rolling Meadows.

To these youngsters summer school is something to look forward to. It means field trips, swimming, sewing, cooking, typing, videotaping, workshop, games, singing, hot lunches and even a little work which is fun for the most part.

The activities open up a world of new experiences for most of these students and are part of an effort to improve their educational level and enhance their life style.

The program, now in its fourth summer, is 100 per cent funded by the federal government's Title I program.

LAST YEAR more than 80 children were in the program. A change in federal guidelines making only the children of true agricultural migrants eligible and not the children of migrants who have settled in the area has reduced the eligible participants.

Children in the program range in age from 3 to 15 years old. The eight-week program meets five days a week from 8:30 to 1:30 p.m.

Practical arts were added on the intermediate level of the summer migrant program this year. After they picked out their material, the girls are sewing aprons and beach bags. When they finish their own projects they will start on beach bags for the girls in the primary group.

The beach bags come in handy Wednesday mornings when the 55 students take swimming lessons at the Palatine Community Pool. A favorite with the students, one can often overhear them asking, "How many days until we go swimming?" None of the students are afraid of the water and their teacher says some are becoming pretty good swimmers.

While the girls are sewing the boys are in woodshop. Having completed the base for a lamp, they are now working on a fish wall plaque.

THE LAST three weeks of the program the girls will spend in cooking. The primary youngsters are receiving an introduction to basic cooking in their regular classes. To date they have made applesauce and Jello.

At the end of each day the intermediate students spend an hour learning to type. Another addition to the curriculum this year is videotaping. Seven of the students are learning to operate the videotape equipment. Their big project for the summer will be making a film of activities in the program to show to the parents during a fiesta at the end of the program.

Like Wednesday, Friday is another day the students look forward to. Friday is set aside each week for a field trip. So far these have included a train ride to the Fox River Grove where the group had a picnic, a trip to Pioneer Park for the primary students and to Woodfield Mall and Alexian Brothers Hospital for the intermediate students.

Trips in the planning include a visit to O'Hare Airport, a boat ride in Chicago, a visit to the Chicago and Palatine police stations and the Brookfield Zoo.

THE MORNING hours are devoted to reading, writing, mathematics and other basic skills. Instruction is on an individual or small groups basis. This is necessary because some of the students have attended school and others haven't and all are on different levels, according to Mrs. Peggy Bishop, coordinator of the program.

Several learning kits and machines are used in the program to make learning more enjoyable.

Another important aspect of the program is developing an appreciation and understanding of their own culture among the students. This is done through songs, art projects and discussions.

Working with the students during the day is a team of two certified teachers and certified teachers in practical arts, two teacher aides, two parent aides and six high school volunteers.

Not as enthusiastically greeted by the students is the dental hygiene program. In groups of six the students are taken to Harper College where they have their teeth cleaned. This is followed by instructions on dental hygiene and then the students are given toothbrushes and toothpaste. The students are also given immunization shots if they haven't had them as well as tuberculosis tests during the summer.

SECURING A PIECE of yarn in place, David Torres works on what will be a medallion when completed as his teacher, Rhonda Motzkus, looks on ready to be of assistance. David is one of 55 students in Dist. 15's summer migrant program.

GETTING SOME POINTERS from his teacher, Paul Hanson, Victor Villarrial is ready to put the finishing touches on his lamp base. Practical arts has been added to the summer migrant program curriculum for the first time this year. While the boys are in woodshop, the girls are in sewing class.

DAMP Year Behind Similar Group

by DOUG RAY

The DAMP Water Commission, formed to bring water from Lake Michigan to the Northwest suburbs by 1975, is more than a year behind a similar water commission in the western suburbs, a state official reported Friday.

Jon Guillou, director of the state division of water resource management, said the Des Plaines-Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect-Palatine (DAMP) commission is not ready to move on the approval given by the state Friday for directing water from the lake to the Northwest suburbs.

William Cellini, head of the Illinois Department of transportation, Friday approved the request from DAMP to allocate 34.6 cubic feet per second of the lake's water through a pipeline to the area in 1975.

Guillou, however, said the Tree Towns Water Commission serving Elmhurst, Villa Park and Lombard, "is ready to go immediately." The western suburban commission must sell revenue bonds and provide contract from communities who wish to receive the Lake Michigan water.

"THERE IS A little bit of a question if the (DAMP) communities will sign right away," Guillou added, possibly holding up the new water system.

The state allocated the Tree Towns Commission 56 cubic feet per second of water by 1975 and a jump to 70.8 by 1980. The DAMP group will receive 42.5 cubic feet of water per second by 1980. The figures are subject to change depending upon demand, state officials said.

The Lake Michigan allocation to the Tree Towns Commission is more because that area is larger than DAMP, Guillou said.

There has been speculation of a joint effort by the two water commissions to save money in the multi-million pipeline project. According to a professional study, the joint venture would cost near $80 million.

According to preliminary plans, any local municipality may sign a water contract with DAMP for water consumption and in turn charge residents for the water.

JOHN WOODS, Arlington Heights Village president, said the water rates in that village may double because of the additional costs of the new system. But he said the cost to local residents depends upon several factors including whether the two commissions are combined and the number of municipalities linked to the system.

The allocations are set for 1975 because the pipeline system could not be constructed before that date, state officials said. The water allocations from the state extend to the year 2015.

The DAMP commission was formed in 1957, after the water table began to lower in area wells, presently the lone source of drinking water of the northwest suburbs.

Boy, 16, Drowns In Basin

A 16-year-old Schaumburg boy drowned Saturday night while swimming in the flooded ditch that is to become the Wilke-Kirchoff roads storm water retention basin in Arlington Heights.

The body of Jeffery Thal, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Thal, 1402 Tonset, Schaumburg, was recovered from the water at 9:34 a.m. yesterday by divers from the Wheeling Fire Department.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, at 9:45 a.m. A Cook County Coroner's investigation will be held.

A night-long search for Thal was conducted by area fire and police departments, first with patrol boats and then with divers after daybreak. Arlington Heights police first learned that Thal was missing at 12:45 a.m. yesterday.

THE BOY apparently had gone in swimming with several friends late Saturday night, according to police.

They were swimming in the pond and decided to leave, agreeing to meet somewhere when they got out of the water.

Thal reportedly told his friends that he would walk back to shore through shallow areas of the pond and meet his friends. When he didn't show up, his friends called the police.

Eight divers from Wheeling, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights joined the search for the boy during the morning. They were assisted by patrol boats and back-up men from Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows.

Divers Robert Trausch and Chuck Conway found the boy's body in what was described as a deep area of the pond, 250 feet south of the north shore and 125 feet east of the west shore, nearly three hours after they had joined the search.

According to a source in the Arlington Heights Fire Department, this was the first drowning at that site.

The property belongs to the Village of Arlington Heights. Through a cooperative venture between the village and the Metropolitan Sanitary District it will be turned into a 14-acre storm water retention basin.

When completed, it likely will be maintained as a recreation area by the Arlington Heights Park District. It will be designed to have a dry bottom except after heavy rains.

Mosquitoes Are Still Pretty Thick In Area

A survey completed last week shows that despite efforts by the Mosquito Abatement District, many area communities still are plagued by a severe mosquito problem this summer.

Officials from Arlington Heights, Barrington, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect and Wheeling, reported the mosquito problem ranges from bad to severe.

The survey was taken by Schaumburg Village Trustee Jack Larsen. He took the action after the village board requested emergency action from the Mosquito Abatement District because of the severe problem that has developed.

The village passed an ordinance last year prohibiting spraying of insecticides in the village.

LARSEN SAID he made the survey to been spraying, they still have a problem.

He argued the spraying is an ineffective way to treat the problem.

Last week trustees approved the spraying as an emergency method because heavy rains caused the breeding of large numbers of mosquitoes.

Mayor Robert Atcher and Trustee Herb Aigner stated there was a need for immediate action. They both mentioned reports of children being bittened so severly they required hospitalization.

The two cited the need for the emergency spraying because of the exceptional situation.

After over 30 minutes of discusson on the matter, Larsen's motion to reconsider the amendment granting temporary spraying was defeated.

He Banks On A Sure Bargain

Scott, 10, Finds Money Easy To Make

by DOUG RAY

It was the easiest $4 50 that 10-year-old Scott Johnson of Palatine ever made.

At 10 a m. Friday, after standing in line for an hour, Scott handed $45.50 to the teller at The Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights and received a $50 bill in exchange Right behind him in line were his sister Lynn, 9, and James, 5½, and their mother, Mrs. Robert Johnson, who all made profits by trading crisp bills for mutilated ones.

SCOTT JOHNSON, his younger brother, James, and sister, Lynn, proudly display the bills they received in trade at The Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights Friday. The bank sold torn and worn currency during the two-day sale.

The mutilated money sale was part of the Arlington Market Sidewalk Days Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. During the two days, the bank offered $500 every hour in torn and worn currency for a newer variety, at a profit to the consumer

A line of some 30 persons awaited the first hour of trading, when $20 bills were bartered for $18.49, $10 bills for $9.01; $5 bills for $4.49 and $1 bills for 89 cents as well as the $50 exchanges. One hundred dollars worth in each denomination was offered every hour.

As soon as Scott Johnson got the $50 bill he sped to the end of the lines awaiting another exchange as did the rest of the Johnson family. They said they expected to make about $75 trading the currency at the bank Friday.

It took little more than half an hour of swapping to eliminate the first $500 offered. The cashier then closed until the second hour and the routine continued.

Scott wasn't certain what he could do with the profit which was added to the original money from lawn mowings, birthdays and helping out around the house.

"Maybe just save it for another sale," he answered.

And that may be a good idea as an elderly man observing the sale commented: "There's nothing to it . . . if you've got money, you can make money."

District To View Boundary Issue

The High School Dist. 214 board of education will begin discussing criteria for setting attendance boundaries for Buffalo Grove High School at its meeting today.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in the district's administration building, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

The board will not receive specific proposals on boundary lines for the new school, according to district officials.

In a report prepared for the board meeting, five criteria in setting boundaries are suggested by a committee composed of three administrators and three citizens from Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights In the report, the board is asked to decide what priority each item should receive in future considerations.

The five suggested criteria are enrollment balance between high schools; holding student busing to a minimum, disrupting present and future boundaries as little as possible; avoiding splitting up of graduates of the same junior high school, and retention of neighborhood identity.

Buffalo Grove High School now is under construction at Arlington Heights and Dundee roads. It is scheduled to open in September, 1973 and the board has said it will decide on attendance boundaries by December of this year.

Budget Passage A 'Must' To Meet State Deadline

The Wheeling Village Board will have to rush through passage of the village budget tonight if it is to meet the state deadline without calling any special meetings.

According to state law, the board must pass an appropriations ordinance for the village by July 31. This year's ordinance will be introduced for the first time at tonight's meeting, and will list the village's anticipated expenditures for the coming year.

The ordinance will cover expenditures for the fiscal year beginning May 1, 1972. The board will have to approve the appropriations ordinance tonight, unless members call a special meeting on or before July 31.

Also on the agenda are the approval of the final plats for the new Sears store to be built next to the Dunhurst Shopping Center, and the first addition to the Sandpebble Walk planned development. Both projects have been approved by the zoning board and the plan commission.

DISCUSSION OF an ordinance creating an environmental advisory commission will be renewed. The commission created by the ordinance would study local pollution problems and advise corporate authorities of ways to combat local conditions contributing to pollution.

Discussion of the ordinance was tabled two weeks ago because a trustee was absent.

Members of two village commissions are expected to be present at the meeting. Public relations commission members plan to present the board with a list of problems caused by "lack of cooperation" on the part of village officials. Their presence was prompted by a proposed cut in the membership of several village commissions.

Trustee Albert Lang introduced the cuts three weeks ago in a proposal to make the commissions more workable. The members of the public relations commission claim that a reduction in membership would not solve their problems, which they say are caused by lack of cooperation and communication from the village officials.

THE HUMAN relations commission plans to send a spokesman to the meeting to ask the board to fill the commissions' vacancies so it can conduct business. The commission also plans to prospective commissioners to the board.

The board also plans to tackle the business left over from last week's board meeting. That meeting was canceled because of flooding caused by heavy rains in the village.

On the agenda from last week is payment for the crossing gates and flashing lights installed at the Soo Line tracks on Dundee Road. The board will also enter a resolution commending the Phillip Carpenter Amvets and Auxiliary Post 66 for winning the Governor's Award at the state convention last month.

EVEN AFTER TWO dry days, water still pours out of the drainage ditch onto Anna Krueger's property. The water washes debris into her yard and turns her lawn into a swampy marsh that gives off a fishy odor.

WATER USUALLY covers the bottom of the drainage ditch that runs behind Jackson Drive. Recently two children were pulled out of the ditch, which was too steep for them to climb.

Case Pending As Jackson Drive Residents Live In Fear Of Rains

'Grandma,' Neighbors Being Flooded

by LYNN ASINOF

Mrs. Anna Krueger, 71, lives by herself in a house that is more often than not surrounded by water. Everytime it rains, a smelly brown stream gushes into her backyard, around her house and into the street.

Although "Grandma" Krueger gets the water first, other residents on Jackson Drive, southeast of the Cambridge subdivision, also are flooded every time it rains. The water, which has been as high as waist deep, covers lawns, washes away gardens and driveways and fills basements.

The water comes from an open drainage ditch that runs behind Jackson Drive and opens directly onto "Grandma" Krueger's property. The ditch was built by Chesterfield Builders, developers of the Tahoe development, to alleviate flooding caused by construction in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling.

The ditch was dug as part of an out-of-court settlement between Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, the developers and private citizens in a suit that dates back nearly six years.

IN THE ORIGINAL suit, Richard J. Brown Associates, developers of Cambridge, and six individual property owners asked the court to force William Frazer of Jackson Drive to remove a dam that was interfering with the drainage of the Cambridge development. Frazer claimed that he built the dam to protect his property from flooding caused by the drainage of water from the subdivision.

Frazer said Brown had tried to drain the development by connecting a 36-inch pipe to a 100-year-old, eight-inch field tile that runs through Frazer's property.

After a lengthy court battle, an out-of-court settlement was reached, calling for construction of several retention basins and a drainage ditch. Three retention basins and the drainage ditch were built, but they have not alleviated the flooding problem for the residents on Jackson Drive. In fact, residents say things have gotten worse.

The suit was reopened by Jackson Drive property owner Harold Haar in the fall of 1970. Haar contended that the ditch built by Chesterfield did not meet the terms of the settlement. The case is still in court, with the next hearing scheduled for Aug. 11.

MEANWHILE, Jackson Drive residents have been living with soggy lawns and basements — and the foul odor of stagnant water.

"About seven of us really catch the brunt of it," said Charles Hinze, 2919 Jackson Dr. "And it happens every time it rains — even a piddly rain."

The flooded residents say they are being "used" by the developers. "They're going to build and pull out and leave us with this mess," Mrs. Harr said. "They'll have their millions in their

2 MSD Representatives To Speak Here Friday Night

Two representatives of the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) will speak and answer questions at an informal public meeting Friday at the Heritage Park Fieldhouse, 222 S. Wolf Rd. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m.

Richard Lanyon and another representative were invited by residents who have been concerned over further development of the Wheeling Drainage Ditch and Buffalo Creek.

Esther Davis, one of several residents who worked to save trees which would have been torn out in a proposed ditch-widening project in Wheeling, helped arrange the meeting.

"We are interested in finding the most feasible solutions for the people's assessed dollar, protect our wildlife, preserve the natural greenbelt through Wheeling and make sure our activities do not have adverse effects on the communities around us," Mrs. Davis said.

She added, "We would like to explore the possibilities of improving the function of the basins we have, landscape them, encourage wildlife and institute a multiple use program."

The residents would also like to schedule meetings with representatives of the state division of waterways and the Soil Conservation district.

The meetings were suggested by residents of the Meadowbrook West area during talks with village officials about the proposed ditch widening. The village board agreed to delay any improvements on the ditch, even though the decision meant the village would lose $60,000 in state money earmarked for the project.

Ah, The Games People Play...

by JILL BETTNER

Jill Bettner

Once upon a time, two villages grew up side by side in the beautiful Buffalo Creek valley. One was named Buffalo Grove and the other, Long Grove.

These two villages shared the same schools and churches and generally got along pretty well for many years — until Buffalo Grove began to grow.

"We want to prosper and become an important city one day," said the Buffalo Grove village board. And so, when Jim Otis came to them with his luxurious residential complex, which would add another 2,000 in population to the corporation limits signs, the trustees sat back and grinned.

BUT THE LONG GROVE village board began to worry. After all, the livelihood of their community was centered in a cluster of old-fashioned country stores. It was bad enough, they thought to themselves, that a super highway was going in just a mile or so outside of town. But how could they preserve a rural, small town atmosphere, with a fancy subdivision at the western edge of the community?

Long Grove is small. The residents of the town want to keep it that way — and maybe they will.

A couple of weeks ago, Long Grove Mayor Robert Coffin attended a Buffalo Grove village board meeting, claiming that Long Grove had a right to approve annexation plans for the Otis development because of an agreement with the Lake County Public Works Department.

THE AGREEMENT, he said, established a "sphere of influence" around several villages in the area. Towns who made this pact with the Lake County Public Works Department are entitled to deny sewer service to developers they don't like, Coffin said.

It's not that Long Grove doesn't like the Otis proposal — they probably would have annexed the development into their own village if Otis hadn't snatched it away from them before they had a chance.

Now, Coffin says Long Grove only wants a written guarantee that Otis will build the development according to the plans he showed them. And, just in case he doesn't, Long Grove has wrangled a piece of land along the western boundary of the property — a "buffer strip" — which they will annex into their own village.

ARMSTRONG CALLED the agreement, finally reached after attorneys haggled for nearly five hours last Tuesday, "an expression of good faith." Coffin termed it "an example of intergovernmental cooperation."

I call it a self-serving arrangement of convenience. Long Grove knows their agreement with the Lake County Public Works Department would probably dissolve in court. And Buffalo Grove knows Otis wouldn't stick around to watch — he'd build that multi-million dollar development somewhere else.

And so, the leaders of these two villages will sign the agreement, each probably wishing he could stab the other in the back.

Ah, the games people play.

Wheel Tax Ruling Is Postponed

A ruling on the constitutionality of Cook County's tax on motor vehicles in unincorporated areas has been postponed until Aug. 28.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Edward Sarnow postponed a decision Friday, after listening to arguments from those defending as well as protesting the constitutionality of the tax.

Sarnow said he would consider a motion by State's Atty. Paul Biebel to dismiss a lawsuit challenging the tax. The suit was filed in April in behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Company of unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

Biebel argued that the tax was legal under the home rule provision of the new Illinois Constitution. The home rule provision, he said, gives counties the power to levy additional taxes for special services. He then pointed out that funds from the wheel tax two weeks ago were earmarked for the Cook County Sheriff's Department by Cook County Pres. George W. Dunne.

THE SHERIFF'S department operates on a $6.5 million budget, 90 per cent of which goes to protect 191,000 persons in unincorporated areas of Cook County, Biebel said. He said anticipated annual revenue from the tax, $1.4 million, is less than 25 per cent of the $5.9 million needed to provide police protection to unincorporated areas.

"What is involved is police protection to unincorporated areas exclusively to the sheriff's police," Biebel said. "Through this tax people in unincorporated areas will begin, to a minor extent, to finance the police protection they enjoy."

Speaking to the other side of the argument, Don Kreger, said the sheriff's police has jurisdiction throughout the county and is not a special service for the unincorporated Cook County alone. Kreger is representing the PHIA and the bus company.

"The ordinance (vehicle tax) says proceeds of the tax will go into the general Cook County fund and be used for general county purposes," Kreger said. "If the county spends more money in one area, that is incidental."

KREGER SAID Dunne's move to put the wheel tax revenue in a separate account was "tantamount to admission that the funds should be filtered to the unincorporated area."

Biebel countered that the ordinance does not demand the revenue go into the general fund and that placing the money in a separate account for the sheriff's police is localizing the cost of police protection.

The tax, similar to charges for municipal vehicle stickers, imposes a yearly charge of $10 to $15 per car and various graduated rates for trucks owned by unincorporated areas and businesses.

THE SECOND round of tennis classes offered by the Wheeling Park District will begin today at the Wheeling High School tennis courts. Beginner and intermediate classes will be offered for childen grades three to five and six through eight. Adult classes will include the advanced level as well. The lessons will be for four weeks, with three hours of instruction each week. The fee for residents is $8. Here Nina Waters finishes up the first session by practicing her serve.

District To View Boundary Issue

The High School Dist. 214 board of education will begin discussing criteria for setting attendance boundaries for Buffalo Grove High School at its meeting today.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in the district's administration building, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

The board will not receive specific proposals on boundary lines for the new school, according to district officials.

In a report prepared for the board meeting, five criteria in setting boundaries are suggested by a committee composed of three administrators and three citizens from Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights. In the report, the board is asked to decide what priority each item should receive in future considerations.

The five suggested criteria are enrollment balance between high schools; holding student busing to a minimum; disrupting present and future boundaries as little as possible; avoiding splitting up of graduates of the same junior high school, and retention of neighborhood identity.

Station Wagon Stolen From Parking Lot

A Libertyville man's car was stolen Thursday after he left it overnight in the parking lot of the Union Hotel in Wheeling.

Martin J. Kelly told police that when he returned from dinner at the hotel, his car would not start. He left the car, planning to pick it up the next day.

When he returned, the 1970 station wagon was missing, along with his car keys. Kelly said he may have left the keys in the car.

pockets, and all we'll have is a lot of soggy land."

"What are we supposed to do?" said another resident. "Give up our homes and let them make a drainage ditch out of it? They're drowning us out."

The heart of the legal dispute revolves around who is responsible for the flooding and whether the developers have changed the natural drainage of the land. The developers and the Jackson Drive residents agree that the area used to flood even before the subdivision was built. The residents say, however, that the water used to drain off quickly. Now it stays for days.

THE DEVELOPERS have claimed that the natural drainage of the land leads to the Jackson Drive area. Residents say the developers altered the natural drainage when they tore out old field tile, developed the area and dug the drainage ditch.

Aside from the flooding, the drainage ditch poses another threat to area residents. Two children were recently pulled out of the water-filled ditch, which Haar said was approximately 12 feet at its deepest point.

There are more than 30 children living on Jackson Drive, not to mention the hundreds in surrounding developments. And as one resident put it, "Where there's water, there are children."

"It's too deep for them here," said the Jackson Drive resident who rescued one of the children. "They couldn't get out. They were too small to get out."

POINTING TO the Booth Tarkington School, Frazer said, "It's only about 200 feet from that school. I think they should have to build a fence around it, and I think I'm right."

Frazer said he has to keep a constant watch for children playing in the ditch. "Wheeling knows about it, the village manager knows about it, Valenza and the whole bunch know about it," he added. "I was there the other afternoon. They didn't say anything. They listen, that's all they do."

Jackson Drive residents say they no longer care who is responsible for the flooding. They just want it stopped.

"I want to know who we can find to stop this water," said "Grandma" Krueger. "I just want to know who."

With exasperation, Hinze added, "If we don't get something done we're going to start selling lakefront lots. We'll call it Jackson-on-the-Lake."

Board To Interview Top Applicants For Supt. Job

Of the $86,000 dollars appropriated to the general corporate fund, the district has so far spent $15,332.37. In the recreation fund, they have spent $7,205.33 of the $47,589 appropriated. Out of $19,400 in the outdoor pool fund, $8,959.74 has been spent, and $14,335.34 has been spent from the $64,350 in the indoor pool fund.

The scene yesterday morning at Wilke-Kirchoff Retention Basin in Arlington Heights.

Boy, 16, Drowns In Basin

A 16-year-old Schaumburg boy drowned Saturday night while swimming in the flooded ditch that is to become the Wilke-Kirchoff roads storm water retention basin in Arlington Heights.

The body of Jeffery Thal, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Thal, 1402 Tonset, Schaumburg, was recovered from the water at 9:34 a.m. yesterday by divers from the Wheeling Fire Department.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, at 9:45 a.m. A Cook County Coroner's investigation will be held.

A night-long search for Thal was conducted by area fire and police departments, first with patrol boats and then with divers after daybreak. Arlington Heights police first learned that Thal was missing at 12:45 a.m. yesterday.

THE BOY apparently had gone in swimming with several friends late Saturday night, according to police.

They were swimming in the pond and decided to leave, agreeing to meet somewhere when they got out of the water.

Thal reportedly told his friends that he would walk back to shore through shallow areas of the pond and meet his friends. When he didn't show up, his friends called the police.

Eight divers from Wheeling, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights joined the search for the boy during the morning. They were assisted by patrol boats and back-up men from Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows.

Divers Robert Trausch and Chuck Conway found the boy's body in what was described as a deep area of the pond, 250 feet south of the north shore and 125 feet east of the west shore, nearly three hours after they had joined the search.

According to a source in the Arlington Heights Fire Department, this was the first drowning at that site.

The property belongs to the Village of Arlington Heights. Through a cooperative venture between the village and the Metropolitan Sanitary District it will be turned into a 14-acre storm water retention basin.

When completed, it likely will be maintained as a recreation area by the Arlington Heights Park District. It will be designed to have a dry bottom except after heavy rains.

Girl, 17, Wins Award For Excellence

Physics Project Boon For Slough

by JOHN MAES

What started out as a physics project by Gabriele Ronnett of Mount Prospect in her sophomore year at Hersey High School turned out to be one of the best things that ever happened to the environmentally troubled Hillcrest Slough.

Gabriele's three-year analysis of pollution of the slough's north end, which has been dirtied from sewage dumping and soil erosion, has helped arouse a sharp public awareness of the potential danger to the wetland.

"I didn't think at first that I'd end up studying the slough as long as I did," said Gabriele, 17, whose study won her an award for excellence in scientific research from Argonne National Laboratory.

"But the more I learned about the area from studying it, the more I felt I should continue," she added.

THE PROJECT WAS basically a fact-finding mission about the life systems, soil and water conditions of that slough area in Prospect Heights along Willow Road. "That was the general scheme of the whole thing — to gather as much data as I could," Gabriele said.

Her massive fact-finding mission included taking countless water and soil samples as well as scores of photographs of the area's plant, insect and wildlife.

On Sunday mornings during the summer, she would go to the slough to collect her samples and take humidity and water temperature readings as a part of her data-gathering routine.

The water samples enabled her to determine pollution levels that registered significantly higher in the north half of the wetland. Her soil samples revealed that nitrogen, an element vital to plant growth, was dangerously low in the north half.

The photographs not only showed existing pollution levels but assisted Gabriele in charting the aging process of the slough. "I compared the photographs I took with some others taken in the 1950s and noticed that the north half is aging at a much faster rate than the south half."

"WILDLIFE IS diminishing in the north half while the south remains pretty much intact," she continued.

Sitting with binoculars, she watched the general wildlife distribution and saw that most of the blue heron, ducks and Canadian geese there in the summer were gathered mostly around the south half.

All her samples, pictures and other fact-gathers meant hours upon hours of experimentation. Beginning in February, Gabriele would spend the better part of a day experimenting either at school or at home where she has her own microscope.

In addition to the laboratory facilities she used at Hersey High, her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Ronnett of 502 Garwood Dr., invested $200 in their daughter's project. The money paid for an aerial photograph trip over the area.

GABRIELE, WHO IS eying a career in biological and genetic research and hopes to attend Stanford University in the fall, said the slough could clean itself out in three or four years if a channel to the north half could be opened.

"If the south half is left alone and a natural flow between the two ends restored, it would be back to normal in a few years," she said.

Gabriele, who hopes to obtain a medical degree to aid her in research has been active in such organizations as students for Environmental Action, The Illinois Junior Academy of Science and the National Honor Society at Hersey. She also served on the "Save the Slough" committee.

Gabriele feels that the mounds if information she collected during three years will be of value to people living in the area of the slough. "Now that they know what the situation is, maybe people will look at the area from a more ecological point of view."

High School Board, Teachers Not Near Accord

by WANDALYN RICE

With just one month left before the start of school, negotiators for the High School Dist 211 school board and teachers report they have not reached agreement on a single substantive item in the 1972 73 teachers' contract

In a statement issued Friday, officers of the Dist 211 Education Association bargaining agent for the teachers, expressed "guarded optimism" about the negotiations but said they would continue to pressure the board for a settlement

Ron Avery, chairman of the negotiating team, said, "one of the major issues is that the board wants to avoid putting any working conditions into contract language"

Education Association officials said however, in the prepared statement that the board seemed more flexible at the last bargaining session Wednesday and expressed optimism for that reason The next session is scheduled for Aug 3

AVERY SAID THE teachers are asking for specific guarantees on class size teacher-administration policy committees and teacher evaluation procedures spelled out in the contract The board he said, 'seems to be willing to agree on some things, but they want to put it in their policy manual and not in the contract"

Robert Seger, chief spokesman for the board bargaining team, agreed that the board's unwillingness to spell some things out in the contract has been the major stumbling block in recenh bargaining sessions

He said the board does not want to spell out things like evaluation procedures in the contract because "it opens up so many things for a grievance If we put something in the contract we won't be able to move from it for a year, even if we find out something is wrong with it We're looking for flexibility on a lot of issues We don t want an iron-clad situation"

The biggest problem, he said, is that the teacher representatives "seem to have a feeling of distrust They seem to be saying that nothing will work unless it is in the contract"

BARGAINING between the two teams has been going on since February, although it broke down briefly in March before the board agreed to discuss teachers' proposals regarding class size, policy making and other areas not included in previous contracts

In the past, the teachers in Dist 211 have had a contract that dealt only with salary and fringe benefits

Avery said neither side has started talking about salaries for the coming year "We feel these other issues (class size, etc) are as important to us as money" he said

Teachers workshops are scheduled for Aug 23 and 24 in Dist 211 and Aug 25 is scheduled for freshman orientation

Aug 25 will be the first official day of the school year

Avery said members of the education association are concerned about the possibility of beginning the year without an agreement He said the association does not yet have authorization from its members to call a strike in that event

Seger said the board has wanted a settlement before the beginning of school all along particularly since it is now deep in discussion of the 1972-73 budget He added, "I'm not as optimistic as I was before largely because I haven't seen any movement on the part of the teachers"

MRS. ROBERT JOHNSON of Palatine gets her share of profits at the mutilated money sale at The Bank and Trust Co of Arlington Heights last Friday The Johnsons expected to make $75 by making several trips to the cashier's window during the four-hour sale, which also was held Saturday.

He Banks On A Sure Bargain

by DOUG RAY

It was the easiest $4 50 that 10 year old Scott Johnson of Palatine ever made

At 10 a m Friday, after standing in line for an hour, Scott handed $45 50 to the teller at The Bank and Trust Co of Arlington Heights and received a $50 bill in exchange Right behind him in line were his sister Lynn, 9, and James 5½, and their mother, Mrs Robert Johnson, who all made profits by trading crisp bills for mutilated ones

The mutilated money sale was part of the Arlington Market Sidewalk Days Friday and Saturday from 10 a m to 2 p m During the two days, the bank offered $500 every hour in torn and worn currency for a newer variety, at a profit to the consumer

A line of some 30 persons awaited the first hour of trading, when $20 bills were bartered for $18 49 $10 bills for $9 01 $5 bills for $4 49 and $1 bills for 89 cents as well as the $50 exchanges One hundred dollars worth in each denomination was offered every hour

As soon as Scott Johnson got the $50 bill he sped to the end of the lines awaiting another exchange as did the rest of the Johnson family They said they expected to make about $75 trading the currency at the bank Friday

It took little more than half an hour of swapping to eliminate the first $500 offered The cashier then closed until the second hour and the routine continued

Scott wasn't certain what he could do with the profit which was added to the original money from lawn mowings, birthdays and helping out around the house

SCOTT JOHNSON, his younger brother, James, and sister, Lynn, proudly display the bills they received in trade at The Bank and Trust Co of Arlington Heights Friday. The bank sold torn and worn currency during the two-day sale

Soapbox Derby? Jaycees Want More Details

Two Palatine residents have proposed that a soapbox derby be held in the village and plan to ask the Palatine Jaycees to sponsor it

Mrs Dell Willman 1228 Carpenter Dr said Monday she and her husband will seek local sponsorship of a soapbox derby

The derbys involve competition between youngsters aged 11 to 15 years in homemade vehicles

The Willman's son, Steve Kolinski, 11 participated in a soapbox derby last weekend in Bridgeview, a southwest suburb of Chicago

Mrs Willman said soapbox derbys 'keep kids busy and off the streets," and added that she believed a derby would 'certainly" be popular in Palatine

Palatine Jaycees president Tom Lester contacted by The Herald, said the Jaycees would consider sponsorship of a soapbox derby but would need additional details on what a derby involves

Most of the derbys are held in July, when the local Jaycees sponsor Fourth of July activities, the Jaycees' biggest event of the year.

by DOUG RAY

The DAMP Water Commission, formed to bring water from Lake Michigan to the Northwest suburbs by 1975, is more than a year behind a similar water commission in the western suburbs, a state official reported Friday

Jon Guillou, director of the state division of water resource management, said the Des Plaines Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect-Palatine (DAMP) commission is not ready to move on the approval given by the state Friday for directing water from the lake to the Northwest suburbs

William Cellini head of the Illinois Department of transportation, Friday approved the request from DAMP to allocate 34 8 cubic feet per second of the lake's water through a pipeline to the area in 1975

Guillou, however, said the Tree Towns Water Commission serving Elmhurst, Villa Park and Lombard, "is ready to go immediately" The western suburban commission must sell revenue bonds and provide contract from communities who wish to receive the Lake Michigan water

"THERE IS A little bit of a question if the (DAMP) communities will sign right away," Guillou added, possibly holding up the new water system

The state allocated the Tree Towns Commission 56 cubic feet per second of water by 1975 and a jump to 70 8 by 1980 The DAMP group will receive 42 5 cubic feet of water per second by 1980 The figures are subject to change depending upon demand, state officials said.

DAMP Is A Year Behind

"Maybe just save it for another sale," he answered.

And that may be a good idea as an elderly man observing the sale commented: "There's nothing to it ... if you've got money, you can make money."

The Lake Michigan allocation to the Tree Towns Commission is more because that area is larger than DAMP, Guillou said.

There has been speculation of a joint effort by the two water commissions to save money in the multi-million pipeline project. According to a professional study, the joint venture would cost near $80 million.

According to preliminary plans, any local municipality may sign a water contract with DAMP for water consumption and in turn charge residents for the water.

JOHN WOODS, Arlington Heights Village president, said the water rates in that village may double because of the additional costs of the new system. But he said the cost to local residents depends upon several factors including whether the two commissions are combined and the number of municipalities linked to the system.

The allocations are set for 1975 because the pipeline system could not be constructed before that date, state officials said. The water allocations from the state extend to the year 2015.

The DAMP commission was formed in 1957, after the water table began to lower in area wells, presently the lone source of drinking water of the northwest suburbs.

Wilson-Cedar Pre-Annex Public Hearing Is Tonight

A public hearing is to be held tonight on a pre-annexation agreement to bring property at Wilson and Cedar streets into the Village of Palatine for development of apartments.

Builder Ralph Marotte has proposed 4 three-story buildings on the 4.25-acre site on the southwest corner of the intersection, behind the Cedar Garden apartments.

The project, known as the Wynngate apartments, has been on the drawing board for more than a year. Delays were encountered as the village awaited a study of downtown Palatine, and worked out arrangements with the developer for road improvement in the area.

Another development near the Marotte property known as the Cornell apartment complex, also is awaiting village board approval.

The Marotte apartments would consist of 70 one-bedroom and 22 efficiency units.

The hearing is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in village hall, to be followed by the village board meeting when the pre-annexation agreement is expected to be finalized.

Other items on the agenda include approval of the final plat of the Park Place subdivision on Palatine Road; and approval of engineering plans and final plats for units 2 and 3 of the Willow Walk development.

SAMPLING THE GOODS was one of the highlights for the judges of the 1972 North Cook County 4-H Fair held this weekend in Arlington Heights. Home Economist Harriet Baker had one of the best judging jobs, as she got a chance to sink her teeth into an award-winning brownie. It wasn't all glory for the more than 50 judges who worked at the fair, however, as some reported temperatures in excess of 110 degrees in their judging tents.

Ruling On Wheel Tax Is Postponed

A ruling on the constitutionality of Cook County's tax on motor vehicles in unincorporated areas has been postponed until Aug. 28.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Edward Sarnow postponed a decision Friday, after listening to arguments from those defending as well as protesting the constitutionality of the tax.

Sarnow said he would consider a motion by State's Atty. Paul Biebel to dismiss a lawsuit challenging the tax. The suit was filed in April in behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Company of unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

Biebel argued that the tax was legal under the home rule provision of the new Illinois Constitution. The home rule provision, he said, gives counties the power to levy additional taxes for special services. He then pointed out that funds from the wheel tax two weeks ago were earmarked for the Cook County Sheriff's Department by Cook County Pres. George W. Dunne.

THE SHERIFF'S department operates on a $6.5 million budget, 90 per cent of which goes to protect 191,000 persons in unincorporated areas of Cook County, Biebel said. He said anticipated annual revenue from the tax, $1.4 million, is less than 25 per cent of the $5.9 million needed to provide police protection to unincorporated areas.

"What is involved is police protection to unincorporated areas exclusively to the sheriff's police," Biebel said. "Through this tax people in unincorporated areas will begin, to a minor extent, to finance the police protection they enjoy."

Speaking to the other side of the argument, Don Kreger, said the sheriff's police has jurisdiction throughout the county and is not a special service for the unincorporated Cook County alone. Kreger is representing the PHIA and the bus company.

"The ordinance (vehicle tax) says proceeds of the tax will go into the general Cook County fund and be used for general county purposes," Kreger said. "If the county spends more money in one area, that is incidental."

KREGER SAID Dunne's move to put the wheel tax revenue in a separate account was "tantamount to admission that the funds should be filtered to the unincorporated area."

The tax, similar to charges for municipal vehicle stickers, imposes a yearly charge of $10 to $15 per car and various graduated rates for trucks owned by unincorporated areas and businesses.

Students Work On Environment

by WANDALYN RICE

The temperature soared into the 90's. The humidity was oppressive. Most persons stayed indoors in air-conditioned comfort and sipped lemonade.

But recently 20 students attending summer school at Conant High School in Hoffman Estates stayed outside, clearing debris and building trails on a small plot of land they hope to convert into a nature center across Plum Grove Road from the school.

In the process they battled mosquitos, strained muscles and became sunburned. Then they finally went back to the school at about 3:30 p.m. They were hot, sweaty and still enthusiastic about their project.

The students were all members of Sue Peterson's class in environmental field study, which ended Thursday.

On Monday 10 other students had been surveying and measuring the flood plain area along Salt Creek which has been proposed for a nature center by the Village of Schaumburg.

"LAST YEAR two teachers had this class at Palatine High School," Mrs. Peterson said, "and the kids went over to River Trails Nature Center and worked cleaning up. But this year since we had these two plots so close, I thought we might as well work here."

The land, owned by the school, has long been used as a general dumping ground, Mrs. Peterson said, but members of a horticulture class already had done some work on trails in the area. Students in the environmental class surveyed the area and made plans for it before they began that work, she said.

In addition to the work projects, the environmental studies students have had speakers and field trips on other environmental issues — land zoning to transportation and waste disposal.

"I figured it out the other day and we've had 15 field trips and 17 speakers in 21 days," Mrs. Peterson said. "It's the kind of course where every day you are exposed to so many different things that I know it's going to take us some time to digest it all."

THE COURSE was officially scheduled to last for four hours in the morning, but the students were often on field trips during the afternoon too. "There has been plenty to keep them busy for the entire day," Mrs. Peterson said.

Many of the trips provided unusual experiences for the students and for Mrs. Peterson. "We heard about Palatine's sewer problems and we saw raw sewage flowing into Salt Creek," she said. "We took a trip on the CTA and that was great because many of the kids had never been on an "L" before."

The last project the students undertook was to lay out a plan for one of High School Dist. 211's vacant school sites using their knowledge of soils and wise land use.

The students surveyed the site and each drew up a diagram showing which areas are most suitable for buildings and which would be best used as retention basins, athletic fields and parking lots.

"THIS IS THE type or course that shows the kids what can be done if we plan ahead," Mrs. Peterson said. "If they get nothing else out of it, they will realize when they buy a house that they should ask for a soil map and a flood plain map."

As the students straggled in from their work on the nature center, jokes flew around the room and they expressed enthusiasm for their summer's work.

One group arrived with new shovels and hoes, preparing for more work, and others reminisced about the surveying trip along Salt Creek.

"A bunch of kids came in after that," one boy said, "and they got as far as the water foundation and collapsed 'cause they were so tired. Right then a bunch of kids who are goin' to be freshmen came by on a tour and they really thought we looked strange 'cause we were all so dirty."

Another boy added, "I think they were really worried about how much work high school kids do."

Charged With Robbery Attempt

A 40-year-old Palatine man was arrested last week by Elk Grove Village Police and charged with attempting to rob an Elk Grove Village woman in her home early Tuesday.

Elk Grove Village Police Det. John Landers said John Wilson, 250 Colfax St., Palatine, was identified by the woman after police arrested him in Palatine and returned him to the scene.

Wilson's car matched the description of the car seen leaving the home last Wednesday, according to police. The woman, who police refused to identify, said a man forced his way into her home and was attempting to rob her when he heard other voices in the house and fled. The woman's husband was taking a shower at the time.

Residents Skeptical Of Report

Inverness Wants Master Plan, But . . .

Residents at the second Inverness public hearing last Thursday could agree that the village urgently needs a comprehensive plan, but few could accept certain portions of the Barton-Aschman Inc. recommendations prepared for the village.

As more than 40 villagers sweltered in the unconditioned fieldhouse, the plan commission and Robert Teska, who wrote the report, waded through a list of prepared questions. The list, from the Inverness Association, had been submitted to Teska at the first public hearing June 22.

Teska drew sharp criticism for recommendations increasing the density of certain areas in Inverness to one to two units per acre, instead of the current one-unit-per-acre restriction.

Other complaints stemmed from the plan's suggestion that certain portions of land in Inverness is not suitable for more than one unit per two acres if septic systems are used. To allow higher densities, Teska said, undeveloped areas of Inverness south of Palatine Road could be annexed to the Metropolitan Sanitary District for waste water treatment and water supply.

THE SOURCE for Teska's evaluation of the land for sewage systems didn't satisfy some people at the hearing. They contended that the U.S. Soil and Conservation study of natural resources in the Barrington area, including Inverness, lacked detail.

"We were all sworn in to tell the truth, and he's not telling the truth!" an angered resident said, pointing at Teska.

Another man protested that "this document is being put forth with the expectation that it will be adopted."

There is no guarantee that Teska's recommendations will become reality. Now that the public hearings have been held, the Inverness plan commission will hammer out a final proposal and present it to the village board. Such a document will attempt to compromise Teska's plan with the objections raised by villagers.

WHATEVER THE final recommendations are, Inverness will need to adopt some kind of comprehensive plan, Teska told the group. Municipalities can legally influence the development of unincorporated areas within 1.5 miles of their borders. But for the recommendation to carry weight, the village must be able to show some basis for its opinion.

"Courts are preferring previous planning to haphazard spur-of-the-moment objections" in such cases, Teska said.

The urgency to develop a comprehensive plan was brought home in the current court case by Inverness residents Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lonze, 1120 S. Roselle Rd., to disconnect from the village. Property values around the village have skyrocketed, making the low-density land use costly for residents. If his disconnection attempt is successful, Lonze could build an apartment complex or shopping center on his 40-acre plot.

"If Inverness doesn't adopt something, then Lonze will disconnect, somebody else will disconnect, then Inverness will go to hell," one commissioner warned the group.

Give and take in the Inverness situation may result in some moderately-higher density housing in some areas in the village in exchange for a comprehensive plan to limit even higher-density developments around the village.

TESKA COULDN'T understand the concern about the proposed higher density in the village. "I don't think the residents of this area will be affected by 1.5 or 2 developments per acre as much as by Harper College and other developments," Teska told the disgruntled residents from a southeastern Inverness subdivision.

As plans stand now, two sides of the 40-acre subdivision would border on the proposed two-units-per-acre area. The southern edge of the subdivision borders on the Lonze property.

But wouldn't such housing clusters in Inverness draw "swingers?" one resident asked.

"From my observation, people move into this type of development in a com-

A FINANCIAL analysis of the plan and Inverness also came under fire. Village Trustee Robert Nelson gave projections for Inverness in 1977 under three different conditions: for the village if it stays as it is, if it increases its tax base, or if it implements all the recommendations of the proposed comprehensive plan and they are developed by 1977.

Deficits in the village budget were projected for both of the first two conditions: without change in the village or with more taxes. The third situation would result in a sizable surplus, Nelson predicted.

Such calculations were skeptically received by a few residents. "He makes a good argument, but he doesn't make any sense," a particularly wary resident muttered. Nelson went through his calculations after the hearing was adjourned at the request of a villager.

Throughout the meeting, plan commissioners reassured the villagers that the commission's recommendations would not necessarily be those made by Teska. But in the end, they admitted, they probably won't be able to please everyone in the village.

Ask Group For Tree-Burning Ban Solution

Efforts are under way to have the Northwest Municipal Conference come up with a solution to the current ban on tree burning in this area.

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert said yesterday he will ask the group to consider purchasing its own burning equipment for use by member municipalities or "subsidizing the county."

The Cook County Forest Preserve District burning area near Wheeling was closed June 30 because the county could not afford to install the air curtain destructors required by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency. These burners are designed to cut down on the amount of smoke released into the air.

Teichert said that the county estimated it would cost $250,000 to install the five curtain destructors that would be necessary to handle the burning needs of the area.

"I INTEND TO write to all the mayors of the conference," Teichert said, "We all have the same problem."

The problem is that diseased and damaged trees have to be cut down and removed. Burning of the trees is the most effective means of staying the disease. It is also the least expensive, much cheaper than using the landfill method.

"It looks like it will be seven to 10 times more expensive for us to go with a landfill," Teichert said. "Collective action would be a very real approach."

Should the conference decide to buy its own equipment, a suitable site would have to be found first, and Teichert admitted that could be difficult "Although it shouldn't be because the curtain device cuts down the smoke."

There is no August meeting scheduled for the conference but Teichert said he hopes a special meeting could be called, if necessary.

SO FAR THIS year, Mount Prospect has had to cut down very few diseased trees. The cold weather has kept the bugs in control for the first part of the summer. Although Herbert Weeks, assistant public works director, fears the very recent warm weather may change the situation.

Weeks said that about 30 trees have been cut down since the ban was put in effect. These trees have been stored in West Park, Golf and Busse roads.

Another 30 should come down, Weeks said, but instead they are stripping off the branches and leaving just the trunks up, a type of "on site" storage. Once September is here, the danger of the spread of tree disease lessens and the diseased trees can be cut down at any time.

Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley said that under their contract it would cost about $99 a tree to have them hauled to a burning site near Melrose Park. The village cannot afford this, he said. A total of $10,000 has been budgeted for tree and stump removal this year.

Many of the village's trees have been damaged by the recent storms, and Eppley said the branches and trimmings removed from these trees has been shredded and the resulting material used as temporary roads in West Park.

Free School Bus Service Eyed For Hunting Ridge

The question of free school bus service for sixth-grade students in the Hunting Ridge subdivision of Palatine will be considered Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The transportation committee of the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board of Education agreed Wednesday to meet with a delegation of the parents at the administration office to discuss the transportation situation.

Approximately 50 sixth-grade students in Hunting Ridge are being transferred to Pleasant Hill School in Palatine because of overcrowded conditions at Hunting Ridge School in Palatine.

Because the students do not live a mile and a half from Pleasant Hill School, they are not automatically eligible for bus transportation.

The board has previously agreed to provide a bus for the students at a cost of $30 a semester for each child.

THE STUDENTS' parents contend the walking conditions to Pleasant Hill School are hazardous and since the district is displacing the students it should provide the transportation free.

There are no sidewalks along Illinois Avenue leading to Pleasant Hill School and the parents feel the intersection of Quentin Road and Illinois Avenue is hazardous to cross.

Joseph Kiszka, deputy superintendent, said there are several areas in the district where the walking conditions are hazardous and buses are usually made available to these areas if the parents agree to pay for the transportation. Kiszka added however, that each request for free transportation is considered individually on the particular circumstances involved.

Rock Contest Results

"Mad Dog," a local rock group, took first place honors at the battle of the bands sponsored July 4 by the Palatine Jaycees.

Second place went to "Gypsum," and third place, a tie between "Summit" and "Muchos Abas."

Other groups which competed were "Advent," "Cheese Cake on Rye," "Floating Opera," and "Phantasmagoria."

Kids' Dog Show Winners Announced

Dogs of all shapes and sizes showed up at the recent kids' dog show in Community Park when contestants for best costume, tricks, size, and grooming were judged.

Children with winning entries were: Best trick dog, Kevin Muizter, first; George Hellyer, second; and Leslie Hartman, third.

Smallest dog: Liz Stevenson, first, Lillian Harton, and D. Weskasky. The show's largest dogs were entered by Ronni Levinson, first; Don Shaw second.

Best groomed dogs were shown by Robert Peters, first, Jim Callender, and Denise Schneider. Tracy Richard won third place for the dog with the best costume.

Liz Stevenson took first place for best of show, followed by Ronnie Levinson. Donna Aspril won a stuffed dog at the contest sponsored by the park district.

Park Tennis Court Resurfacing Slated

The resurfacing of the Campbell Street Park tennis courts will start within the next two weeks.

The Rolling Meadows Park District building and grounds committee accepted the bid of DuBoise and Glander Co. to do the resurfacing. They were the only company to bid on the project. Their bid came in at $7,000.

Steve Person, director of parks and recreation, said it will take about two and a half days to complete the resurfacing.

Boy, 16, Drowns In Flooded Ditch Near Wilke Road

A 16 year-old Schaumburg boy drowned Saturday night while swimming in the flooded ditch that is to become the Wilke Kirchoff roads storm water retention basin in Arlington Heights

The body of Jeffery Thal, son of Mr and Mrs. M A Thal, 1402 Tonset, Schaumburg, was recovered from the water at 9 34 a m yesterday by divers from the Wheeling Fire Department

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights at 9 45 a m A Cook County Coroner s investigation will be held

A night-long search for Thal was conducted by area fire and police departments first with patrol boats and then with divers after daybreak Arlington Heights police first learned that Thal was missing at 12 45 a m yesterday

THE BOY apparently had gone in swimming with several friends late Saturday night according to police

They were swimming in the pond and decided to leave agreeing to meet somewhere when they got out of the water

Thal reportedly told his friends that he would walk back to shore through shallow areas of the pond and meet his friends When he didn t show up, his friends called the police

Eight divers from Wheeling, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights joined the search for the boy during the morning They were assisted by patrol boats and back-up men from Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows

Divers Robert Trausch and Chuck Conway found the boy's body in what was described as a deep area of the pond, 250 feet south of the north shore and 125 feet east of the west shore, nearly three hours after they had joined the search

According to a source in the Arlington Heights Fire Department, this was the first drowning at that site

The property belongs to the Village of Arlington Heights Through a cooperative venture between the village and the Metropolitan Sanitary District it will be turned into a 14-acre storm water retention basin

When completed it likely will be maintained as a recreation area by the Arlington Heights Park District It will be designed to have a dry bottom except after heavy rains

The scene yesterday morning near Wilke and Kirchoff roads in Arlington Heights.

by DOUG RAY

It was the easiest $4 50 that 10 year old Scott Johnson of Palatine ever made

At 10 a m Friday after standing in line for an hour Scott handed $45 50 to the teller at The Bank and Trust Co of Arlington Heights and received a $50 bill in exchange Right behind him in line were his sister Lynn, 9, and James, 5½, and their mother Mrs Robert Johnson, who all made profits by trading crisp bills for mutilated ones

The mutilated money sale was part of the Arlington Market Sidewalk Days Friday and Saturday from 10 a m to 2 p m During the two days the bank offered $500 every hour in torn and worn currency for a newer variety, at a profit to the consumer

A line of some 30 persons awaited the first hour of trading, when $20 bills were bartered for $18 49, $10 bills for $9 01, $5 bills for $4 49 and $1 bills for 89 cents as well as the $50 exchanges One hundred dollars worth in each denomination was offered every hour

As soon as Scott Johnson got the $50 bill he sped to the end of the lines awaiting another exchange as did the rest of the Johnson family They said they expected to make about $75 trading the currency at the bank Friday

It took little more than half an hour of swapping to eliminate the first $500 offered The cashier then closed until the second hour and the routine continued

Scott wasn t certain what he could do with the profit which was added to the original money from lawn mowings, birthdays and helping out around the house

Chamber Forms Executive Panel

The Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce has created an executive committee to help streamline the chamber s operation and make it more responsive to its members

Bob Iannacone of Western Electric, who will serve as an advisor to the board said the primary responsibility of the board will be to "bring ideas together in small concise packages and hopefully channel more effort into action'

The committee will include chamber president Frank Carroll of Decks Inc , Lou Beaudry of the Holiday Inn, William Glasgow of the Bank of Rolling Medows, and Rober Tobin of Curtis 1000

The executive committee will meet monthly on the Wednesday before the regular chamber meeting

District To View Boundary Issue

The High School Dist 214 board of education will begin discussing criteria for setting attendance boundaries for Buffalo Grove High School at its meeting today

The board will meet at 8 p m in the district's administration building 799 W Kensington Rd , Mount Prospect.

The board will not receive specific proposals on boundary lines for the new school according to district officials

In a report prepared for the board meeting, five criteria in setting boundaries are suggested by a committee composed of three administrators and three citizens from Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights In the report, the board is asked to decide what priority each item should receive in future considerations

The five suggested criteria are enrollment balance between high schools holding student busing to a minimum disrupting present and future boundaries as little as possible avoiding splitting up of graduates of the same junior high school, and retention of neighborhood identity

School For Hockey Officials Is Offered

A hockey official's school and conditioning class will be offered by the Rolling Meadows Park District Aug 28 to Sept 1 from 7 30 to 9 p m

20 Area Health Agencies To Participate In Fair Here

More than 20 area health agencies have agreed to participate in the Rolling Meadows Health Fair, Sept 13, 14 and 15

City Sanitarian Don Schindler, who is coordinating the three-day exposition at Rolling Meadows Shopping Center, said the participants will present exhibits ranging from mobile health and environment testing units to information booths and displays

Agencies slated to participate in the free fair include The North Suburban Dietetic Assn , the Heart Assn of North Cook County, the Chicago Metropolitan Council on Alcoholism, the Food and Nutrition Service, U S Department of Agriculture the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County, the Social Security Administration the Illinois chapter of the Arthritis Foundation, the American Cancer Society the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, the Rolling Meadows Fire Department Paramedic unit, Cook County air pollution testing unit, the Rolling Meadows Nurses Club, the American Dental Assn , the Chicago Hearing Society, the Chicago Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis society the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, Northwest Community Hospital and United Cerebral Palsy of Greater Chicago

Schindler said he believes this will be the largest health fair ever conducted in the Chicago suburban areas

Exhibits will be on display each day of the fair from 10 a m to 5 p m in the shopping center parking lot on the mall

by DOUG RAY

The DAMP Water Commission, formed to bring water from Lake Michigan to the Northwest suburbs by 1975, is more than a year behind a similar water commission in the western suburbs, a state official reported Friday

Jon Guillou, director of the state division of water resource management said the Des Plaines Arlington Heights Mount Prospect-Palatine (DAMP) commission is not ready to move on the approval given by the state Friday for directing water from the lake to the Northwest suburbs

William Cellini, head of the Illinois Department of transportation, Friday approved the request from DAMP to allocate 34 8 cubic feet per second of the lake's water through a pipeline to the area in 1975

Guillou, however, said the Tree Towns Water Commission serving Elmhurst, Villa Park and Lombard, "is ready to go immediately " The western suburban commission must sell revenue bonds and provide contract from communities who wish to receive the Lake Michigan water

'THERE IS A little bit of a question if the (DAMP) communities will sign right away " Guillou added, possibly holding up the new water system

The state allocated the Tree Towns Commission 56 cubic feet per second of water by 1975 and a jump to 70 8 by 1980 The DAMP group will receive 42 5 cubic feet of water per second by 1980. The figures are subject to change depending upon demand, state officials said.

"Maybe just save it for another sale," he answered.

And that may be a good idea as an elderly man observing the sale commented: "There's nothing to it . . . if you've got money, you can make money."

The Lake Michigan allocation to the Tree Towns Commission is more because that area is larger than DAMP, Guillou said.

There has been speculation of a joint effort by the two water commissions to save money in the multi-million pipeline project. According to a professional study, the joint venture would cost near $80 million.

According to preliminary plans, any local municipality may sign a water contract with DAMP for water consumption and in turn charge residents for the water.

JOHN WOODS, Arlington Heights Village president, said the water rates in that village may double because of the additional costs of the new system. But he said the cost to local residents depends upon several factors including whether the two commissions are combined and the number of municipalities linked to the system.

The allocations are set for 1975 because the pipeline system could not be constructed before that date, state officials said. The water allocations from the state extend to the year 2015.

The DAMP commission was formed in 1957, after the water table began to lower in area wells, presently the lone source of drinking water of the northwest suburbs.

Wilson-Cedar Pre-Annex Public Hearing Is Tonight

A public hearing is to be held tonight on a pre-annexation agreement to bring property at Wilson and Cedar streets into the Village of Palatine for development of apartments.

Builder Ralph Marotte has proposed 4 three-story buildings on the 4.25-acre site on the southwest corner of the intersection, behind the Cedar Garden apartments.

The project, known as the Wynngate apartments, has been on the drawing board for more than a year. Delays were encountered as the village awaited a study of downtown Palatine, and worked out arrangements with the developer for road improvement in the area.

Another development near the Marotte property known as the Cornell apartment complex, also is awaiting village board approval.

The Marotte apartments would consist of 70 one-bedroom and 22 efficiency units.

The hearing is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in village hall, to be followed by the village board meeting when the pre-annexation agreement is expected to be finalized.

Other items on the agenda include approval of the final plat of the Park Place subdivision on Palatine Road; and approval of engineering plans and final plats for units 2 and 3 of the Willow Walk development.

SAMPLING THE GOODS was one of the highlights for the judges of the 1972 North Cook County 4-H Fair held this weekend in Arlington Heights. Home Economist Harriet Baker had one of the best judging jobs, as she got a chance to sink her teeth into an award-winning brownie. It wasn't all glory for the more than 50 judges who worked at the fair, however, as some reported temperatures in excess of 110 degrees in their judging tents.

Ruling On Wheel Tax Is Postponed

A ruling on the constitutionality of Cook County's tax on motor vehicles in unincorporated areas has been postponed until Aug. 28.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Edward Sarnow postponed a decision Friday, after listening to arguments from those defending as well as protesting the constitutionality of the tax.

Sarnow said he would consider a motion by State's Atty. Paul Biebel to dismiss a lawsuit challenging the tax. The suit was filed in April in behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Company of unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

Biebel argued that the tax was legal under the home rule provision of the new Illinois Constitution. The home rule provision, he said, gives counties the power to levy additional taxes for special services. He then pointed out that funds from the wheel tax two weeks ago were earmarked for the Cook County Sheriff's Department by Cook County Pres. George W. Dunne.

THE SHERIFF'S department operates on a $6.5 million budget, 90 per cent of which goes to protect 191,000 persons in unincorporated areas of Cook County, Biebel said. He said anticipated annual revenue from the tax, $1.4 million, is less than 25 per cent of the $5.9 million needed to provide police protection to unincorporated areas.

"What is involved is police protection to unincorporated areas exclusively to the sheriff's police," Biebel said. "Through this tax people in unincorporated areas will begin, to a minor extent, to finance the police protection they enjoy."

Speaking to the other side of the argument, Don Kreger, said the sheriff's police has jurisdiction throughout the county and is not a special service for the unincorporated Cook County alone. Kreger is representing the PHIA and the bus company.

"The ordinance (vehicle tax) says proceeds of the tax will go into the general Cook County fund and be used for general county purposes," Kreger said. "If the county spends more money in one area, that is incidental."

KREGER SAID Dunne's move to put the wheel tax revenue in a separate account was "tantamount to admission that the funds should be filtered to the unincorporated area."

The tax, similar to charges for municipal vehicle stickers, imposes a yearly charge of $10 to $15 per car and various graduated rates for trucks owned by unincorporated areas and businesses.

Charged With Robbery Attempt

A 40-year-old Palatine man was arrested last week by Elk Grove Village Police and charged with attempting to rob an Elk Grove Village woman in her home early Tuesday.

Elk Grove Village Police Det. John Landers said John Wilson, 250 Colfax St., Palatine, was identified by the woman after police arrested him in Palatine and returned him to the scene.

Wilson's car matched the description of the car seen leaving the home last Wednesday, according to police. The woman, who police refused to identify, said a man forced his way into her home and was attempting to rob her when he heard other voices in the house and fled. The woman's husband was taking a shower at the time.

Students Work On Environment

by WANDALYN RICE

The temperature soared into the 90's. The humidity was oppressive. Most persons stayed indoors in air-conditioned comfort and sipped lemonade.

But recently 20 students attending summer school at Conant High School in Hoffman Estates stayed outside, clearing debris and building trails on a small plot of land they hope to convert into a nature center across Plum Grove Road from the school.

In the process they battled mosquitos, strained muscles and became sunburned. Then they finally went back to the school at about 3:30 p.m. They were hot, sweaty and still enthusiastic about their project.

The students were all members of Sue Peterson's class in environmental field study, which ended Thursday.

On Monday 10 other students had been surveying and measuring the flood plain area along Salt Creek which has been proposed for a nature center by the Village of Schaumburg.

"LAST YEAR two teachers had this class at Palatine High School," Mrs. Peterson said, "and the kids went over to River Trails Nature Center and worked cleaning up. But this year since we had these two plots so close, I thought we might as well work here."

The land, owned by the school, has long been used as a general dumping ground, Mrs. Peterson said, but members of a horticulture class already had done some work on trails in the area. Students in the environmental class surveyed the area and made plans for it before they began that work, she said.

In addition to the work projects, the environmental studies students have had speakers and field trips on other environmental issues — land zoning to transportation and waste disposal.

"I figured it out the other day and we've had 15 field trips and 17 speakers in 21 days," Mrs. Peterson said. "It's the kind of course where every day you are exposed to so many different things that I know it's going to take us some time to digest it all."

THE COURSE was officially scheduled to last for four hours in the morning, but the students were often on field trips during the afternoon too. "There has been plenty to keep them busy for the entire day," Mrs. Peterson said.

Many of the trips provided unusual experiences for the students and for Mrs. Peterson. "We heard about Palatine's sewer problems and we saw raw sewage flowing into Salt Creek," she said. "We took a trip on the CTA and that was great because many of the kids had never been on an "L" before."

The last project the students undertook was to lay out a plan for one of High School Dist. 211's vacant school sites using their knowledge of soils and wise land use.

The students surveyed the site and each drew up a diagram showing which areas are most suitable for buildings and which would be best used as retention basins, athletic fields and parking lots.

"THIS IS THE type or course that shows the kids what can be done if we plan ahead," Mrs. Peterson said. "If they get nothing else out of it, they will realize when they buy a house that they should ask for a soil map and a flood plain map."

As the students straggled in from their work on the nature center, jokes flew around the room and they expressed enthusiasm for their summer's work.

One group arrived with new shovels and hoes, preparing for more work, and others reminisced about the surveying trip along Salt Creek.

"A bunch of kids came in after that," one boy said, "and they got as far as the water foundation and collapsed 'cause they were so tired. Right then a bunch of kids who are goin' to be freshmen came by on a tour and they really thought we looked strange 'cause we were all so dirty."

Another boy added, "I think they were really worried about how much work high school kids do."

Ruling On Wheel Tax Postponed Until August 28

A ruling on the constitutionality of Cook County's tax on motor vehicles in unincorporated areas has been postponed until Aug. 28.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Edward Sarnow postponed a decision Friday, after listening to arguments from those defending as well as protesting the constitutionality of the tax.

Sarnow said he would consider a motion by State's Atty. Paul Biebel to dismiss a lawsuit challenging the tax. The suit was filed in April in behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Company of unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

Biebel argued that the tax was legal under the home rule provision of the new Illinois Constitution. The home rule provision, he said, gives counties the power to levy additional taxes for special services. He then pointed out that funds from the wheel tax two weeks ago were earmarked for the Cook County Sheriff's Department by Cook County Pres. George W. Dunne.

THE SHERIFF'S department operates on a $6.5 million budget, 90 per cent of which goes to protect 191,000 persons in unincorporated areas of Cook County, Biebel said. He said anticipated annual revenue from the tax, $1.4 million, is less than 25 per cent of the $5.9 million needed to provide police protection to unincorporated areas.

"What is involved is police protection to unincorporated areas exclusively to the sheriff's police," Biebel said. "Through this tax people in unincorporated areas will begin, to a minor extent, to finance the police protection they enjoy."

Speaking to the other side of the argument, Don Kreger, said the sheriff's police has jurisdiction throughout the county and is not a special service for the unincorporated Cook County alone. Kreger is representing the PHIA and the bus company.

"The ordinance (vehicle tax) says proceeds of the tax will go into the general Cook County fund and be used for general county purposes," Kreger said. "If the county spends more money in one area, that is incidental."

KREGER SAID Dunne's move to put the wheel tax revenue in a separate account was "tantamount to admission that the funds should be filtered to the unincorporated area."

Biebel countered that the ordinance does not demand the revenue go into the general fund and that placing the money in a separate account for the sheriff's police is localizing the cost of police protection.

The tax, similar to charges for municipal vehicle stickers, imposes a yearly charge of $10 to $15 per car and various graduated rates for trucks owned by unincorporated areas and businesses.

Pool Season Passes Are Now Half Price

Prospect Heights Park District residents can now buy a season pass to the Lions Park Pool for half price.

Starting today, a single person under 16 may purchase a season's pass for $5. A $12 pass for persons over 16 has been reduced to $6. Other revised pass rates are $10.50 for a family of two; $11.50 for a family of three and $12 for a family of four.

An additional 50 cents is charged for each extra family member after four. Passes for families of eight or more are now $14.

Passes can be purchased at the pool office, Elm and Camp McDonald roads. The pool closes Sept. 4.

Judge Sets Sept. 11 Ruling Date For Zenith Land Suit

Circuit Court Judge Edward F. Healy has set Sept. 11 for his ruling on a lawsuit brought by the Zenith Radio Corp. and Dominion Development Co. against the Village of Mount Prospect.

According to Village Atty. John J. Zimmermann, the trial portion of the lawsuit was completed last week. In the suit, the plaintiffs are asking the court to order the village to allow construction of a neighborhood convenience center at the southwest corner of Central and Mount Prospect roads.

Lawyers from both sides have until Aug. 21 to submit their final written briefs.

Last November, the village board voted to deny a zoning change for the property, which is now zoned residential, at present, two Zenith radio towers, unused since the 1920s, and a transmission building stand on the property.

If the rezoning is ordered by the courts, Dominion will buy the land from Zenith. Dominion, an affiliate of Jewel Inc., would build a center containing a White Hen Pantry store, and possibly a florist and laundry business.

Residents of the area appeared before the village board and the plan commission to object to the project during last fall's public hearings. They said there was no need for that type of center in the area and expressed concern over additional traffic in the already problem intersection.

Parents' Committee To Meet Tonight

Weigh Plan To Hypo Band Program

A committee of parents will meet tonight to draw up a plan for providing instruction to supplement the band program in Mount Prospect Dist. 57.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the district's administration building, 701 W. Gregory St. Dwight Hall, newly named assistant superintendent in charge of instruction, also will attend.

The parent committee was selected at a meeting Thursday to discuss forming a parent association to provide band instruction. Committee members are Marilyn Hallman, Nancy Schmid, Ronald Scherer, Art Schmidt and Jan Malcomson.

About 35 parents listened Thursday as David Metzler, former Dist. 57 band instructor, presented a plan for a parent-sponsored band program. Metzler's plan would provide beginning band instruction for fifth and sixth graders, which will not be provided in Dist. 57 in September because of lack of funds.

The school board voted to cut the number of band teachers from two to one after a March 39-cent tax hike referendum was defeated. Metzler is now scheduled to teach vocal music in the district.

MRS. HALLMAN said the committee would work on details of a plan, including fees, how they would be collected and providing liability insurance for the band students. Under Metzler's plan, the instruction would be given in district facilities before or after school. He has suggested a monthly fee of $8 per student, which is similar to fees charged by other parent-sponsored band programs.

"There is also a big concern about establishing a jazz band group at the junior high," Metzler said Friday. He said he will work closely with dist. 57 band director Robert Henry to coordinate the two band programs.

Mrs. Hallman said the committee would try to have a plan ready for the Aug. 21 school board meeting. The school board has already expressed approval for the formation of a parent-sponsored band program.

May Dismiss Illegal Annexation Claim

A Cook County Circuit Court judge is expected to make a decision today that could dismiss a lawsuit charging that Wheeling illegally annexed 40 acres of unincorporated land.

Judge Edward Egan is expected to decide if the lawsuit, filed last year by a group of Prospect Heights residents known as the Wheeling Road Zoning Committee, was filed with undue delay and should be dismissed. He will make the ruling in Room 2307 of the Chicago Civic Center.

Filers of the suit claim the land, east of Wheeling Road and formerly in Prospect Heights, is not sufficiently contiguous to the village of Wheeling for annexation. The land was annexed and rezoned for multiple-family apartment development at the request of owner Arnold Liebling.

LIEBLING AND the village of Wheeling contend the suit, filed 44 days after the annexation, was unduly delayed and should be dismissed. Liebling intervened in the suit after permission from the Cook County Circuit Court.

A decision in favor of the objectors, could affect the rezoning, according to Don Kreger, attorney representing the Wheeling Road Committee. "If it is determined that the land was not annexed legally, then Wheeling never had a right to rezone it," he said.

Busing Of Some Pupils Pondered

Busing of some kindergarten students from Parkview to Feehanville School next September is being considered by River Trails Dist. 26 as a solution to overcrowding.

Officials plan to contact parents of about 16 kindergarten students living on Ivy Lane, Azalea Lane, Azalea Place, Kiowa Lane and parts of Basswood and Quince lanes. The school board has not yet made a final decision on the matter.

"We want parents to at least feel they will have some say in the matter," said board member Leora Rosen.

According to Supt. Tom Warden, Parkview does not have enough classroom space or teachers to accommodate the number of kindergartners registered for next year. He said other alternatives to the problem are holding three kindergarten sessions a day, sending Parkview sixth graders to some other school, or keeping large classes and hiring a teacher aide.

"WE COULD ALSO use a mobile unit, but the district doesn't have enough money to buy one," Warden said.

Warden said that 13 of the 16 parents have already requested bus transportation for their children. "So busing is not the issue. The issue is if parents want small or large class sizes," he said.

Board members asked which school the students would attend for first grade. Warden said he couldn't predict that far ahead since much of Dist. 26's enrollment depends on how many students attend parochial schools each year.

SAMPLING THE GOODS was one of the highlights for the judges of the 1972 North Cook County 4-H Fair held this weekend in Arlington Heights. Home Economist Harriet Baker had one of the best judging jobs, as she got a chance to sink her teeth into an award-winning brownie. It wasn't all glory for the more than 50 judges who worked at the fair, however, as some reported temperatures in excess of 110 degrees in their judging tents.

DAMP Is A Year Behind Similar Water Group

by DOUG RAY

The DAMP Water Commission, formed to bring water from Lake Michigan to the Northwest suburbs by 1975, is more than a year behind a similar water commission in the western suburbs, a state official reported Friday.

Jon Guillou, director of the state division of water resource management, said the Des Plaines-Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect-Palatine (DAMP) commission is not ready to move on the approval given by the state Friday for directing water from the lake to the Northwest suburbs.

William Cellini, head of the Illinois Department of transportation, Friday approved the request from DAMP to allocate 34.8 cubic feet per second of the lake's water through a pipeline to the area in 1975.

Guillou, however, said the Tree Towns Water Commission serving Elmhurst, Villa Park and Lombard, "is ready to go immediately." The western suburban commission must sell revenue bonds and provide contract from communities who wish to receive the Lake Michigan water.

"THERE IS A little bit of a question if the (DAMP) communities will sign right away," Guillou added, possibly holding up the new water system.

The state allocated the Tree Towns Commission 56 cubic feet per second of water by 1975 and a jump to 70.8 by 1980. The DAMP group will receive 42.5 cubic feet of water per second by 1980. The figures are subject to change depending upon demand, state officials said.

"Maybe just save it for another sale," he answered.

And that may be a good idea as an elderly man observing the sale commented: "There's nothing to it ... if you've got money, you can make money."

The Lake Michigan allocation to the Tree Towns Commission is more because that area is larger than DAMP, Guillou said.

There has been speculation of a joint effort by the two water commissions to save money in the multi-million pipeline project. According to a professional study, the joint venture would cost near $80 million.

Youth, 16, Drowning Victim

A 16-year-old Schaumburg boy drowned Saturday night while swimming in the flooded ditch that is to become the Wilke-Kirchoff roads storm water retention basin in Arlington Heights.

The body of Jeffery Thal, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Thal, 1402 Tonsel, Schaumburg, was recovered from the water at 9:34 a.m. yesterday by divers from the Wheeling Fire Department.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, at 9:45 a.m. A Cook County Coroner's investigation will be held.

A night-long search for Thal was conducted by area fire and police departments, first with patrol boats and then with divers after daybreak. Arlington Heights police first learned that Thal was missing at 12:45 a.m. yesterday.

THE BOY apparently had gone in swimming with several friends late Saturday night, according to police.

They were swimming in the pond and decided to leave, agreeing to meet somewhere when they got out of the water.

Thal reportedly told his friends that he would walk back to shore through shallow areas of the pond and meet his friends. When he didn't show up, his friends called the police.

Eight divers from Wheeling, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights joined the search for the boy during the morning. They were assisted by patrol boats and back-up men from Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows.

Divers Robert Trausch and Chuck Conway found the boy's body in what was described as a deep area of the pond, 250 feet south of the north shore and 125 feet east of the west shore, nearly three hours after they had joined the search.

According to a source in the Arlington Heights Fire Department, this was the first drowning at that site.

The property belongs to the Village of Arlington Heights. Through a cooperative venture between the village and the Metropolitan Sanitary District it will be turned into a 14-acre storm water retention basin.

When completed, it likely will be maintained as a recreation area by the Arlington Heights Park District. It will be designed to have a dry bottom except after heavy rains.

Liquor-Until-2 a.m. Bid Defeated

A bid to allow the serving of liquor until 2 a.m. on weekdays in Mount Prospect was defeated last week by the village board.

Three of the five trustees present voted against the proposed extra hour of serving time because they thought it was not necessary. The three were Donald Furst, George Anderson and Daniel Ahern.

The proposal had come from liquor commissioner Robert D. Teichert, who is also president of the village board. In presenting the plan, Teichert said some liquor license holders had indicated the extra hour would help them compete against establishments in the county.

Furst said only a few of the license holders indicated they wanted or would even use the extra hour.

Both Teichert and Furst were referring to a meeting held March 18 with the license holders. At that time certain changes in the liquor license code were suggested. Teichert has been trying to implement three of those suggestions, of which the extra hour is one. The other two are to repeal the prohibition against amusement devices in license holders' establishments and to allow bowling alleys to stay open an additional hour.

THE AMUSEMENT device change was passed 4-1 by the board. Teichert withdrew the bowling alley request for now because he said it would do them no good if they could not serve liquor during that hour.

In explaining his negative vote on the extra serving hour, Trustee Anderson said he was concerned that it would create a further inconvenience for persons living near a tavern. He specifically mentioned Butch McGuire's on Rand Road.

That tavern's owner had recently asked for a rezoning from the village and, although rezoning was granted, numerus residents of the subdivision behind the tavern appeared at hearings to protest noise and trash they said came from McGuire's.

"It will be a hardship on these people," Anderson said.

Ahern continued his strong stand against the extension of liquor licenses either in number or in hours. He said he could not see how the extra hour would benefit "any of the people in Mount Prospect. He also accused Teichert of putting "morality" into the issue.

YOU'D LIKE to put everything in a little pigeon hole." Ahern told Teichert. "It's a business judgment. You keep injecting morality. I'm not."

Teichert answered that the closing hour, like most other aspects of liquor licenses, are completely arbitrary and up to the board to decide.

"It is a balance of the social and economic aspects of the community we are working toward," Teichert said. "I think some of them (liquor license holders) are having a tough time. As businesses, I want to see them healthy and prosperous."

Trustees Kenneth V. Scholten and Errol F. Richardson voted for the extra hour.

Tire Store Robbed

Over $275 was taken from the Goodyear Tire Store, 102 E. Rand Rd., after burglars Wednesday night ripped open the bottom of the safe. However, $400 was left behind.

Mount Prospect Police said entry was gained through an air vent on the roof. They said the building's alarm system was not functioning at the time of the break-in because of a system malfunction.

A small hatchet, crow bar and large hammer were found near the safe. An additional $400, in a top drawer of the safe, was not disturbed, police said.

Employe Of Old Orchard Tricked Out Of $1,950

An employe of the Old Orchard Country Club in Mount Prospect was tricked out of $1,950 Wednesday by an apparent con man.

The victim, who asked not to be identified, had been lured by a golfer it was possible to get TVs and stereos for his friends at low prices.

The victim collected $1,950 and met the "deliverer" Wednesday at a Chicago restaurant. Police said he gave the man the money. The man said he would get the truck to deliver the items . . . however he never returned.

With bargains-turned-nightmare, the victim withdrew $1,950 from his own bank account to refund his friends' money.

Scott, 10, Finds Money Easy To Make

by DOUG RAY

It was the easiest $4.50 that 10-year-old Scott Johnson of Palatine ever made.

At 10 a.m. Friday, after standing in line for an hour, Scott handed $45.50 to the teller at The Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights and received a $50 bill in exchange. Right behind him in line were his sister Lynn, 9, and James, 5½, and their mother, Mrs. Robert Johnson, who all made profits by trading crisp bills for mutilated ones.

The mutilated money sale was part of the Arlington Market Sidewalk Days Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. During the two days, the bank offered $500 every hour in torn and worn currency for a newer variety, at a profit to the consumer.

A line of some 30 persons awaited the first hour of trading, when $20 bills were bartered for $18.49; $10 bills for $9.01; $5 bills for $4.49 and $1 bills for 89 cents as well as the $50 exchanges. One hundred dollars worth in each denomination was offered every hour.

As soon as Scott Johnson got the $50 bill he sped to the end of the lines awaiting another exchange as did the rest of the Johnson family. They said they expected to make about $75 trading the currency at the bank Friday.

It took little more than half an hour of swapping to eliminate the first $500 offered. The cashier then closed until the second hour and the routine continued.

Scott wasn't certain what he could do with the profit which was added to the original money from lawn mowings, birthdays and helping out around the house.

Wall Collapse Damage Suit Delayed

A $1.5 million damage suit filed against High School Dist. 214 is moving slowly through the Cook County judicial processes, and the attorney for the families involved does not believe it will come to trial for another three years.

The suit was filed last year on behalf of three Arlington High School student seriously injured when a "modesty wall" in a school rest room collapsed on them as the result of a prank.

The boys, Brad Boice, 814 Ridge Ave.; William Kelly, 751 S. Burton Pl. and William Horn, 1345 N. Highland, were trying to force their way out of the restroom by placing their backs against the wall and pushing on the door when the wall collapsed. Two other boys had locked the door from the outside by slipping a two-by-four through the door handles.

All three victims suffered compressed fractures of the spine. Horn died several months later as a result of complications from his injuries.

THE LAWSUIT, on behalf of Boice, Kelly and the Horn family, was filed shortly after the accident by attorney John D. Hayes. It charges the school district, the company that constructed the wall and the two boys who locked the door with negligence.

Hayes said Wednesday he has been preparing the case and is having tests conducted on the materials used in the wall. Boice, he said, has been hospitalized several times because of recurring infections, but neither he nor Kelly are paralyzed.

Hayes said because of the backlog of cases in Cook County courts he does not expect the case to come to trial until about four years after it was filed. The case was filed about one month after the January 1971 accident.

He said pretrial conferences will probably be held with the school district's insurance company but added, "At this point I can't say whether the case will be settled out of court because we simply don't know enough."

3 Brothers Go To Court On Robbery, Battery Charges

Three Chicago brothers allegedly attempted to rob a Mount Prospect gas station last week so they could raise bond money for a fourth brother who was being held by Chicago police on a traffic violation.

Myron O. Coleman, 17, and Harold D. Coleman, 21, will appear tomorrow in Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court on charges of attempted robbery and aggravated battery. They are being held in Cook County Jail in lieu of posting $10,000 bond each.

The third brother, 16, has been processed through Juvenile Court and taken to the Andy Detention Home.

The three, police said, were driving up Northwest Highway about 3 a.m. Wednesday when they spotted Charles J. Tapp, 21 of Lombard, as the sole attendant at the Clark Station, 696 E. Northwest Hwy.

THE 16-YEAR-OLD BROTHER went to the gas station first to look the situation over while pretending to buy some pop, police said. Then a second brother approached Tapp with a can and asked for 50 cents worth of gas. Just as Tapp had filled the can, he was hit over the head with an object, according to reports.

Tapp told police that he did not black out and that he chased the men. He said that when the suspects ran across the railroad tracks he returned to the station and telephoned police.

The police later stopped a car on S. Emerson Street. Inside were the Coleman brothers. An identification of the brothers was made by Tapp, police said.

Police said that Harold Coleman also was found to be absent without leave from a U.S. Navy ship stationed in San Francisco.

Boy, 16, Drowns In Flooded Ditch Near Wilke Road

A 16-year-old Schaumburg boy drowned Saturday night while swimming in the flooded ditch that is to become the Wilke-Kirchoff roads storm water retention basin in Arlington Heights.

The body of Jeffery Thal, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Thal, 1402 Tonsel, Schaumburg, was recovered from the water at 9:34 a.m. yesterday by divers from the Wheeling Fire Department.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, at 9:45 a.m. A Cook County Coroner's investigation will be held.

A night-long search for Thal was conducted by area fire and police departments, first with patrol boats and then with divers after daybreak. Arlington Heights police first learned that Thal was missing at 12:45 a.m. yesterday.

THE BOY apparently had gone in swimming with several friends late Saturday night, according to police.

They were swimming in the pond and decided to leave, agreeing to meet somewhere when they got out of the water.

Thal reportedly told his friends that he would walk back to shore through shallow areas of the pond and meet his friends. When he didn't show up, his friends called the police.

Eight divers from Wheeling, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights joined the search for the boy during the morning. They were assisted by patrol boats and back-up men from Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows.

Divers Robert Trausch and Chuck Conway found the boy's body in what was described as a deep area of the pond, 250 feet south of the north shore and 125 feet east of the west shore, nearly three hours after they had joined the search.

According to a source in the Arlington Heights Fire Department, this was the first drowning at that site.

The property belongs to the Village of Arlington Heights. Through a cooperative venture between the village and the Metropolitan Sanitary District it will be turned into a 14-acre storm water retention basin.

When completed, it likely will be maintained as a recreation area by the Arlington Heights Park District. It will be designed to have a dry bottom except after heavy rains.

The scene yesterday morning near Wilke and Kirchoff roads in Arlington Heights.

Oops! An Oversight

Villge Pres. John Woods corrected an oversight last week and reappointed O. V. Anderson to the village plan commission.

Anderson's name accidentally was omitted from a list of reappointments made last week. He has served on the plan commission since 1966, most recently as chairman.

SCOTT JOHNSON, his younger brother, James, and sister, Lynn, proudly display the bills they received in trade at The Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights Friday. The bank sold torn and worn currency during the two-day sale.

DAMP Year Behind Similar Group

by DOUG RAY

The DAMP Water Commission, formed to bring water from Lake Michigan to the Northwest suburbs by 1975, is more than a year behind a similar water commission in the western suburbs, a state official reported Friday.

Jon Guillou, director of the state division of water resource management, said the Des Plaines-Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect-Palatine (DAMP) commission is not ready to move on the approval given by the state Friday for directing water from the lake to the Northwest suburbs.

William Cellini, head of the Illinois Department of transportation, Friday approved the request from DAMP to allocate 34.8 cubic feet per second of the lake's water through a pipeline to the area in 1975.

Guillou, however, said the Tree Towns Water Commission serving Elmhurst, Villa Park and Lombard, "is ready to go immediately." The western suburban commission must sell revenue bonds and provide contract from communities who wish to receive the Lake Michigan water.

"THERE IS A little bit of a question if the (DAMP) communities will sign right away," Guillou added, possibly holding up the new water system.

The state allocated the Tree Towns Commission 56 cubic feet per second of water by 1975 and a jump to 70.8 by 1980. The DAMP group will receive 42.5 cubic feet of water per second by 1980. The figures are subject to change depending upon demand, state officials said.

"Maybe just save it for another sale," he answered.

And that may be a good idea as an elderly man observing the sale commented: "There's nothing to it . . . if you've got money, you can make money."

The Lake Michigan allocation to the Tree Towns Commission is more because that area is larger than DAMP, Guillou said.

There has been speculation of a joint effort by the two water commissions to save money in the multi-million pipeline project. According to a professional study, the joint venture would cost near $80 million.

According to preliminary plans, any local municipality may sign a water contract with DAMP for water consumption and in turn charge residents for the water.

JOHN WOODS, Arlington Heights Village president, said the water rates in that village may double because of the additional costs of the new system. But he said the cost to local residents depends upon several factors including whether the two commissions are combined and the number of municipalities linked to the system.

The allocations are set for 1975 because the pipeline system could not be constructed before that date, state officials said. The water allocations from the state extend to the year 2015.

The DAMP commission was formed in 1957, after the water table began to lower in area wells, presently the lone source of drinking water of the northwest suburbs.

PARENTS ARE OFTEN sideline coaches and umpires, but few make their opinions heard beyond the bleachers. Here, proud parents watch the competition according to the rules and protest in the Arlington Heights Boys Baseball League.

THE BATTER watches a high pop-up, which eventually lands in the mitt of the first baseman. Boys in Arlington Heights Boys Baseball, one of the largest little leagues in the county with 2,200 participants, contend the new metal bats make balls go higher and farther than conventional wooden bats.

THE GIANTS are winning, and there are two men on base, and team members Joe Bugos, left, and John Mason look on approvingly.

W heel Tax Ruling Postponed Until August 28

A ruling on the constitutionality of Cook County's tax on motor vehicles in unincorporated areas has been postponed until Aug. 28.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Edward Sarnow postponed a decision Friday, after listening to arguments from those defending as well as protesting the constitutionality of the tax.

Sarnow said he would consider a motion by State's Atty. Paul Biebel to dismiss a lawsuit challenging the tax. The suit was filed in April in behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Company of unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

Biebel argued that the tax was legal under the home rule provision of the new Illinois Constitution. The home rule provision, he said, gives counties the power to levy additional taxes for special services. He then pointed out that funds from the wheel tax two weeks ago were earmarked for the Cook County Sheriff's Department by Cook County Pres. George W. Dunne.

THE SHERIFF'S department operates on a $6.5 million budget, 90 per cent of which goes to protect 191,000 persons in unincorporated areas of Cook County, Biebel said. He said anticipated annual revenue from the tax, $1.4 million, is less than 25 per cent of the $5.9 million needed to provide police protection to unincorporated areas.

"What is involved is police protection to unincorporated areas exclusively to the sheriff's police," Biebel said. "Through this tax people in unincorporated areas will begin, to a minor extent, to finance the police protection they enjoy."

Speaking to the other side of the argument, Don Kreger, said the sheriff's police has jurisdiction throughout the county and is not a special service for the unincorporated Cook County alone. Kreger is representing the PHIA and the bus company.

"The ordinance (vehicle tax) says proceeds of the tax will go into the general Cook County fund and be used for general county purposes," Kreger said. "If the county spends more money in one area, that is incidental."

KREGER SAID Dunne's move to put the wheel tax revenue in a separate account was "tantamount to admission that the funds should be filtered to the unincorporated area."

Biebel countered that the ordinance does not demand the revenue go into the general fund and that placing the money in a separate account for the sheriff's police is localizing the cost of police protection.

The tax, similar to charges for municipal vehicle stickers, imposes a yearly charge of $10 to $15 per car and various graduated rates for trucks owned by unincorporated areas and businesses.

Hockey League Finds (A $65) Home

Arlington Heights Minor Hockey Association, a wandering league for the past few years, has found a home.

Like most homes these days, it will cost a little bit more, however.

The home, where all games will be played, is the Arlington Ice Spectrum in Palatine, on Northwest Highway across from Arlington Park. Instead of paying $50 to $55 per hour for ice, as the association has been paying at ice facilities around the Northwest suburbs, home ice will cost $65 per hour.

Additional cost for ice will mean additional cost as part of the program. Each boy will now have to pay $50 instead of last year's $45 registration fee. The practice time fee will go from $2.50 per hour to $20 for the season.

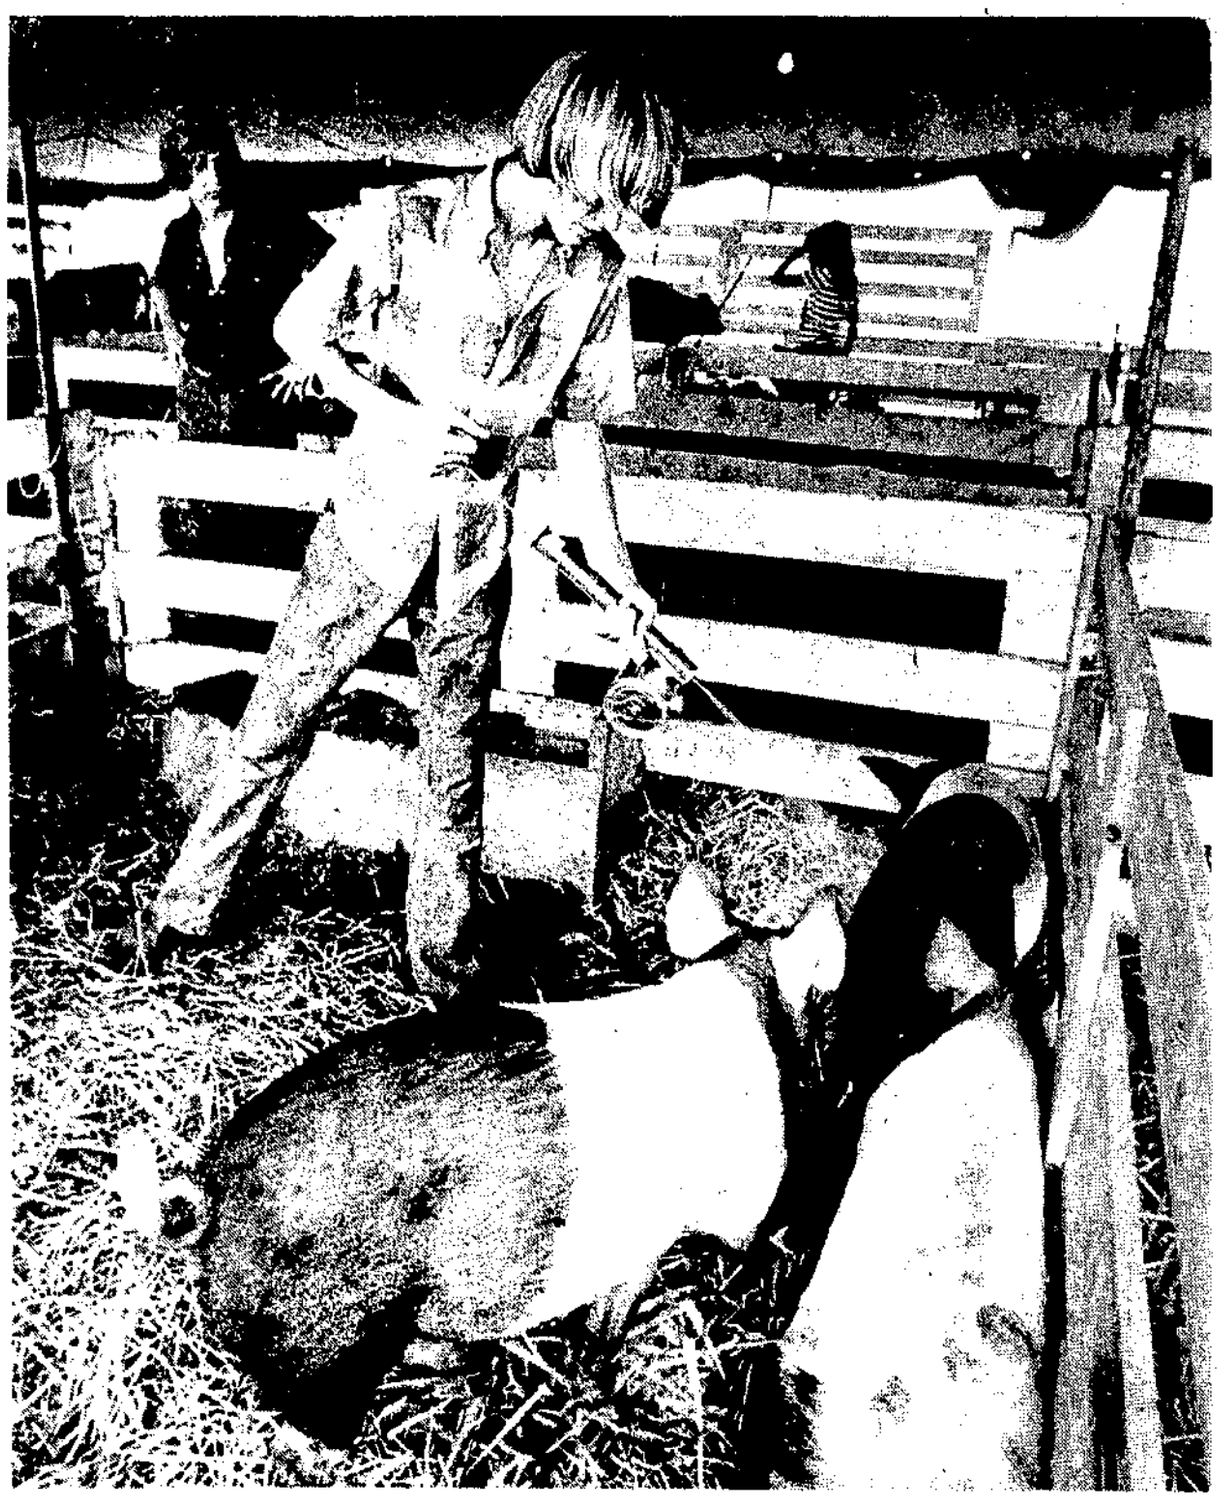
"LAST YEAR practice time payments averaged about $15 per boy for the season," said Association President Robert E. Clark. "The net effect of the price changes this year will amount to about $10 per boy for the season."

Clark doesn't expect the extra $10 to be a deterrent to registration. The budget for the coming year is $48,000 as compared to $28,000 last season.

"Additional ice time is being obtained to permit us to accept about 200 new boys into the program," Clark said. If 200 new boys join, the program will be double the enrollment of last year.

The league, which accepts boys 18 years old and under, will have a season which runs from Sept. 25 to March 26, 1973. There will be no games or practices, however, during the Christmas holidays.

Sign-up for the program will be held Aug. 12 and Sept. 9 from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner, Arlington Heights. Boys who cannot sign up at that time should call Clark at 394-1468, or any member of the board of directors of the association.



PREPARING THE PIGS for competition takes many hours, and the last effort includes a quick spray, as demonstrated here by Todd Kuechler of Elgin. The competition was held as part of the 1972 North Cook County 4-H Fair in Arlington Heights during the weekend. More than one-third of the 57 trophies were donated by Arlington Heights merchants.

Swim Team Gets 2nd Win

The Arlington Heights Park District White swim team recently romped to a 299 to 153 victory over Highland Park. The win gives the team a 2-1 season.

Divers Tim Ash, Ellen Tanner, Tom Ponsot and Caren Hoffnagle started out the meet with first place finishes in the diving competition.

Winners in the 15-year-old division included Sheri Meyer with firsts in the 100-yard individual medley and 100-yard breaststroke; Beth McCabe with firsts in the 100-yard freestyle and 100-yard backstroke; and Ginny Rizzo with a first in the 50-yard butterfly.

Boys in the 15-year-old division who brought home blue ribbons were Kevin Taylor and Bob Bosley with double wins, and Ken Brask and Phil Dodgen with single blue ribbons.

Winners in the 13-14 year old age bracket were Dixon O'Brien, Marty Shekleton, Ruth Kjerland, Pam Rothhaar and Nancy Gardner.

Swimmers in the 12-and-under division brought home a total of 17 first place ribbons.

Winners were Don Rothhaar, Doug Young, Jill Nason, Nancy Mauney, Debbie Young, Karen Meyer, Dave Leahy and Craig Kocher.

In the 8-year-old-and-under division, Kathy Livingston and Nancy McDouggall took first place ribbons.

Adventures of your Garbageman

We'd like to remind customers whose garbage cans are kept in garages that our drivers are forbidden to enter garages. Even if the garage doors are open, cans must be outside.

This has always been a company rule (although some drivers have been casual about it, to cooperate with the customer). But now, we're enforcing it 100%.

The reason is not to save work, but to avoid controversy. In 44 years of serving the village, we don't know of a single case of driver theft. But we've had lots of accusations (usually followed by apologies when the misplaced tool or whatever was found). The only way to avoid embarrassment for both customer and driver is not to enter garages at all.

We'll appreciate your cooperation — and if a driver enters your garage, we'll be grateful if you phone CL 3-1708, and let us know.

EVEN IN A LIGHT rain, the drainage ditch quickly fills with water and then spills over onto adjoining property. Residents claim developers pump water into the ditch from their overflowing retention basins without concern for the flooding it causes.

'Grandma,' Neighbors Live With Flooding

by LYNN ASINOF

Mrs. Anna Krueger, 71, lives by herself in a house that is more often than not surrounded by water. Everytime it rains, a smelly brown stream gushes into her backyard, around her house and into the street.

Although "Grandma" Krueger gets the water first, other residents on Jackson Drive, southeast of the Cambridge subdivision, also are flooded every time it rains. The water, which has been as high as waist deep, covers lawns, washes away gardens and driveways and fills basements.

The water comes from an open drainage ditch that runs behind Jackson Drive and opens directly onto "Grandma" Krueger's property. The ditch was built by Chesterfield Builders, developers of the Tahoe development, to alleviate flooding caused by construction in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling.

The ditch was dug as part of an out-of-court settlement between Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, the developers and private citizens in a suit that dates back nearly six years.

IN THE ORIGINAL suit, Richard J. Brown Associates, developers of Cambridge, and six individual property owners asked the court to force William Frazer of Jackson Drive to remove a dam that was interfering with the drainage of the Cambridge development. Frazer claimed that he built the dam to protect his property from flooding caused by the drainage of water from the subdivision.

Frazer said Brown had tried to drain the development by connecting a 36-inch pipe to a 100-year-old, eight-inch field tile that runs through Frazer's property.

After a lengthy court battle, an out-of-court settlement was reached, calling for construction of several retention basins and a drainage ditch. Three retention basins and the drainage ditch were built, but they have not alleviated the flooding problem for the residents on Jackson Drive. In fact, residents say things have gotten worse.

The suit was reopened by Jackson Drive property owner Harold Haar in the fall of 1970. Haar contended that the ditch built by Chesterfield did not meet the terms of the settlement. The case is still in court, with the next hearing scheduled for Aug. 11.

MEANWHILE, Jackson Drive residents have been living with soggy lawns and basements — and the foul odor of stagnant water.

"About seven of us really catch the brunt of it," said Charles Hinze, 2919 Jackson Dr. "And it happens every time it rains — even a piddly rain."

The flooded residents say they are being "used" by the developers. "They're going to build and pull out and leave us with this mess," Mrs. Harr said. "They'll have their millions in their pockets, and all we'll have is a lot of soggy land."

"What are we supposed to do?" said another resident. "Give up our homes and let them make a drainage ditch out of it? They're drowning us out."

The heart of the legal dispute revolves around who is responsible for the flooding and whether the developers have changed the natural drainage of the land. The developers and the Jackson Drive residents agree that the area used to flood even before the subdivision was built. The residents say, however, that the water used to drain off quickly. Now it stays for days.

THE DEVELOPERS have claimed that the natural drainage of the land leads to the Jackson Drive area. Residents say the developers altered the natural drainage when they tore out old field tile, developed the area and dug the drainage ditch.

Aside from the flooding, the drainage ditch poses another threat to area residents. Two children were recently pulled out of the water-filled ditch, which Haar said was approximately 12 feet at its deepest point.

There are more than 30 children living on Jackson Drive, not to mention the hundreds in surrounding developments. And as one resident put it, "Where there's water, there are children."

"It's too deep for them here," said the Jackson Drive resident who rescued one of the children. "They couldn't get out. They were too small to get out."

POINTING TO the Booth Tarkington School, Frazer said, "It's only about 200 feet from that school. I think they should have to build a fence around it, and I think I'm right."

Frazer said he has to keep a constant watch for children playing in the ditch. "Wheeling knows about it, the village manager knows about it, Valenza and the whole bunch know about it," he added. "I was there the other afternoon. They didn't say anything. They listen, that's all they do."

Jackson Drive residents say they no longer care who is responsible for the flooding. They just want it stopped.

"I want to know who we can find to stop this water," said "Grandma" Krueger. "I just want to know who."

With exasperation, Hinze added, "If we don't get something done we're going to start selling lakefront lots. We'll call it Jackson-on-the-Lake."

Claim Damages For Injury

Attorneys for a student involved in a science experiment accident at South Junior High School in Arlington Heights have filed a claim for damages.

Maureen Weston, 14, daughter of Shirley Weston, 607 S. Arlington Heights Rd., was treated and released after a classroom fire, which occurred April 24.

She has been under doctor's care for burns to her feet, however, and Mrs. Weston said she was confined to bed for two months.

"I don't know the full degree of the injuries or whether or not they're permanent, so I don't know exactly what settlement we'll ask for," said Henry C. Szala, Weston's attorney.

ACCORDING TO Szala, however, the settlement will probably include more than medical expenses to help make up for the pain, suffering and possible permanence of the injury.

If the claim isn't settled out of court, a lawsuit will be filed, according to Szala. According to statutory limitation, the suit must be filed within a year.

Park To Sponsor Trip To Glenview

A free park district-sponsored trip to the Glenview Naval Air Station has been set for 10:30 today.

Interested youngsters will have a chance to watch a model airplane flying contest and view the planes in a special exhibit.

The trip is open to Arlington Heights Park District youngsters. The bus will leave Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St., at 10:30 and return at 2:30 p.m.

Free Street Theater To Perform Monday

"Lexicon," a play about words, will be staged Monday at Camelot Park, 1005 E. Suffield, Arlington Heights, at 8 p.m. by the Free Street Theater Co.

The program is sponsored by the Illinois Arts Council, and includes 25 players. It is part of the Arlington Heights Park District's music-under-the-stars program.

Youth Director Hiring, Guidebook On Week's Agenda

Des Plaines City Council committees this week will study proposals for hiring a full-time city youth director, and publication of a city guidebook for residents who wish to fight environmental problems.

Aldermen also will examine a proposed tax hike for Waycinden Park residents, to pay for city fire protection. Proposed zoning code revisions and the new city plan also will be discussed.

Meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall, 1412 Miner St., the council's Youth Activity Committee will study a proposal from Ald. Robert Sherwood (2nd) to hire a youth director, who could help fight increasing youth problems here.

Several members of the city's Youth Commission, including former chairman the Rev. Ernest Grant, also have said that a full-time director would be more effective and helpful in forming youth programs than the youth commission, which is made up of volunteers who can spend only a few hours a week at the job.

SHERWOOD SAID his three years of experience as chairman of the council's youth committee have convinced him of the need for a youth director, because he feels many youth services and programs duplicate efforts by city groups.

A director is needed, he has said, to provide professional guidance and coordinate programs offered by the city and private youth aid agencies, he has said.

A director could coordinate efforts by the Des Plaines Police, the Maine Township Mental Health Clinic, the Salvation Army Family service, Forest psychiatric hospital, the youth commission, the Des Plaines Coordinating Council on Youth Problems — an organization of school, church and civic leaders — the Des Plaines Park District and the Place for People, an informal youth center, according to Sherwood.

"If they all worked together towards the same goal, they would get there quicker," he said.

A youth director might be able to develop programs to reduce the growing number of juvenile criminal offenses, he said. In 1971, juvenile offense arrests rose 35 per cent from 1,118 in 1970 to 1,505.

Arrest for narcotics-use violations rose almost 50 per cent from 42 to 62. Bur-

Bible School To Begin

The Immanuel Lutheran Church Vacation Bible School will be held July 31 to Aug. 11 Monday through Friday from 9 to 11:30 a.m. in the Immanuel Lutheran School, 832 Lee St., Des Plaines.

Activities will include Bible stories/handicrafts, music, recreation and refreshments, according to Mrs. Arthur Amling, superintendent. Department heads are Mrs. Robert Koehler of Des Plaines, junior level; Mrs. Robert Reinke of Des Plaines, primary level; and Mrs. Gerald McClendon of Mount Prospect, preprimary level.

Teachers and aides include Mrs. Richard Jacobson, Mrs. James Crandall, Mrs. Roger Erber, Mrs. Fred Hayden, Mrs. Allen Fedder, Mrs. R. Mischnick, Mrs. Albert Schulze, Mrs. Edward Vanik, Mrs. J. Tipton, Mrs. Willis Lindeman, Mrs. Leroy Swier, Mrs. Leonard Frank, Mrs. Robert Greenfield, Alwin Timmermann, Mrs. Lloyd Nelson and Mrs. George Baker.

Others include Beth Reinke, Diane Henrikson, Joy Shallcross, Patti Molitor, Gail Molitor, Debra Mensching, Sue Timmerman, Brenda Moll, Jill Erber, Kathleen Crandall, Mary Hoffman, Doreen Grischow and Susan Jacobson.

Special assistant for registration are Mrs. Erwin Roschke and Mrs. O. F. Browder; special assistant for devotions is Mrs. James Coburn and Cathie Johnson has been invited to assist with music.

Registration can be made by calling the church at 824-3652 or Mrs. Amling at 824-4532.

Patrolman Gets Commendation From Chief

Des Plaines Patrolman John Meese was awarded a Departmental Commendation by Chief Arthur Hintz Friday for his actions May 27 in attempting to save a 13-year-old youth who drowned in a Des Plaines lake.

Meese reportedly swam out to the middle of the lake on property belonging to the Metropolitan Sanitary District and recovered the youth's body in 10 feet of water.

Meese, according to reports, pulled the boy to shore and tried to revive him.

The youth, Lane G. Soulje, 13, of 1380 Prospect Ave., Des Plaines, had been playing on logs in the middle of the lake, which is located just north of Wille Road west of Marshall Drive.

The youth's companions told police young Soulje fell in the water about 25 feet from shore. Meese was the first policeman on the scene after the companions called police when the Soulje youth went under water.

Ruling On Wheel Tax Is Postponed

A ruling on the constitutionality of Cook County's tax on motor vehicles in unincorporated areas has been postponed until Aug. 28.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Edward Sarnow postponed a decision Friday, after listening to arguments from those defending as well as protesting the constitutionality of the tax.

Sarnow said he would consider a motion by State's Atty. Paul Biebel to dismiss a lawsuit challenging the tax. The suit was filed in April in behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Company of unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

Biebel argued that the tax was legal under the home rule provision of the new Illinois Constitution. The home rule provision, he said, gives counties the power to levy additional taxes for special services. He then pointed out that funds from the wheel tax two weeks ago were earmarked for the Cook County Sheriff's Department by Cook County Pres. George W. Dunne.

THE SHERIFF'S department operates on a $6.5 million budget, 90 per cent of which goes to protect 191,000 persons in unincorporated areas of Cook County, Biebel said. He said anticipated annual revenue from the tax, $1.4 million, is less than 25 per cent of the $5.9 million needed to provide police protection to unincorporated areas.

"What is involved is police protection to unincorporated areas exclusively to the sheriff's police," Biebel said. "Through this tax people in unincorporated areas will begin, to a minor extent, to finance the police protection they enjoy."

Speaking to the other side of the argument, Don Kreger, said the sheriff's police has jurisdiction throughout the county and is not a special service for the unincorporated Cook County alone. Kreger is representing the PHIA and the bus company.

"The ordinance (vehicle tax) says proceeds of the tax will go into the general Cook County fund and be used for general county purposes," Kreger said. "If the county spends more money in one area, that is incidental."

KREGER SAID Dunne's move to put the wheel tax revenue in a separate account was "tantamount to admission that the funds should be filtered to the unincorporated area."

Biebel countered that the ordinance does not demand the revenue go into the general fund and that placing the money in a separate account for the sheriff's police is localizing the cost of police protection.

The tax, similar to charges for municipal vehicle stickers, imposes a yearly charge of $10 to $15 per car and various graduated rates for trucks owned by unincorporated areas and businesses.

Charge Man With Public Indecency

A Bensenville man, 30, was arrested by Des Plaines police Thursday night and charged with public indecency moments after he allegedly exposed himself to a girl, 15.

According to police, Jesus Rodriguez, 30, 2730 Mount Prospect Rd., Bensenville, was nabbed after Det. Bill Tarver saw him lure the girl near his auto on Howard Street near Shepherd Drive and then drive away.

Tarver, who had been patrolling in the area because of reports of suspicious persons there, said he radioed a description of the Rodriguez auto and the suspect was later stopped on Touhy Avenue by Patrolmen Michael Lambeau and Jerry Liggit.

Rodriguez was released on $1,000 bond and will appear Aug. 17 at 11 a.m. in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Recently I had pneumonia and an X-ray revealed I had emphysema. I was told to quit smoking (easier said than done) and now I find if I quit smoking there isn't any guarantee it will arrest the emphysema.

To tell the truth, I'm not even sure what emphysema is or what happens to your lungs. Is this a serious disease or is it overdramatized? Could you tell me exactly what it is and what happens if it continues to get worse and how a person would know. Does it progress rapidly?

Dear Reader—Yes, emphysema is a very serious disease. To understand emphysema, you need to consider the lungs. The main windpipe, or trachea, divides into a right and left bronchus. These two main airways continue to branch into smaller airways until they terminate in numerous little blind sacs called alveoli. Think of these as little bottles. The bottle neck is the main location where emphysema strikes.

In emphysema, this opening becomes constricted so that it is difficult for air to pass in or out of the lung. The nature of breathing is such that this obstruction tends to trap air in the air sacs, causing them to be overdistended.

This causes too much stale air to be kept in the small air sacs. Characteristically, the lungs of a person with emphysema are over-inflated, partially filled with stale air. Despite vigorous exhaling, an excess amount of old air remains in the lungs. The accumulation of old air without enough oxygen makes it difficult for the circulation to get enough oxygen from the lungs to supply the body.

The serverity of symptoms caused by emphysema literally depends upon how much old air is trapped in the lungs. As the condition progresses, the absence of sufficient oxygen leads to breathlessness and decreased ability to do physical exercise.

CIGARETTE smoking aggravates the obstruction at the bottle neck to the air sac. Some individuals are essentially allergic to cigarette smoke, which makes this condition even worse for them.

While there is no guarantee that stopping smoking will eliminate the problem for someone who already has difficulties, in many individuals it results in marked improvement and essentially causes the disease to stop progressing. Your doctor was absolutely right in telling you to quit smoking cigarettes.

How can you tell what's going on? Mostly by progressive breathlessness or increased evidence of shortness of breath with physical exertion.

It's impossible to say how rapidly such a disorder will progress in an individual without having all the medical information available. Even then it is difficult. The most important factor, though, is what you do about yourself. This specifically means staying completely away from cigarettes forever and following carefully the advice your doctor give you in reference to breathing exercises, weight control and possibly medicine.

Questions? Address Dr. Lawrence Lamb, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Dunne Mobile Unit To Visit Randhurst

A mobile unit from County Board President George W. Dunne's Office of Inquiry and Information will visit the Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect for four days this week to answer questions and provide information about county governmental operations.

Workers in the unit will also be prepared to register voters for the November election.

The mobile unit will be on the mall at the shopping center from Tuesday through Friday.

Tuesday through Thursday the unit will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The hours for Friday will be from 3 p.m.

15 Apply For Principal Jobs In River Trails

Fifteen people have applied for the job of principal in River Trails Dist. 26, according to Supt. Tom Warden.

Warden said yesterday he is still taking applications for the position of principal at Feehanville and Indian Grove schools. "There are two or three people I'm particularly interested in," he said. "I'm close to a recommendation for Indian Grove." He said he might make the recommendation at the Aug. 1 school board meeting.

Warden has been receiving applications since the school board voted June 20 to reassign two principals. The former principals are Bea Amundson, Feehanville School, and James Ackley, River Trails Junior High School.

Gene Kukla, principal at River Road School, was assigned as principal at the junior high. Joseph Wawick, a teacher at River Road, will become principal there.

THE VACANCY at Indian Grove came Tuesday night after the board accepted the resignation of David Dossett. Dossett, who had been with the district three years, left to take a job as principal in Mundelein Dist. 75.

An Island Lake resident, Dossett said he took the new job because it was closer to his home. He said he is also interested in Dist. 75's Individually Guided Education program. Asked if the recent principal reassignments influenced his decisions, he said "not really."

Maine East Summer Band To Give Concert

by DOUG RAY

The DAMP Water Commission, formed to bring water from Lake Michigan to the Northwest suburbs by 1975, is more than a year behind a similar water commission in the western suburbs, a state official reported Friday.

Jon Guillou, director of the state division of water resource management, said the Des Plaines-Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect-Palatine (DAMP) commission is not ready to move on the approval given by the state Friday for directing water from the lake to the Northwest suburbs.

William Cellini, head of the Illinois Department of transportation, Friday approved the request from DAMP to allocate 34.8 cubic feet per second of the lake's water through a pipeline to the area in 1975.

Guillou, however, said the Tree Towns Water Commission serving Elmhurst, Villa Park and Lombard, "is ready to go immediately." The western suburban commission must sell revenue bonds and provide contract from communities who wish to receive the Lake Michigan water.

"THERE IS A little bit of a question if the (DAMP) communities will sign right away," Guillou added, possibly holding up the new water system.

The state allocated the Tree Towns Commission 56 cubic feet per second of water by 1975 and a jump to 70.8 by 1980. The DAMP group will receive 42.5 cubic feet of water per second by 1980. The figures are subject to change depending upon demand, state officials said.

"Maybe just save it for another sale," he answered.

And that may be a good idea as an elderly man observing the sale commented: "There's nothing to it . . . if you've got money, you can make money."

The Lake Michigan allocation to the Tree Towns Commission is more because that area is larger than DAMP, Guillou said.

There has been speculation of a joint effort by the two water commissions to save money in the multi-million pipeline project. According to a professional study, the joint venture would cost near $80 million.

According to preliminary plans, any local municipality may sign a water contract with DAMP for water consumption and in turn charge residents for the water.

JOHN WOODS, Arlington Heights Village president, said the water rates in that village may double because of the additional costs of the new system. But he said the cost to local residents depends upon several factors including whether the two commissions are combined and the number of municipalities linked to the system.

The allocations are set for 1975 because the pipeline system could not be constructed before that date, state officials said. The water allocations from the state extend to the year 2015.

The DAMP commission was formed in 1957, after the water table began to lower in area wells, presently the lone source of drinking water of the northwest suburbs.

District To View Boundary Issue

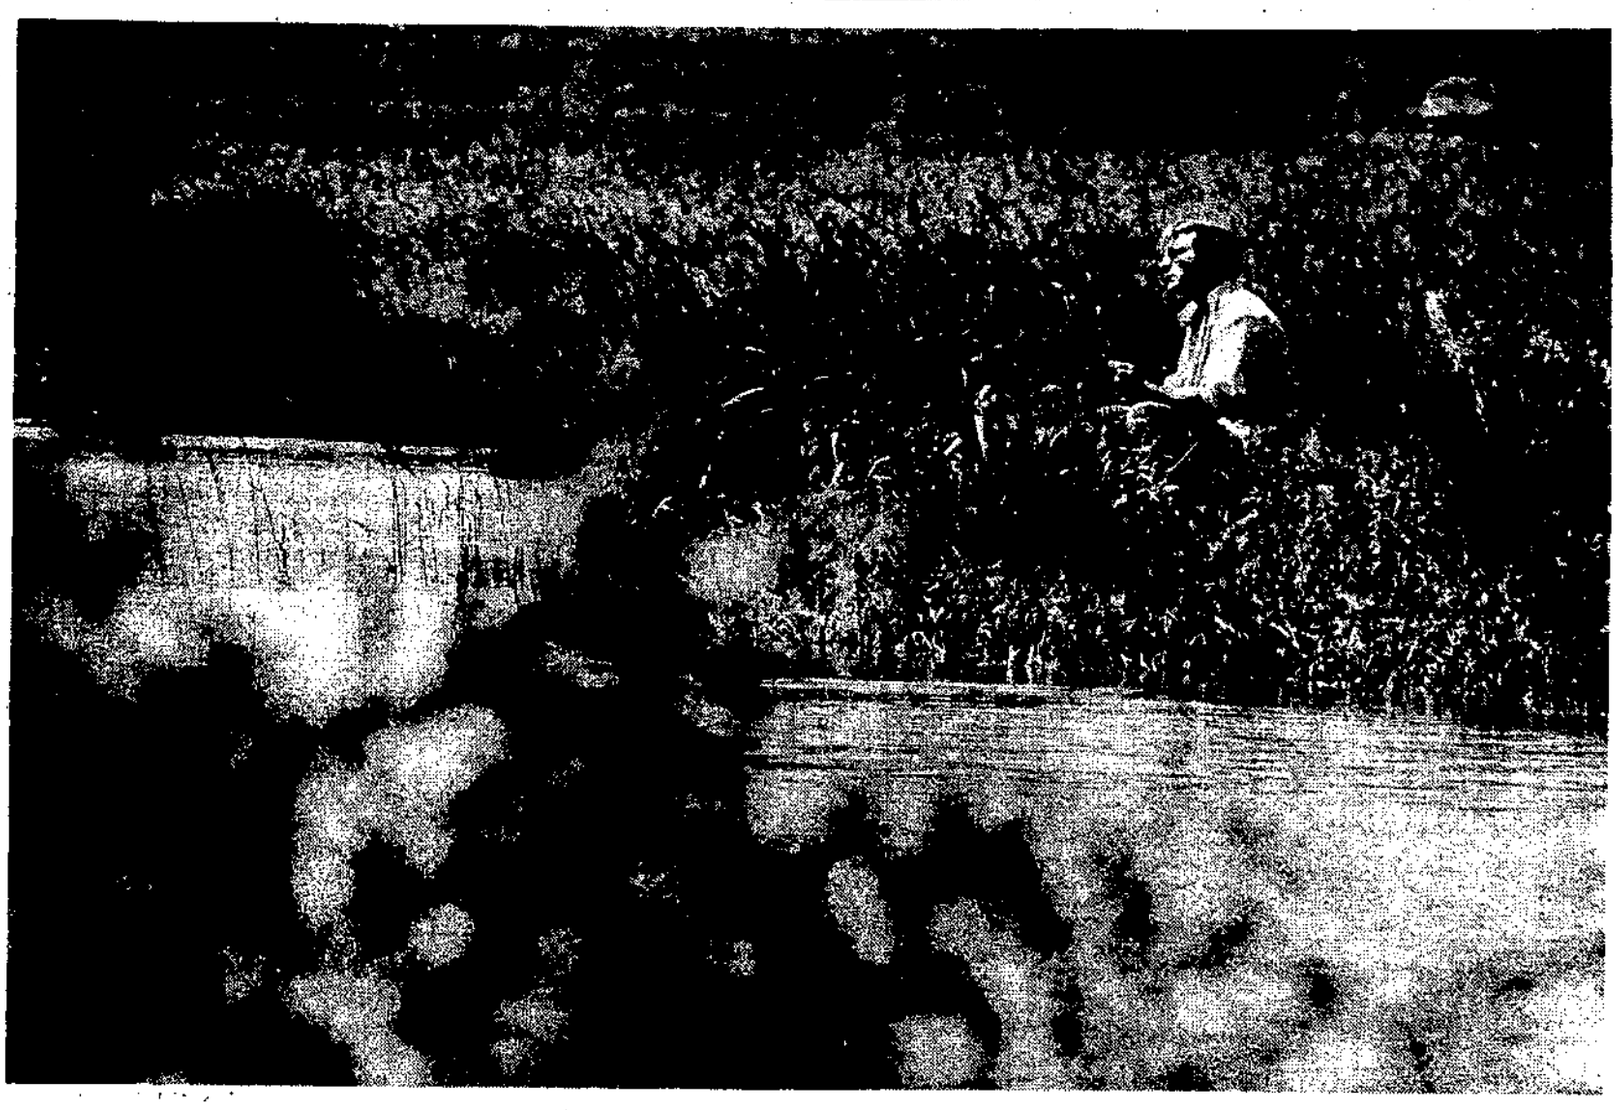
The High School Dist. 214 board of education will begin discussing criteria for setting attendance boundaries for Buffalo Grove High School at its meeting today.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in the district's administration building, 709 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

The board will not receive specific proposals on boundary lines for the new school, according to district officials.

In a report prepared for the board meeting, five criteria in setting boundaries are suggested by a committee composed of three administrators and three citizens from Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights. In the report, the board is asked to decide what priority each item should receive in future considerations.

The five suggested criteria are enrollment balance between high schools; holding student busing to a minimum; disrupting present and future boundaries as little as possible; avoiding splitting up of graduates of the same junior high school, and retention of neighborhood identity.



The only catch is that there may not be one. But how better to laze away a summer day.

Judge Sets Sept. 11 Ruling Date For Zenith Land Suit

Circuit Court Judge Edward F. Healy has set Sept. 11 for his ruling on a lawsuit brought by the Zenith Radio Corp. and Dominion Development Co. against the Village of Mount Prospect.

According to Village Atty. John J. Zimmermann, the trial portion of the lawsuit was completed last week. In the suit, the plaintiffs are asking the court to order the village to allow construction of a neighborhood convenience center at the southwest corner of Central and Mount Prospect roads.

Lawyers from both sides have until Aug. 21 to submit their final written briefs.

Last November, the village board voted to deny a zoning change for the property, which is now zoned residential. at present, two Zenith radio towers, unused since the 1920s, and a transmission building stand on the property.

If the rezoning is ordered by the courts, Dominion will buy the land from Zenith. Dominion, an affiliate of Jewel Inc., would build a center containing a White Hen Pantry store, and possibly a florist and laundry business.

Residents of the area appeared before the village board and the plan commission to object to the project during last fall's public hearings. They said there was no need for that type of center in the area and expressed concern over additional traffic in the already problem intersection.

'Charlie Brown' Set At Oakton

The play "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" will be presented by members of the Oakton Community College Drama Club Friday and Saturday, July 28 and 29, at 8 p.m. A children's matinee will be offered Sunday, July 30, at 2 p.m.

The musical, based on the characters in the comic strip "Peanuts," was written by Charles M. Schultz.

The cast of characters in the play includes Dan Isaac, Skokie as Charlie Brown; Philip Martin, Skokie, as Schroeder; Steve Schneider, Skokie, as Linus; Tom Nelson, Niles, as Snoopy; Laurie Kaminisky, Glenview, as Lucy; and Barb Kennedy, Morton Grove, as Patty. Isaac is also director of the play, and Martin is assistant director.

All performances will be presented in Room 109, Building 1, on the Oakton campus, 7900 N. Nagle, Morton Grove. Admission is $1 for adults, 50 cents for students. The Drama Club will also present Neil Simon's "Come Blow Your Horn" on August 4, 5 and 6.

Youth Head, Guidebook Eyed

glary arrests jumped 117 per cent from 5 in 1970 to 76 in 1971.

ACCORDING TO THE present youth committee chairman, Ald. Kenneth Kehe (2nd), those attending the meeting tomorrow will include the Rev. David Russell, who recently resigned as director from the financially troubled Place for People center.

Lack of funds have forced the center board to cut recreational services, so that the center will only be open on weekends until September.

Rev. Russell has proposed creation of a city youth service that could provide counseling, jobs, legal assistance and medical aid.

This youth bureau could also provide informal activities, similar to the Place for People center, so the young people would be attracted and could come in contact with adults who would help them.

A youth service already has been created by Palatine Township, Rev. Russell said, federal funds for a Des Plaines service may be available, he said.

He also feels that a city youth director could be a source for information and could act as a consultant for community groups, including parent-teacher groups.

A director also could coordinate programs of various local agencies and create new programs where a need exists, he said.

ALSO ATTENDING the meeting will be Dr. Edward Baronowski, director of the Maine Township Mental Health Center, and Sgt. Kenneth Fredricks, police youth officer, according to Kehe.

The city's environmental controls committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in city hall, to discuss final revisions for an environmental handbook.

The 15-page pamphlet will be distributed to all local residents, according to Richard Tabbatt, a member of the citizen's group that has worked with the council committee in creating the rules and guidelines for protecting the environment.

The booklet will provide information on conserving electricity, disposing of sewage, recycling of paper, bottles and cans, use of pesticides and ways of preventing water, air and noise pollution.

Those on the citizens committee are Tabbatt, a member of the Des Plaines Jaycees; Mrs. Edward Prell and Mrs. Stuart Edinoff, of the Des Plaines League of Women Voters; Vivian Kasmerek of the Junior Women's Club; Wayne Quilico of the Cook County Clean Streams organization; Elmer Johnson of the Izaak Walton League; Millie McGee of the Waltonians, and Marvin Martin of the Boy Scout Council of Northwest Cook County.

THE COUNCIL'S Environment Controls Committee, chaired by Ald. Robert Michaels (8th), also is preparing a water pollution ordinance.

The council's fire committee will examine proposed changes in the cost for city fire protection sold to unincorporated areas.

The committee, which will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the mayor's office, 1426 Miner, will examine a proposed hike for the North Maine area, unincorporated Elk Grove Township, including Waycinden Park, and the Park Ridge Manor Fire Protection district.

The Waycinden Park hike has gained the most interest, because residents of that 60-acre subdivision, entirely surrounded by Des Plaines, have been considering annexation to the city. One of the factors in the possible annexation has been the growing cost for services which must be purchased from other governmental districts, according to the Waycinden Park Homeowners Association.

Although no exact proposal for the Waycinden hike has been made public, aldermen have asked that the current tax rate of about 14 cents per $100 assessed valuation be increased, because at present Des Plaines residents pay about 20 cents per $100.

Three council committees will meet to discuss the proposed revision of the 1960 zoning ordinance and the three-volume federally-funded proposed city plan, which was designed to set city priorities until 1990. The committees — municipal development, Building Control and Inspection, City Code and Judiciary — will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight in city hall.

Married Amid Family Move

The entire Alex McConachie family has been on the move this summer.

Daughter Ann Elizabeth was married June 24 to David Jachim of Westmont, Ill., and during all the pre-nuptial planning her parents were in the process of moving from their home in Inverness to an apartment on Golf Road, Des Plaines.

Meanwhile, they were also building a new summer home at Manitowish Waters, Wis.

Ann, a graduate of Palatine High School and Knox College, Galesburg, has been teaching fifth grade in Galesburg this past year. She is now in Charleston, Ill., with her husband while he completes work on a master's degree in psychology.

David is also a graduate of Knox College. His parents are the George Jachims of Westmont.

Mr. and Mrs. David Jachim

THE COUPLE exchanged vows and rings in an 11 a.m. ceremony in St. Anne Church, Barrington. A breakfast followed at Inverness Golf Club for 150 guests.

Ann and David wrote their own ring ceremony, and a friend of the bride, Lonnie Fredenhagen, sang "The Wedding Song," accompanying herself on the guitar.

The bride entered the sanctuary wearing a white voile gown that had rows of smocking and lace over the entire bodice. The skirt flowed into a sweep train edged with a wide flounce.

Ann's long illusion veil was held in place by a circlet of fresh flowers. Her bouquet was a nosegay of tiny pink roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and heather from Scotland.

HER COLLEGE roommate, Mrs. Betsy Bowen of Galesburg, was matron of honor, wearing a lime green voile gown trimmed with white waffle pique. She carried tiny white carnations and baby's breath with a touch of tiny pink carnations. Dressed identically to Betsy was Karen Orndorff of Warren, Mich., as bridesmaid.

Heather Heston, 6, of Northbrook, the bride's cousin, came down the aisle as flower girl. She wore a lime green and white checked gingham dress covered with a white voile pinafore and carried a miniature bouquet of carnations.

Michael Webb of Hinsdale served as David's best man. Ushers were Arthur Ramirez of Iowa City and the couple's brothers, Bruce McConachie, Evanston, and Steve Jachim.

Fashion by Genie

Fifteen girls who are students at area high schools have been named to Wieboldt's Fall '72 Youth Board. They are currently receiving special training in beauty, poise and modeling in anticipation of Wieboldt's August fall fashion show at which time they will all make their professional modeling debuts.

On the board are Jackie Hockin and Carol Christmas, both of Forest View High School; Donna Prokop of Rolling Meadows High School; Debbie Wilkins of Palatine High School and Joan Daniels of Maine West High School.

Also, Joni Brown and Jill Gardzalewski, both of Hersey High School; Mary Ann Gibbons of Prospect High School; Debbie Morris of Fremd High School; Diane Hales of Wheeling High School; and Gerri Geissler and Mary McNamara, both of Elk Grove High School.

THE FASHION show, which will highlight fall and winter styles to help teenagers plan their back-to-school wardrobes, is Aug. 10, 2:30 p.m., at Wieboldt's in Randhurst.

Dee Dee Fischetti, guest editor from Seventeen Magazine, will join Wieboldt's fashion coordinator, Sue Braden, in commentating the show. A popular band will back up the fashion parade with music.

Members of the board were selected on the criteria of beauty, personality, grace and intelligence. They will participate in many activities, including a special community project.

Montgomery Ward is updating its Wendy Ward program, which includes a teenage charm course, with the recent publication of the "Wendy Ward Charm Book."

Accented with photos and illustrations, the 192-page book covers such topics as serving the community, practicing good grooming and understanding a French menu.

Also included are tips about food and nutrition, posture, exercises, modeling, hair and skin care, fashion, conversation and dating.

HELEN JAMES, national director of the Wendy Ward program and author of the book, said it will be used in 125 Ward locations where the Wendy Ward charm course is offered. It will also be available to schools but will not be sold to the public.

Further information is available through the Montgomery Ward Store at Randhurst Shopping Center.

Cancer Recovery Program Updated

The latest techniques in the management of breast cancer, the leading cause of cancer deaths in women, was the concern of a special meeting for more than 75 volunteers of the American Cancer Society's Reach to Recovery program held recently at the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel.

The Reach to Recovery program extends help to the woman who has undergone breast removal in cancer treatment, by training volunteers who have had similar surgery to visit women who have just had a mastectomy to offer them practical advice and psychological reassurance.

THE LOCAL Reach to Recovery program is offered to patients in Holy Family Hospital, Northwest Community Hospital, Lutheran General Hospital and Alexian Brothers Medical Center. Twelve Reach to Recovery visitors participate in the program under the direction of Dr. Melvin I. Gibbel of Arlington Heights and Mrs. David Waltman of Palatine.

For more informatin about the Reach to Recovery program, readers may contact the local office of the American Cancer Society, 11 N. Broadway, Des Plaines, phone 827-0088.

Next On The Agenda

NORTHWEST AAUW

A swim and patio party will be held at the home of Mrs. G. W. Dahl, 1070 Margaret, Des Plaines, at 1 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 9, to benefit the fellowship fund of the Northwest Suburban Branch of the American Association of University Women. Refreshments will follow swimming.

Members, guests and prospective members are invited for the fun.

The fellowship committee planning the party includes Mrs. T. M. Bulger, Mrs. Bruce Graham, both of Arlington Heights; Mrs. W. G. Bechtel, Mrs. J. D. Stanley, both of Park Ridge; Mrs. M. A. Davis, Mrs. James Muldowney and Mrs. E. M. Roschke, all of Des Plaines.

Those wishing further information are asked to contact the fellowship chairman, Mrs. J. A. Sieben, 827-5628.

LA LECHE LEAGUE

The advantages of natural childbirth will be discussed by the La Leche League of Des Plaines-Park Ridge this Wednesday. The group will meet at the home of Mrs. Stephen Paluch, 310 Meacham, Park Ridge, from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m.

Mothers are invited to bring along their babies and children. Wednesday's meeting is the third in a new series of morning meetings. Experienced nursing mothers will also discuss the role of the family in relation to the breastfed baby.

Catholic Women Elect Officers

Officers were elected and installed at the June meeting of St. Stephen's Rosary-Altar Society. Those women who will serve on the new executive board for the next two years include Mrs. Walter Barry, president; Mrs. Joseph Miceli, vice president; Mrs. Gloria Kosmicki, recording secretary; Mrs. William Malloy, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Fred Herdrich, treasurer.

This month marks the 20th anniversary year of St. Stephen's parish. A planning meeting was held last week at the home of Mrs. Barry during which the officers and appointed chairmen set up the calendar of events for the 1972-73 year.

The annual luncheon and fashion show will be held Saturday, Oct. 28, at the Royal Court Inn, it was decided.

All women of St. Stephen's parish are welcome and encouraged to join the Society. For futher information women may call Mrs. Bettie Napier, 824-3575.

For Club Presidents

It's that time again.

New officers have been elected and new publicity chairmen have been appointed for the hundreds of area women's clubs and organizations. To help us keep our files up to date, we ask that each new president fill out the accompanying form and mail it to Paddock Publications as soon as possible so that invitations to our early fall publicity workshop can be mailed to each and every women's group.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: My sister and her family suffered great losses in the "Agnes" storm and flood. Because I applied the advice myself, I remembered what you wrote a couple of years ago about trees ruined in an ice storm being casualty damage and how tax losses could be claimed. Surely this applies here. Have you checked? —Mrs. T. W. Cook.

Yes, it does indeed apply. Because of the enormity of this particular disaster, a rush amendment to the tax law was signed July 1 by President Nixon. It permits the storm and flood victims to claim their losses on last year's tax returns. If a loss exceeds the past year's taxes, it can be treated as a net operating loss and carried back to reduce taxes into the third preceding year. All local tax offices have full information an can help greatly.

One has to remember that it isn't just say-so that carries. It's advisable to have photographs of the damage, to get estimates from an authorized appraiser and to collect any and all records that might be pertinent.

The difference between the house's value before the disaster and the value after would be the amount claimed. Each householder has to absorb the first $100 and deduct any insurance reimbursements. Not being informed, countless people accept casualty damage as an "act of God" about which little can be done. Taxes are often burdensome and dreadfully confusing. But the laws do give a break to casualty losers and the IRS is quite good about helping. Tell your sister to call right away.

Dear Dorothy: Got a speck of something in my eye. It bothered me so much I was about to call a doctor. My daughter suggested I try grating an onion. I did, and within seconds I was in tears and whatever was in my eye washed right out. Never thought I'd enjoy grating onions. — Alma C.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped,self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Dorothy Ritz, Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

7-Run 7th Sets Up Win

All-Stars Romp Past Ridge

BY PAUL LOGAN

There was almost all a fan could ask of an all-star game:

- Slugging (a triple and a double).
- Speed (three stolen bases).
- Drama (several plays at the plate).
- Scoring (14 runs in all).
- Pitching (four fast-moving perfect innings).
- Hitting (10 different stars shared hits).

Still, the word "almost" has to be inserted when discussing the second annual showcasing of American Legion baseball talent by the Ninth District at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights Saturday. Why? Simple. The game between the All-Stars and the league leading Park Ridge team lacked spectator staying power.

Saturday's scorching temperature (near 100 degrees) and not playing on Sunday afternoon helped hold the disappointing crowd to about 200 (500 had been hoped for). But even this gathering couldn't stay united for long following the Stars' seventh.

Only leading 3-2 heading into the frame, the Bob Grybash-managed Stars erupted for seven runs. This sudden rout sent most of the fans scurrying for air conditioned spots. They didn't miss much after that. Both teams pushed across single tallies to make the final nine-inning score 11-3.

Those who had turned out for the show had probably hoped for the excitement of the 1971 matchup. On that much cooler day (a Sunday), a much larger crowd turned out to see an exceptional Logan Square team battle back in the eighth for a 6-4 victory.

Park Ridge has a fine team, but not the caliber of the former Lions. Post 247 kept it close against the first group of Stars, but the "second stringers" finally wore the leaders down. Also, facing one ace after another had to hurt Ridge hitting. Meanwhile, Coach Jerry Romes was using five different hurlers and a free substitution rule to no avail.

The romp appeared to be coming early as the Stars roughed up pitcher Greg Ciezadlo for three runs in the first. Arlington's Bert Newman led off with a single. Then he showed the crowd why he won the pre-game base running contest by going from first to third on a hit-and-run single by Palatine's Dave Hauswirth. (Newman had beaten Hauswirth in the foot race, 14.5 to 14.9.)

Logan Square's Stan Bobowski knocked in Newman with a single and moved to second on an outfield error. Hauswirth scored on a passed ball and Bobowski also made it to home when the catcher's underhand toss eluded the pitcher at the plate.

Ciezadlo settled down after that. He tossed two scoreless innings and chunky Scott Jones blanked the Stars three more.

During that time, Ridge rallied. A fielder's choice by Ciezadlo and a single by Russ Anderson off starter George Pattee of Palatine left runners at first and third in the third. When Anderson's steal of second forced a wild throw by the catcher, Ciezadlo.

Post 247 crept within one in the fifth after Logan Square's Ken Martin had blanked the first-place team in the fourth. With teammate Terry Smith on the mound, the Stars committed two more errors which helped set up the second score. Charlie Fahrner reached on a fielder's choice and moved to second on an infield miscue. Rick Lloyd's single to center was bobbled and allowed Fahrner to score unchallenged.

Following a walk to load the bases, Smith settled down and struck out the next man to end the threat. Mark Leonhard took over the mound duties in the sixth and the husky Arlington thrower blanked Ridge. Then came the fateful seventh.

In what had to be a nightmare for Romes and a delaight for Palatine's Grybash, nine Stars reached base safely. This was how the cakewalk went:

Des Plaines Bob Chen singled off of Jerry Lycholat. Arlington's Pat Broderick reached on an error. Martin then drove in Chen with a single.

A walk to Norwood Park's Rich Wisniewski loaded the bases and Leonhard helped clear off two sacks with a line drive single. Lycholat left in favor of Dave Patterson, pitcher No. 4, but the switch didn't help.

A passed ball moved both runners up and Palatine's Keith Steelman loaded the sacks again with a walk. An attempted force play at the plate went for an error and allowed Palatine's Gary Pemberton to reload the bases.

Arlington's Dave Zare quickly unloaded them with a hefty double to left-center. This made it 10-2. The big blow both dashed Ridge's hopes for a comeback and drove away most of the sweaty spectators.

Ridge tried in vain to rally in the bottom of the inning. Anderson and Steve Sarcia, the only two players to have two hits each, helped set up their team's final run. Anderson, who came into the contest hitting .459, reached on a fielder's choice and moved to third on Sarcia's single.

Fred Parker then drove in the third run with a hit. Leonhard managed to strike out the next hitter to end the inning with the bases full again.

A Wisniewski triple off Fred Parker and a single by Steelman got back a meaningless run in the eighth. Des Plaines' Larry Monroe blanked Ridge the last two innings.

In the bottom if the ninth, one Ridge player was heard to say, "Come on . . . we need seven . . . let's go!" That sort of summed up the long, hot, lopsided game — they were eight runs behind at the time!

Des Plaines Error Costly; Lions Triumph In 8th, 3-2

by JIM COOK

It was a typical Ninth District Legion thriller.

Logan Square and Des Plaines upheld the fast-growing belief that this season is perhaps the most balanced, most wide open and most exciting than any of its predecessors.

Phenomenal pitching, clutch hitting, dazzling fielding, extra-innings — all the ingredients that have characterized the schedule — all year— were present in abundance as Logan Square nipped Des Plaines, 3-2, in eight nervous innings.

Lion southpaw Ken Martin and Des Plaines righthand ace Larry Monroe seemingly took charge of the contest with remote-control like precision.

In fact, Monroe and his mates were but one out away from disposing of the Lions, 2-1, but the "never say die" tradition that has marked the 1972 circuit appeared in the form of an error and tied ball game after regulation time.

Logan Square, given a new lease on life, capitalized on the opportunity in the top of the eighth on Tom Chapman's line single up the middle and Martin's slicing double just inside the rightfield foul line.

Prior to the overtime excitement, the contest was spiced by pitching and defense. After going down in order to Monroe in the first, the Lions parlayed Stan Bobowski's single, a fielder's choice by Craig Zander, a wild pitch, infield out and Jim Bucaro's field base hit to right for the game's initial tally.

Des Plaines finally solved Martin the second time through the batting order as Rich Luzinski coaxed a pass to leadoff the fourth and was promptly powered home by Randy Jespersen's booming triple to straightaway center. One out later, Steve Scholten boosted his team into a 2-1 advantage with a sacrifice fly to center.

Logan Square seemed doomed to defeat upon entering the seventh. But with one down, Zander raised Lion hopes by drawing Monroe's second pass.

On an attempted pickoff moments later, though, Monroe threw the ball away at first and permitted Zander run-scoring position at second. A wild pitch enabled Zander to claim third, but Monroe, under immense pressure, got Ed Collins On strikes and appeared to be out of the fire when Bucaro hammered a one-hopper to third.

The ball was underthrown at first, though, and Zander crossed with the tying marker. It was all Logan Square needed to bail the decision out of the eighth.

Pitching-wise, the clash was a masterpiece. Monroe, undeservedly tagged with the loss, yielded just five hits and two walks while fanning eight and setting down 12 straight at one stretch.

Martin, meanwhile, was equally superb. The little lefty seemed to get stronger in the late innings as he passed four, and was touched for four safeties. Ken recorded 11 strikeouts and knocked down the final eight hitters he faced including the final five on strikes!

But performances like these are becoming the rule in Ninth District action.

Heavy Schedule Tightens Mid-Teen

A heavy schedule of five games was played in the Des Plaines Mid-Teen League in the short period from Thursday through Saturday as the regular-season second half moved towards its final week.

Four of the games were in the American League, which saw Allen's lose its first two games of the second half but also pick up a win and remain in first place by a game and a half over Johnson Sports. Johnson picked up ground by edging Allen's 5-4 and slaughtering Bantam 14-4. Allen's blanked Optimists 5-0 after losing to Bantam 2-0.

In the only National League contest, First National Bank broke a first-place deadlock with Kunkel Realty by downing Kunkel 9-3. The Realtors, who were 8-0 for the first half, took only their second loss of the entire summer.

In a later game Mark Ackerman pitched a four-hitter as First National blew the game open with seven runs in the third and fourth innings. Big blows were a three-run home run by Ackerman and bases-loadel double by Zierke. For Kunkel, Sean Dowd drove in one run with a single and Mike Kowalewski another with a sacrifice fly.

First National	004	310	1	—9-9-0
Kunkel Realty	010	110	0	—3-4-3

Steve Solarz and Frank Mitchell teamed up to toss a shutout for Bantam against Allen, 2-0. Bill Slapke was four for four including a triple in a losing cause. Carl Sjostrand singled in one of Bantam's runs and the other scored on an error.

Bantam	010	010	0	—2-4-2
Allen's	000	000	0	—0-7-3

Allen's bounced back the next day to blank the Optimists, 5-0 as Jim Olsen pitched a six-hit shutout. Slapke and Olsen each were two for three. Mike Paul singled in two runs and Jeff Myers doubled in a pair.

Optimists	000	000	0	—0-6-0
Allen's	000	050	0	—5-8-0

Johnson handed Allen's its second loss Saturday after falling behind 4-0 in the first inning but coming back for a 5-4 victory. Ralph Amelio went all the way for the win. Myers and Bill Slapke pitched for Allen's. Gary Slipke doubled for the only extra-base hit for Johnson. Allen's got its four runs on no hits in the first (Three on the same error) and managed just two hits for the game.

Johnson	021	200	0	—5-7-1
Allen's	400	000	0	—4-2-3

Johnson routed Bantam 14-4, coasting after a six-run second. Steve Zuccarini went the distance for the victory. Johnson mounted a 12-hit attack that included a three-run double by Ken Ford. A succession of singles and four errors also helped.

Johnson	062	100	5	—14-12-1
